General Draws Big, Enthusiastic Crowds In Texas

Four 'Cornerstones' For Peace Laid Down

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., Oct. 14 (AP) — Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, speaking at a hallowed battle shrine of America — the Alamo — pledged himself tonight to create such strength that the Soviet Union will not dare another Korea.

Bringing his hard-driving presidential campaign through Texas to a peak, Eisenhower told his audience in San Antonio in a speech prepared for delivery:

"It wont bring any comfort to any American house to fix Korea and have as bad or worse trouble break out in another place. We can come to a lasting solution for Korea only when the Kremlin is made to realize that there is a will and a strength in the free world that it no longer can challenge in any quarter of the globe.

"The pledge of this crusade is to revive that will and to create that strength."

San Antonio was the fourth Texas city visited by Eisenhower today.

He drew big, and apparently enthusiastic crowds all along the route.

Until he came to San Antonio, Eisenhower had been pressing mainly two lines of argument:

1. His unqualified support for state ownership of submerged land properties.

2. A taunting declaration to the Texans that the Democratic Party considers all Southern states "in the bag," and a challenge to them to break out of it.

But in the night speech in San Antonio, Eisenhower discussed the problem of world peace.

He laid down four "cornerstones" on which he said continuing peace must be built. They were:

1. A strong America, economically, militarily and spiritually.

2. A national leadership in Washington that commands the respect of the nation as a whole.

3. Free allies with whom bonds of friendship have been cemented in times of peace.

4. The United Nations, which he said "can be — must be — made a workable road to world peace.

Adlai Says Ike Chants Theme Song Of Kremlin

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah., Oct. 14 (AP)—Gov. Adlai Stevenson tonight accused Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower of chanting the theme song of the Kremlin in contending that America's prosperity is based on war and rearmament.

Stevenson, the Democratic presidential nominee, also declared that Eisenhower — his GOP rival for the White House — has resorted to "mean motives" and has dipped "somewhere near the low-water mark" in an effort to win the November election.

In a speech prepared for delivery at the Mormon Tabernacle, the Illinois governor ripped at Eisenhower more scathingly than at any time during the campaign.

Stevenson denounced anew what he calls the general's surrender to GOP Sen. Robert A. Taft of Ohio who bid unsuccessfully for the nomination Eisenhower won.

And the governor added that "because of that surrender our role in world history is challenged in this election."

On the first leg of a 6,000 mile campaign tour of five Western states and Texas, Stevenson flew this morning from his home base at Springfield, Ill., and made a mid-day speech at Casper, Wyo., on the way to Salt Lake City.

In Casper he said "Republican bosses have fought with blind fury" against all prosperity programs and have opposed "every measure to build America's alliances against the Communist conspiracy."

The GOP opposition under Eisenhower prefers "slogans, emotion and confetti" to discussion of the issues, the governor added.

4,400 Russian Planes Given To Korean Reds

WASHINGTON, Oct. 14. (AP)—Air Force Secretary Finletter said today Russia has contributed about 4,400 airplanes to the Reds in Korea.

He also told a news conference that the major Communist anti-aircraft batteries in Korea "appear to be operated by—or under the control of—Soviet technicians.

Ike Celebrates 62nd Birthday

Gen. Dwight Eisenhower, GOP presidential nominee, and his wife Mamie had a private birthday cake aboard their train for the general. The cake had only one candle and Ike blew it out. Eisenhower, 62 years old yesterday, spoke in several Texas cities in his southern campaign tour.

Theater Owner Held In Brutal Slaying Of Four

RENO, Nev., Oct. 14 (AP) —Nevada officers this afternoon held a next-door neighbor of Guard Young, Chester, Calif., grocer, who was beaten to death last Friday together with three children. They acted at the request of California authorities.

Washoe County (Reno) Sheriff George Lothrop identified the man as Louis Edmond Blair, about 45, the owner of Chester's only movie theater.

Waives Extradition

Blair, picked up at a roadblock north of Reno as he drove away from the Chester area, denied all knowledge of the mass robbery slayings at Chester. He waived extradition to California even before any charges had been filed.

Asked by newsmen if he knew Young, who was found beaten to death with his daughters, Jean, 7, Judy, 6, and a neighbor boy, Michael Saile, 4, near Chester Saturday, Blair replied:

"Sure I knew them—I knew the whole family."

Had "Feud" With Young

However, he denied knowing Young made a regular Friday trip to the bank at Westwood, 14 miles away, and said he was at home last Friday when the grocer and the children were killed after Young drew out $7,128 from the bank.

Asked if he knew why California authorities should request that he be held, Blair said:

"I had a feud with Young a while back over property—but it was unimportant. I've got lots of other ideas, too, but why didn't they ask me while I was up there?"

"If I'm guilty, I hope they tar and feather me—put that in the paper."

TV Fans Protest As Adlai Replaces Wrestling Shows

BALTIMORE, Oct. 14 (AP)—Governor Stevenson's television speeches are gaining him no votes among one vociferously irate segment of the Baltimore's TV-viewing public.

Twice now, WMAR-TV has cancelled wrestling shows from the Coliseum here in favor of speeches by the Democratic standard-bearer. The reaction was prompt, ranging from mildly critical to outraged.

One caller told the station operator:

"If you don't put the wrestling matches back on, I think I'll call the Police Department."

He did too, but learned that there were no legal steps to make the station go back to wrestling.

UMW Approves $20 Assessment

CINCINNATI, Oct. 14 (AP) — The United Mine Workers convention today voted to tax the union's members with a $20 special assessment for "future contingencies."

The 2,800 delegates quickly approved the move initiated by Union President John L. Lewis who — declining to be specific on why the money was needed — commented "those who dance must pay the fiddlers."

The assessment is estimated to yield about $8,000,000 for the union's treasury which, as of last June 30, had a $34,000,000 balance, a sum larger than of any other labor union in the country.

Lewis said only the money was needed 'to replenish the treasury, burdened by recent heavy disbursements, and to provide for future contingencies." Newsmen asking for a fuller explanation, were told by Lewis "The statement speaks for itself."

29,500-Ton Tanker

BALTIMORE, Oct. 14 (AP)—The biggest ship ever built in the port of Baltimore, a 645-foot super-tanker with a dead weight of 29,500 tons, will be christened here tomorrow.

Grammer Loved Another Woman, State Contends

BALTIMORE, Oct. 14 (AP)—The state told a story today of a man "hopelessly in love" with another woman and offered it as the motive in the bizarre killing of Mrs. Dorothy May Grammer.

George Edward Grammer, 35-year-old New York office manager, was put on trial charged with his wife's murder.

State's Atty. Anselm Sodaro identified the other woman as 28-year-old Mathilda Mizibrocky, a Canadian employed at United Nations headquarters in New York. Then he told the court:

Letters To Be Offered

"Letters from the defendant to Miss Mizibrocky will be offered in evidence, which clearly indicate that Grammer was hopelessly in love with her and that he intended to marry her."

Mrs. Grammer, 33-year-old mother of three children, was found in her car — a $3,000 gift from her husband — about 12:30 a. m., Aug. 20. She was pronounced dead at a hospital.

The case was first reported as a traffic accident. Investigation resulted in the filing of a murder charge against Grammer less than two weeks later.

Miss Mizibrocky had not been officially identified until Sodaro made his opening statement. When she testified before the Baltimore city grand jury, she was listed as the "woman in the red hat."

Judge Moser Trying Case

Judge Herman M. Moser is trying the case without a jury. He was told by Sodaro the state will show that Grammer and Miss Mizibrocky fell in love after a chance meeting last November in a New York bowling alley.

The state's attorney said he will prove the couple stayed as man and wife at the Edgewater Beach Hotel in Chicago from last July 25 to Aug. 4.

For the first time in the history of the Baltimore courthouse, colored slides of a victim were shown. They showed the dead woman's bruised and battered head.

U. S. Attorney Who Earned $86,517 In Fees Sidelined

WASHINGTON, Oct. 14 (AP) — Howard L. Doyle, who recently told House investigators he earned $86,517 in outside legal fees while a U. S. attorney in Illinois and overlooked $5,000 of this sum in his income tax returns, has been relieved of his duties pending an investigation.

The Justice Department said today Doyle had been relieved at his own request. The department's statement was issued after Attorney General McGranery talked with Doyle by telephone.

Doyle, 58, has been the federal prosecutor for the Southern District of Illinois since 1935. His headquarters have been at Springfield.

Last Thursday he appeared before a House Judiciary subcommittee and testified that he earned in excess of $86,000 in outside private law practice between 1945 and 1950.

The prosecutor said the practice was wholly permissible under federal regulations because he did not neglect his official duties and never handled cases which conflicted with the interests of the federal government.

Pollack Announces Support Of Stevenson

BALTIMORE, Oct. 14 (AP)—James H. Pollack, Democratic leader in Baltimore's Fourth District who has often differed with the party's state signal-callers, today broke his silence on the question and announced his support of Adlai Stevenson for President.

His position had been uncertain for months, especially after his latest tiff with other party leaders at the July nominating convention in Chicago.

He was denied a seat in the Maryland delegation to the convention.

Yanks' Central Front Attack Slowed Down

Chinese Pour Fresh Troops Into Battle

SEOUL, Wednesday, Oct. 15 (AP) — U. S. Seventh Division troops, attacking through mist and fog, stormed to the top of Triangle Hill in Central Korea today.

SEOUL, Wednesday, Oct. 15. (AP)—Reinforced Chinese Reds lashed back last night at U. S. Seventh Division and South Korean Second Division troops attacking in Central Korea. The furious Red counter-thrusts forced some Allied withdrawals.

The Eighth Army disclosed today that the U. S. Seventh was the attacking force against Triangle Hill, north of Kumha in the old Iron Triangle. Just to the east, the Republic of Korea (ROK) Second Division battled for Sniper Hill.

Last night's withdrawal under the sheer weight of Red reinforcements was made by the ROK Second on Sniper Hill after a two-hour battle.

Biggest Attack In 11 Months

At the same time, units of the Seventh on the steep, sandy slopes of Triangle Hill were hit by Reds under cover of heavy Communist artillery and mortar fire.

Whether any Seventh units retired was not made clear but a division briefing officer said "the main thing was to kill as many Chinks as we could."

Both forces scored initial successes in Tuesday's attack, the biggest by the Allies in 11 months. Seventh Division units even got to the crest of Triangle but had to fall back. However the attackers won two footholds.

Today AP War Correspondent Milo Farneti reported that two Chinese battalions, about 1,400 men, struck back at Allied infantrymen who were moving in from two flanks. Farneti said the Allies had to give ground but he did not report the extent of the withdrawal.

Reds Step Up Artillery Fire

Both sides used heavy artillery barrages. The Reds Tuesday stepped up artillery fire to 20,000 rounds, more than double that for Monday.

Triangle Hill is at the eastern base of the old Iron Triangle.

At the western end, South Korean Ninth Division troops, northwest of Chorwon, increased their hold on the Three Sisters—a series of knobs extending down the northwest ridge of bloody White Horse Mountain.

The South Koreans astride White Horse today began their ninth straight day of fighting. At last reports they were only 50 yards from the first of the Three Sisters.

Elizabeth Plans Australian Visit

LONDON, Oct. 4 (AP) — Queen Elizabeth II and the Duke of Edinburgh, whose tour of British Commonwealth nations last winter was cut short by the death of King George VI, plan to leave in December, 1953, for a visit to Australia, New Zealand and Ceylon.

They will be gone about four months.

As the heiress presumptive to the British throne, Elizabeth was in Kenya Colony, Africa, with her sailor husband when she received the news of her father's death last Feb. 6. She postponed plans at that time to tour Ceylon, Australia and New Zealand and returned to London immediately to take up the burdens of rule.

The projected trip will be the first time a reigning British monarch has ever visited Australia or New Zealand.

Divorcee Is Refused Release From Jail

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 14. (AP)—A judge refused to release Mrs. Virginia Le Tourneau from jail today because, he said, he would be "ill advised" to let her return to a home across the street from the youth with whom she made a 10,000-mile "love trip."

The blonde divorcee, who has served two months of a 120-day sentence for contributing to the delinquency of 17-year-old Jimmy Sherwin, was in court seeking modification of her sentence. She was accompanied by her husband, Armand Le Tourneau, with whom she became reconciled after her headline-making journey.

Comparison Of Reports

NEW YORK, Oct. 14 (AP)—Here is a comparison taken from the 10-year financial accountings of the two presidential candidates, Republican Dwight D. Eisenhower and Democrat Adlai E. Stevenson:

Gross income	—Eisenhower	$888,303,	Stevenson $500,052.
Taxes	—Eisenhower	$217,082,	Stevenson $211,980.
Net income	—Eisenhower	$643,148,	Stevenson $288,066.

Eisenhower's greatest source of income was his $476,250 net on his book, "Crusade in Europe." Exclusive of this, his net income for the 10 years was $166,898.

Stalin Pledges Soviet Support To Communists All Over World

MOSCOW, Wednesday, Oct. 15 (AP)—Prime Minister Joseph Stalin, in an address at the closing session of the 19th Communist Party Congress last night, pledged Russian support to Communist Parties all over the world in a fight for "liberation and preservation of peace."

His speech was greeted by "stormy and prolonged applause turning into an ovation," the Moscow radio said.

The 72-year-old leader also appealed for support from Communist Parties abroad.

"The party and our country always needed and will need the trust, sympathy and support of fraternal peoples abroad," he declared.

"When British workers in 1918-19, during the armed attack of the British bourgeoisie on the Soviet Union, organized the struggle against the war under the slogan, "Hands Off Russia," it was support first for the struggle of the British people for peace, and also support for the Soviet Union," Stalin said.

"When Comrade Thorez (the French Communist leader who is attending the congress) or Comrade Togliatti (the Italian Communist chief) state that their peoples will not wage war against the peoples of the Soviet Union, this is support—first of all support to the workers and peasants of France and Italy fighting for peace, and also support for the peace-loving efforts of the Soviet Union," Stalin went on.

Stalin identified the interests of the Soviet Union with the parties abroad by declaring "the interests of our party not only do not contradict, but on the contrary, merge with the interests of peace-loving peoples."

Stalin said the interests of the Soviet Union "generally are indivisible from the cause of peace the world over."

"It stands to reason," he added, "that our party cannot be in debt to the fraternal parties and must in turn give them support and also support their peoples in the fight for liberation and for preservation of peace."

Stalin said that after the 1917 revolution Communists abroad had given the Russian party the name of "shock brigade of the world revolutionary and workers movement."

The fraternal parties abroad in this way expressed the hope that Communist successes in Russia would alleviate the position of peoples "languishing under capitalist oppression," he explained.

Korea Truce Pleas Open U. N. Session

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y., Oct. 14 (AP)—Two veteran United Nations leaders opened the seventh U. N. General Assembly today with appeals for delegates of East and West alike to work unceasingly for an armistice in Korea.

Lester B. Pearson, of Canada, chosen as the new president of the Assembly, joined Luis Padilla Nervo of Mexico, the retiring president, in down-to-earth warnings that cold war problems everywhere must be settled or the world faces the ultimate tragedy of a ruinous war.

In an air of diplomatic gloom, the Assembly convened at 11:20 a. m. Eastern Standard Time in the bright, gay new 12½ million dollar hall.

Realistic Approach

The speeches of Padilla Nervo and Pearson, Canada's foreign secretary, furnished what many delegates called a realistic approach to the tense international situation.

Despite their pleas, there was no sign of a break in the East-West stalemate on any other of the problems affecting the U. N.

Secretary of State Dean Acheson, the last principal delegate to arrive in the buzzing hall for the Assembly start, and Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Y. Vishinsky did not speak. They made no sign of recognition and immediately started what was obviously a game of watchful waiting.

Acheson May Delay Address

Acheson had been slated to speak tomorrow with a demand for the Assembly to appeal to the Reds for an armistice in Korea on U. N. terms. But the word was passed in the afternoon that he would speak later—and no definite time was given.

Some delegates speculated Acheson would withhold a resolution on the Korean situation until Vishinsky has made his opening address to the Assembly. Acheson wants to see just what Vishinsky has to offer. There was speculation the Russian would put up another peace plan—but Vishinsky refused to tip his hand.

Vishinsky even remained silent as the Assembly convened and did not demand the expulsion of Nationalist China. Such a Russian proposal has become routine at U. N. meetings.

Baltimore To Increase Force Of Lady Cops

BALTIMORE, Oct. 14 (AP)—Commissioner Beverly Ober reported today the Police Department's lady traffic cops are doing all right, so another 64 will be added to the force.

The Department has been using 43 women to direct traffic at street intersections near schools, thereby relieving regular partlomen for full-time duty on other assignments.

Baby Kidnaped From Hospital

NEW YORK, Oct. 14 (AP)—An international hunt was on today for a dark-haired woman who kidnaped a five-day-old baby girl from Bellevue Hospital by casually asking for it by name.

Twenty-four hours later, the infant's mother, Mrs. Anna Hernandez, 39, showed up from another part of the hospital to claim the child and was told it already had been called for. She collapsed, shreiking:

"Oh, my baby, my baby."

A routine alarm was flashed through 13 northeastern states. In addition—since the parents are Puerto Rican — authorities were alerted in Florida, Puerto Rico, Cuba and Mexico against any attempt to get the child out of the country.

Electronic Robot To Predict Election Results For TV Fans

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 14 (AP) — Univac, an electronic robot eight feet tall, will forecast election results for television viewers when returns start coming in the night of Nov. 4.

The $600,000 electronic computer will be used by CBS television to see whether its prodigious capacity for making calculations and analyses will make it possible to indicate the final outcome with a fair degree of accuracy on the basis of incomplete returns.

Officials of Remington Rand, which built the machine, emphasize that it isn't psychic. But they and CBS say it will make possible comparisons on a scale and at a speed that would be impossible by conventional methods.

From now until election night, the machine will be fed data on hour-by-hour election totals of 1944 and 1948 for each of the 48 states and more detailed data on eight key states.

On the night of Nov. 4 the machine then will be given, for instance, the 9 p. m. returns from Pennsylvania. Univac, short for universal automatic computer, then will take the figure, compare it with the 9 p. m. totals of the 1944 and 1948 elections, and report on an electric typewriter its forecast of what the final 1952 totals will be from the state.

General Says Book Earned Him $635,000

Reports $217,082 Paid Out In Taxes

NEW YORK, Oct. 14 (AP)—Dwight D. Eisenhower made public today income for the past 10 years totalling $888,303, of which $635,000 came from his book, "Crusade in Europe."

He said he paid $217,082 in taxes, leaving him a net income of $643,148. Without the book, Eisenhower's net was $166,898.

The Republican presidential candidate added in a statement released here by his executive assistant, Arthur Vandenberg Jr.:

"I am now, in every sense of the word a private citizen, and without income except from investments."

Eisenhower's revelation followed a similar financial statement by his Democratic opponent, Gov. Adlai E. Stevenson.

Book Income Capital Gain

Eisenhower recognized "some curiosity about the publication of my book" and therefore listed his income from that source separately.

Because he qualified as a non-professional writer, the general was allowed to list the income from the book as a capital gain rather than as income. This cut down the tax on it considerably.

Eisenhower said he sold all rights to the book—an account of his World War II leadership of Allied armies in Europe—for $635,000. He paid $158,750 capital gains tax on this.

Thus, he said, his net on the book was $476,250.

During six years in uniform that ended December 31, 1947, Eisenhower served as Supreme Allied Commander in Europe and later as post-war Army chief of staff.

Earned $59,976 As Soldier

His income for those years, he said, was $59,976, mostly in salaries. After taxes, he said he had $47,453 left.

The next four years ending December 31, 1951, cover his nearly three years as president of Columbia University plus a year of service as military commander in Europe of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

Eisenhower listed for those years an income exclusive of his book of $193,327, on which he paid $48,616 in federal income taxes. This left him a net income of $119,444 not including the proceeds of the book.

Eisenhower said he and his wife had filed joint income tax returns for the 10 years period and the figures thus represent their joint income.

Price Lids Back On Radio Parts

WASHINGTON, Oct. 14 (AP)—The government tonight ordered price ceilings restored on radio, television and phonograph parts to protect consumers on charges for repairs.

The action is the first taken by the Office of Price Stabilization to recontrol items on which ceilings had been suspended. These parts were suspended from controls Aug. 29, along with radio and television sets and phonographs.

OPS said controls were lifted on the parts on the basis that these prices normally follow prices of the sets themselves.

OPS said since that time it has found price controls are ineffective on repair services for radio and TV receivers unless the parts that enter into such repairs are also controlled.

OPS also said a check has shown that many of the parts used in the sets are not made by radio and TV manufacturers. They are made by other producers and are used also in many products still under controls. The agency said this made enforcement on controls on these other products difficult.

WSB Launches Study Of Miners' Pay Boost

WASHINGTON, Oct. 14 (AP)—The Wage Stabilization Board opened formal study tonight of the $1.90 daily wage increase recently won by John L. Lewis for 350,000 soft coal miners.

The question before Chairman Archibald Cox and the board is the increase approval under anti-inflation wage regulations.

Already several thousand miners have quit their jobs in protest against the failure of mine operators to pay the higher wage in pay checks now falling due. The contract was effective as of Oct. 1 but soft coal producers said they could not legally pay the higher wage until the WSB officially approves their new one year contract with Lewis.

Letters To Be Offered

"Letters from the defendant to Miss Mizibrocky will be offered in evidence, which clearly indicate that Grammer was hopelessly in love with her and that he intended to marry her."

Mrs. Grammer, 33-year-old mother of three children, was found in her car — a $3,000 gift from her husband — about 12:30 a. m., Aug. 20. She was pronounced dead at a hospital.

The case was first reported as a traffic accident. Investigation resulted in the filing of a murder charge against Grammer less than two weeks later.

Miss Mizibrocky had not been officially identified until Sodaro made his opening statement. When she testified before the Baltimore city grand jury, she was listed as the "woman in the red hat."

Judge Moser Trying Case

Judge Herman M. Moser is trying the case without a jury. He was told by Sodaro the state will show that Grammer and Miss Mizibrocky fell in love after a chance meeting last November in a New York bowling alley.

The state's attorney said he will prove the couple stayed as man and wife at the Edgewater Beach Hotel in Chicago from last July 25 to Aug. 4.

For the first time in the history of the Baltimore courthouse, colored slides of a victim were shown. They showed the dead woman's bruised and battered head.

U. S. Attorney Who Earned $86,517 In Fees Sidelined

WASHINGTON, Oct. 14 (AP) — Howard L. Doyle, who recently told House investigators he earned $86,517 in outside legal fees while a U. S. attorney in Illinois and overlooked $5,000 of this sum in his income tax returns, has been relieved of his duties pending an investigation.

The Justice Department said today Doyle had been relieved at his own request. The department's statement was issued after Attorney General McGranery talked with Doyle by telephone.

Doyle, 58, has been the federal prosecutor for the Southern District of Illinois since 1935. His headquarters have been at Springfield.

Last Thursday he appeared before a House Judiciary subcommittee and testified that he earned in excess of $86,000 in outside private law practice between 1945 and 1950.

The prosecutor said the practice was wholly permissible under federal regulations because he did not neglect his official duties and never handled cases which conflicted with the interests of the federal government.

Pollack Announces Support Of Stevenson

BALTIMORE, Oct. 14 (AP)—James H. Pollack, Democratic leader in Baltimore's Fourth District who has often differed with the party's state signal-callers, today broke his silence on the question and announced his support of Adlai Stevenson for President.

His position had been uncertain for months, especially after his latest tiff with other party leaders at the July nominating convention in Chicago.

He was denied a seat in the Maryland delegation to the convention.

Yanks' Central Front Attack Slowed Down

Chinese Pour Fresh Troops Into Battle

SEOUL, Wednesday, Oct. 15 (AP) — U. S. Seventh Division troops, attacking through mist and fog, stormed to the top of Triangle Hill in Central Korea today.

SEOUL, Wednesday, Oct. 15. (AP)—Reinforced Chinese Reds lashed back last night at U. S. Seventh Division and South Korean Second Division troops attacking in Central Korea. The furious Red counter-thrusts forced some Allied withdrawals.

The Eighth Army disclosed today that the U. S. Seventh was the attacking force against Triangle Hill, north of Kumha in the old Iron Triangle. Just to the east, the Republic of Korea (ROK) Second Division battled for Sniper Hill.

Last night's withdrawal under the sheer weight of Red reinforcements was made by the ROK Second on Sniper Hill after a two-hour battle.

Biggest Attack In 11 Months

At the same time, units of the Seventh on the steep, sandy slopes of Triangle Hill were hit by Reds under cover of heavy Communist artillery and mortar fire.

Whether any Seventh units retired was not made clear but a division briefing officer said "the main thing was to kill as many Chinks as we could."

Both forces scored initial successes in Tuesday's attack, the biggest by the Allies in 11 months. Seventh Division units even got to the crest of Triangle but had to fall back. However the attackers won two footholds.

Today AP War Correspondent Milo Farneti reported that two Chinese battalions, about 1,400 men, struck back at Allied infantrymen who were moving in from two flanks. Farneti said the Allies had to give ground but he did not report the extent of the withdrawal.

Reds Step Up Artillery Fire

Both sides used heavy artillery barrages. The Reds Tuesday stepped up artillery fire to 20,000 rounds, more than double that for Monday.

Triangle Hill is at the eastern base of the old Iron Triangle.

At the western end, South Korean Ninth Division troops, northwest of Chorwon, increased their hold on the Three Sisters—a series of knobs extending down the northwest ridge of bloody White Horse Mountain.

The South Koreans astride White Horse today began their ninth straight day of fighting. At last reports they were only 50 yards from the first of the Three Sisters.

Elizabeth Plans Australian Visit

LONDON, Oct. 4 (AP) — Queen Elizabeth II and the Duke of Edinburgh, whose tour of British Commonwealth nations last winter was cut short by the death of King George VI, plan to leave in December, 1953, for a visit to Australia, New Zealand and Ceylon.

They will be gone about four months.

As the heiress presumptive to the British throne, Elizabeth was in Kenya Colony, Africa, with her sailor husband when she received the news of her father's death last Feb. 6. She postponed plans at that time to tour Ceylon, Australia and New Zealand and returned to London immediately to take up the burdens of rule.

The projected trip will be the first time a reigning British monarch has ever visited Australia or New Zealand.

Divorcee Is Refused Release From Jail

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 14. (AP)—A judge refused to release Mrs. Virginia Le Tourneau from jail today because, he said, he would be "ill advised" to let her return to a home across the street from the youth with whom she made a 10,000-mile "love trip."

The blonde divorcee, who has served two months of a 120-day sentence for contributing to the delinquency of 17-year-old Jimmy Sherwin, was in court seeking modification of her sentence. She was accompanied by her husband, Armand Le Tourneau, with whom she became reconciled after her headline-making journey.

Comparison Of Reports

NEW YORK, Oct. 14 (AP)—Here is a comparison taken from the 10-year financial accountings of the two presidential candidates, Republican Dwight D. Eisenhower and Democrat Adlai E. Stevenson:

Gross income	—Eisenhower	$888,303,	Stevenson $500,052.
Taxes	—Eisenhower	$217,082,	Stevenson $211,980.
Net income	—Eisenhower	$643,148,	Stevenson $288,066.

Eisenhower's greatest source of income was his $476,250 net on his book, "Crusade in Europe." Exclusive of this, his net income for the 10 years was $166,898.

Stalin Pledges Soviet Support To Communists All Over World

MOSCOW, Wednesday, Oct. 15 (AP)—Prime Minister Joseph Stalin, in an address at the closing session of the 19th Communist Party Congress last night, pledged Russian support to Communist Parties all over the world in a fight for "liberation and preservation of peace."

His speech was greeted by "stormy and prolonged applause turning into an ovation," the Moscow radio said.

The 72-year-old leader also appealed for support from Communist Parties abroad.

"The party and our country always needed and will need the trust, sympathy and support of fraternal peoples abroad," he declared.

"When British workers in 1918-19, during the armed attack of the British bourgeoisie on the Soviet Union, organized the struggle against the war under the slogan, "Hands Off Russia," it was support first for the struggle of the British people for peace, and also support for the Soviet Union," Stalin said.

"When Comrade Thorez (the French Communist leader who is attending the congress) or Comrade Togliatti (the Italian Communist chief) state that their peoples will not wage war against the peoples of the Soviet Union, this is support—first of all support to the workers and peasants of France and Italy fighting for peace, and also support for the peace-loving efforts of the Soviet Union," Stalin went on.

Stalin identified the interests of the Soviet Union with the parties abroad by declaring "the interests of our party not only do not contradict, but on the contrary, merge with the interests of peace-loving peoples."

Stalin said the interests of the Soviet Union "generally are indivisible from the cause of peace the world over."

"It stands to reason," he added, "that our party cannot be in debt to the fraternal parties and must in turn give them support and also support their peoples in the fight for liberation and for preservation of peace."

Stalin said that after the 1917 revolution Communists abroad had given the Russian party the name of "shock brigade of the world revolutionary and workers movement."

The fraternal parties abroad in this way expressed the hope that Communist successes in Russia would alleviate the position of peoples "languishing under capitalist oppression," he explained.

Korea Truce Pleas Open U. N. Session

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y., Oct. 14 (AP)—Two veteran United Nations leaders opened the seventh U. N. General Assembly today with appeals for delegates of East and West alike to work unceasingly for an armistice in Korea.

Lester B. Pearson, of Canada, chosen as the new president of the Assembly, joined Luis Padilla Nervo of Mexico, the retiring president, in down-to-earth warnings that cold war problems everywhere must be settled or the world faces the ultimate tragedy of a ruinous war.

In an air of diplomatic gloom, the Assembly convened at 11:20 a. m. Eastern Standard Time in the bright, gay new 12½ million dollar hall.

Realistic Approach

The speeches of Padilla Nervo and Pearson, Canada's foreign secretary, furnished what many delegates called a realistic approach to the tense international situation.

Despite their pleas, there was no sign of a break in the East-West stalemate on any other of the problems affecting the U. N.

Secretary of State Dean Acheson, the last principal delegate to arrive in the buzzing hall for the Assembly start, and Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Y. Vishinsky did not speak. They made no sign of recognition and immediately started what was obviously a game of watchful waiting.

Acheson May Delay Address

Acheson had been slated to speak tomorrow with a demand for the Assembly to appeal to the Reds for an armistice in Korea on U. N. terms. But the word was passed in the afternoon that he would speak later—and no definite time was given.

Some delegates speculated Acheson would withhold a resolution on the Korean situation until Vishinsky has made his opening address to the Assembly. Acheson wants to see just what Vishinsky has to offer. There was speculation the Russian would put up another peace plan—but Vishinsky refused to tip his hand.

Vishinsky even remained silent as the Assembly convened and did not demand the expulsion of Nationalist China. Such a Russian proposal has become routine at U. N. meetings.

Baltimore To Increase Force Of Lady Cops

BALTIMORE, Oct. 14 (AP)—Commissioner Beverly Ober reported today the Police Department's lady traffic cops are doing all right, so another 64 will be added to the force.

The Department has been using 43 women to direct traffic at street intersections near schools, thereby relieving regular partlomen for full-time duty on other assignments.

Baby Kidnaped From Hospital

NEW YORK, Oct. 14 (AP)—An international hunt was on today for a dark-haired woman who kidnaped a five-day-old baby girl from Bellevue Hospital by casually asking for it by name.

Twenty-four hours later, the infant's mother, Mrs. Anna Hernandez, 39, showed up from another part of the hospital to claim the child and was told it already had been called for. She collapsed, shrieking:

"Oh, my baby, my baby."

A routine alarm was flashed through 13 northeastern states. In addition—since the parents are Puerto Rican — authorities were alerted in Florida, Puerto Rico, Cuba and Mexico against any attempt to get the child out of the country.

Electronic Robot To Predict Election Results For TV Fans

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 14 (AP) — Univac, an electronic robot eight feet tall, will forecast election results for television viewers when returns start coming in the night of Nov. 4.

The $600,000 electronic computer will be used by CBS television to see whether its prodigious capacity for making calculations and analyses will make it possible to indicate the final outcome with a fair degree of accuracy on the basis of incomplete returns.

Officials of Remington Rand, which built the machine, emphasize that it isn't psychic. But they and CBS say it will make possible comparisons on a scale and at a speed that would be impossible by conventional methods.

From now until election night, the machine will be fed data on hour-by-hour election totals of 1944 and 1948 for each of the 48 states and more detailed data on eight key states.

On the night of Nov. 4 the machine then will be given, for instance, the 9 p. m. returns from Pennsylvania. Univac, short for universal automatic computer, then will take the figure, compare it with the 9 p. m. totals of the 1944 and 1948 elections, and report on an electric typewriter its forecast of what the final 1952 totals will be from the state.

General Says Book Earned Him $635,000

Reports $217,082 Paid Out In Taxes

NEW YORK, Oct. 14 (AP)—Dwight D. Eisenhower made public today income for the past 10 years totalling $888,303, of which $635,000 came from his book, "Crusade in Europe."

He said he paid $217,082 in taxes, leaving him a net income of $643,148. Without the book, Eisenhower's net was $166,898.

The Republican presidential candidate added in a statement released here by his executive assistant, Arthur Vandenberg Jr.:

"I am now, in every sense of the word a private citizen, and without income except from investments."

Book Income Capital Gain

Eisenhower recognized "some curiosity about the publication of my book" and therefore listed his income from that source separately.

Because he qualified as a non-professional writer, the general was allowed to list the income from the book as a capital gain rather than as income. This cut down the tax on it considerably.

Eisenhower said he sold all rights to the book—an account of his World War II leadership of Allied armies in Europe—for $635,000. He paid $158,750 capital gains tax on this.

Thus, he said, his net on the book was $476,250.

During six years in uniform that ended December 31, 1947, Eisenhower served as Supreme Allied Commander in Europe and later as post-war Army chief of staff.

Earned $59,976 As Soldier

His income for those years, he said, was $59,976, mostly in salaries. After taxes, he said he had $47,453 left.

The next four years ending December 31, 1951, cover his nearly three years as president of Columbia University plus a year of service as military commander in Europe of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

Eisenhower listed for those years an income exclusive of his book of $193,327, on which he paid $48,616 in federal income taxes. This left him a net income of $119,444 not including the proceeds of the book.

Eisenhower said he and his wife had filed joint income tax returns for the 10 years period and the figures thus represent their joint income.

Price Lids Back On Radio Parts

WASHINGTON, Oct. 14 (AP)—The government tonight ordered price ceilings restored on radio, television and phonograph parts to protect consumers on charges for repairs.

The action is the first taken by the Office of Price Stabilization to recontrol items on which ceilings had been suspended. These parts were suspended from controls Aug. 29, along with radio and television sets and phonographs.

OPS said controls were lifted on the parts on the basis that these prices normally follow prices of the sets themselves.

OPS said since that time it has found price controls are ineffective on repair services for radio and TV receivers unless the parts that enter into such repairs are also controlled.

OPS also said a check has shown that many of the parts used in the sets are not made by radio and TV manufacturers. They are made by other producers and are used also in many products still under controls. The agency said this made enforcement on controls on these other products difficult.

WSB Launches Study Of Miners' Pay Boost

WASHINGTON, Oct. 14 (AP)—The Wage Stabilization Board opened formal study tonight of the $1.90 daily wage increase recently won by John L. Lewis for 350,000 soft coal miners.

The question before Chairman Archibald Cox and the board is the increase approval under anti-inflation wage regulations.

Already several thousand miners have quit their jobs in protest against the failure of mine operators to pay the higher wage in pay checks now falling due. The contract was effective as of Oct. 1 but soft coal producers said they could not legally pay the higher wage until the WSB officially approves their new one year contract with Lewis.

White Says Many Federal Controls On Rails Obsolete

BALTIMORE, Oct. 14 (AP)—The head of the Baltimore and Ohio tonight said many government controls on railroads are obsolete and hamper the carriers in meeting competition from less - regulated transportation facilities.

Roy B. White, president of the B & O, added that, among other things, Uncle Sam should speed up action on railroad petitions for rate changes.

In a speech prepared for a dinner given by the company's board of directors White said:

"No one thinks that transportation agencies, any more than other public utilities, should be wholly unregulated. However, railroad regulation . . . was designed to deal with railroads at a time when they had no substantial competitors and practically monopolized the transportation field."

"Many of these controls are no longer necessary to protect the public," White added, "and their continued existence severely limits the ability of the railroads to meet the powerful competition of their less-regulated competitors."

Urging faster action on petitions for rate changes, he noted that a recent request for 15 per cent hikes consumed about 15 months of proceedings involving the Interstate Commerce Commission.

In the meantime, the railroad industry provided service at rates which became "inadequate by a wide margin," White said.

"Such enforced service for long periods at inadequate rates cannot do otherwise than sap the economic vitality of the industry," he said.

White also suggested that the railroads themselves, rather than the ICC, determine the effect rate increases would have on their business.

O'Conor Blasts Balky Witnesses At U.N. Red Probe

NEW YORK, Oct. 14 (AP) — A flushed, angry Democratic senator charged today that the United Nations is honeycombed with Americans afraid to say whether they are Communists. He called this a disgrace.

In one of several heated statements during a Senate Internal Security subcommittee hearing, Sen. O'Conor (D-Md) drew applause from spectators when he said:

"It is very evident to the committee that the U. N. is honeycombed with individuals who are afraid to testify unequivocally whether or not they are member of an organization to overthrow the government of the United States by force or violence.

"It is a disgrace that they take that position and I think it is the duty of the U. S. mission and the secretary-general of the U. N. to have them thrown out.

"The confidence of the people is being destroyed by them."

Trygve Lie, secretary-general of the U. N., has said he doesn't want persons working for the U. N. who are disloyal to their own countries. But he added that he will not act against anyone "on mere suspicion or smears."

O'Conor's ire was aroused during two days of hearings in which a dozen American employes of the U. N. have refused to say whether they ever have been Communists.

Soviet Reds Warned Party Control Will Be Intensified

MOSCOW, Oct. 14 (AP)—A leader of the Soviet Communist Party's Control Commission warned today that party representatives will be installed in republics, districts and counties, independently of local party authorities, to intensify party rule.

This warning came from the deputy chairman of the Control Commission, Matvei Shkiryatov, 69, an old Bolshevik who has been a close associate of Prime Minister Stalin. In a speech to the 19th All-Union Communist Party Congress, he said:

"This measure will assist in the prevention of violation of party by-laws and intensification of the struggle against defects and unhealthy phenomena which exist in the life and work of party organizations."

Shkiryatov's statement, which may be regarded as the most important report on party discipline in a long time, was one of the highlights of the closing sessions of this Congress, the first called by the party in 13 years.

The Congress has named Stalin and 10 aides to a revision commission which will reshape the party program in line with changes in the internal and international situation and report back to a party meeting four years from now. A similar commission was named by the last party Congress in 1939, but war and postwar reconstruction, party spokesmen said, interfered with completion of its work.

Shkiryatov's speech aroused particular interest. He promised severe punishment to "bureaucrats and stiflers of criticism, regardless of who is involved."

U. S. Orders Production Of Delta Wing Plane

WASHINGTON, Oct. 14 (AP) — America's first supersonic delta wing fighter plane, the F-102, finally has been ordered into actual production.

Consolidated Vultee Aircraft Corp. (Convair) will build the high altitude interceptor at San Diego, Calif., the Air Force said today.

Performance details were kept secret and the only clue to the plane's shape was a statement from a Pentagon spokesman that in general it will resemble the experimental XF-92 which has been flying since 1948. It will not necessarily resemble the XF-92 in size. A delta wing plane is triangular in shape, generally like half a diamond. It has no horizontal tail.

Regent Replaces Egypt Council

CAIRO, Egypt, Oct. 14 (AP) — A single regent today supplanted the three-man regency council that has been ruling for infant King Fuad II.

Premier Gen. Mohammed Naguib, leader of Egypt's reform program, set off the day's developments by firing an army officer from the council.

Naguib accused the officer, Col. Rashad Mehanna, of "actions which gave the impression there was a split in the current Egyptian reform drive."

A few hours later the entire council resigned. The premier then announced that henceforth Prince Mohamed Abdel Moneim, a second cousin of exiled King Farouk, will act for the baby king as sole regent.

Prince Abdel Moneim was one of the three members of the regency council installed last August after Naguib's army coup forced the abdication of Farouk and sent him into exile on the Isle of Capri with Queen Narriman and their son, King Fuad.

Thanksgiving And Yule Turkeys To Be Plentiful

COLLEGE PARK, Md., Oct. 14 (AP)—There will be plenty of turkeys for Thanksgiving and Christmas dinners this year, the University of Maryland crop and livestock reporting service said today.

The service reported that Maryland poultrymen are raising 529,000 birds this year, 15 per cent more than they raised in 1951.

U. S. Orders Production Of Delta Wing Plane

WASHINGTON, Oct. 14 (AP) — America's first supersonic delta wing fighter plane, the F-102, finally has been ordered into actual production.

Consolidated Vultee Aircraft Corp. (Convair) will build the high altitude interceptor at San Diego, Calif., the Air Force said today.

Performance details were kept secret and the only clue to the plane's shape was a statement from a Pentagon spokesman that in general it will resemble the experimental XF-92 which has been flying since 1948. It will not necessarily resemble the XF-92 in size. A delta wing plane is triangular in shape, generally like half a diamond. It has no horizontal tail.

Regent Replaces Egypt Council

CAIRO, Egypt, Oct. 14 (AP) — A single regent today supplanted the three-man regency council that has been ruling for infant King Fuad II.

Premier Gen. Mohammed Naguib, leader of Egypt's reform program, set off the day's developments by firing an army officer from the council.

Naguib accused the officer, Col. Rashad Mehanna, of "actions which gave the impression there was a split in the current Egyptian reform drive."

A few hours later the entire council resigned. The premier then announced that henceforth Prince Mohamed Abdel Moneim, a second cousin of exiled King Farouk, will act for the baby king as sole regent.

Prince Abdel Moneim was one of the three members of the regency council installed last August after Naguib's army coup forced the abdication of Farouk and sent him into exile on the Isle of Capri with Queen Narriman and their son, King Fuad.

Final Rites For Francis Santelli Planned Friday

A Solemn High Requiem Mass will be celebrated Friday at 9 a. m. in St. Patrick's Catholic Church for Francis Anthony Santelli, 18-year-old LaSalle High School senior who died yesterday morning in Sacred Heart Hospital after a lingering illness. Burial will be in the parish cemetery.

He was the son of Mr. and Mrs. John V. Santelli, 807 Ashland Avenue. Attaches said he was admitted to the hospital Monday afternoon for an operation but died before undergoing surgery.

Some time ago the youth, who won a four-year scholarship to LaSalle while attending St. Patrick's Parochial School, suffered a leg injury in a basketball game. He had been going to New York for treatment.

Young Santelli was one of two eighth graders with the highest rating among 440 parochial and public school students who took the scholarship examination in May, 1949.

During his freshman year, he was adjudged winner of an oratorical contest. The youth had been active in many school events, including the Benilde Club and Brother Nicholas' Cave Exploration Club.

Born June 22, 1935, in Cumberland, he was an altar boy and member of St. Patrick's Catholic Church. Surviving, besides his parents, are the maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. John Patitucci, and an uncle, Lawrence Patitucci, 807 Ashland Avenue.

The body is at the residence.

The LaSalle Mother's Club will recite the rosary tomorrow at 7:30 p. m. at the home.

LEASURE SERVICE

A funeral service for J. Henry Leasure, 79, of RD 3, Hazen Road, who died Saturday at his residence, was held yesterday at Kight's Funeral Home with Rev. Gordon R. Hall, pastor of Centenary Methodist Church, officiating. Interment was in the church cemetery.

Pallbearers were Willis Wilson, Lester Miller, Charles Brotemarkle, Raymond Willison, William R. Welsh and Merrill Leasure.

PMA Committees Visit Farms

Members of the community PMA committees in Flintstone, Little Orleans and Oldtown yesterday visited three farms in that area to study some of the permanent conservation practices.

The practices were explained by William W. Nace and Martin Gordon, conservationists of the Soil Conservation Service.

Nace, Gordon and 10 members of the community committees first visited the farm of Theodore Teeter near Flintstone, where they saw examples of open ditch drainage. From there they went to the farm of B. N. Hill, also near Flintstone, where they studied contour strip cropping, sod waterways and tree planting. Finally, they went to the farm of Frank Wallizer south of Flintstone and along Town Creek where they saw evidences of tile and open drainage.

The program began about 10 a. m. and ended about 2:30 p. m.

Next week members of PMA committees in six other county communities will visit county farms to study practices. On Tuesday, Nace and Gordon will be in the Union Grove area. The next day they will be around Frostburg and the George's Creek area.

ship of employer and employee as well as the ability and incentive of the American working man.

Spangler pointed out that National Carbon Company had plants in England, France, India and other foreign countries but they didn't produce nearly as much as American plants because the incentive and initiative wasn't there as it is in this country.

He concluded his talk with a brief recounting of his rise from a salesman with the National Carbon Company to its presidency and now is an advisory member of its governing board.

A breeder of Black Angus cattle and Berkshire hogs on his farm in McConnellsburg, Pa., Spangler is a graduate of Penn State College and holds a BS degree in electrical engineering. He is one of nine recipients of the college's coveted distinguished alumni awards.

Attending last night's affair were Kenna Burke, president of the Keyser Rotary Club; Glen Boyd Piedmont club president; Lowell Sowers, president of Lonaconing organization; and Clyde McCurdy, Grantsville president.

Also at the speaker's table were three past district governors of District No. 264, Rotary International, which comprises Allegany, Garrett and Washington counties in Maryland, Mineral, Hampshire, and Berkeley counties in West Virginia, and Bedford and Somerset counties in Pennsylvania. They were Dr. Thomas Bess, and Dr. E. E. Church, both of Keyser, and Ivan C. Diehl of Frostburg.

Spangler was introduced by Harold R. McCulloch, State College, Pa., and present district governor of the Rotarians. James L. Weber was toastmaster and Rev. H. M. Richardson, gave the invocation.

Dr. W. T. Fridinger led the group singing and Mrs. Kenneth Beck was the accompanist.

The Bedford Road Fire Company is sponsoring a series of round and square dances each Wednesday from 9 p. m. to midnight in the fire hall.

Police Probe Point Pleasant Taxi Wreck

A wrecked taxicab, owned and operated by Roy Jackson, about 55, of Point Pleasant, W. Va., was found yesterday near that community and both the driver and a passenger were reported missing from the scene.

Jackson is a brother of Lonnie I. Jackson, of 114 Columbia Street, former governor of Lodge 271, Loyal Order of Moose. He immediately went to Point Pleasant after learning of the incident. His sister, Mrs. Irene Waugh, notified him about 5 p. m.

Hearing Set For Man Arrested During Raid

Vincent J. Dougherty, Martinsburg, arrested with three women Tuesday night in a police raid on an alleged disorderly house, posted $20 bond yesterday on a charge of frequenting a house of ill fame.

Authorities said Dougherty will be given a hearing in Police Court this morning.

The three women were given suspended six-month terms to the Maryland Reformatory for Women on state charges yesterday in Trial Magistrate Court.

Magistrate J. Milton Dick sentenced Hazel Carter, 200-block Charles Street to a suspended six-month term on condition she move out of that neighborhood and stop operating a disorderly house.

Peggy Miller, Hagerstown, and Faye Wilson, 200-block Frederick Street, were given six-month suspended sentences on condition they keep away from the Carter residence.

Arresting officers were Lt. James E. Van, Detective Roy C. Hawse and Patrolman Leo E. P. Law. The four defendants were questioned yesterday morning in the State's Attorney's office.

Editor Succumbs After Initiation

MORGANTOWN, W. Va., Oct. 14 (AP)—William F. Weeks, 20-year-old editor of the West Virginia University student newspaper, the Daily Athanaeum died here today.

He collapsed last night at Cooper's Rock State Forest during ceremonies initiating him into the men's honor society, Mountain.

University health authorities said the initiation ceremonies apparently had nothing to do with his death. They described the cause of his collapse as "a spontaneous intracranial hemorrhage."

They said the hemorrhage "might have occurred at about the same time under any circumstances."

Among the youth's survivors is his mother, Mrs. Catherine Weeks of Parkersburg.

4-H Clubs Stress Conservation

Says Wonderful Things About You!

The instant your beautiful Cadillac points its crest into view, it begins to say wonderful things about you.

It says, almost as plainly as if the words were written out, that you are a person of achievement in your own world of affairs.

It talks of your good judgment and your splendid taste—and indicates your sense of responsibility for those who ride with you as passengers, or drive beside you in the traffic lanes.

It speaks of your family and home and your way of life—and, in general, paves the way for the respect of those you encounter as you sit at its wheel.

This is true because those who own Cadillacs form a virtual "Who's Who" of America's highways. In almost every community in the country, it is obvious that Cadillac is the favored car of the leading people.

The reason for this, of course, is found in the history of the car itself.

For fifty years, it has been the unwavering purpose to make Cadillac as fine a car as it is practical to produce. Goodness has always been the watchword—craftsmanship has always been the creed.

As a result, Cadillac has long been known and accepted as—"The Standard of the World." And, inevitably, people who want and seek the finest have turned to Cadillac.

That's why the man who sits at the wheel of a Cadillac is an accepted member of the most distinguished motoring family to be found anywhere.

If you are ready for membership in this incomparable group, better come in and see us soon. We'd be happy to welcome you at any time.

Tories Feel Better

The annual conference of the British Conservatives that opened on Friday at Scarborough was reported to radiate a little more optimism—or at least a little less gloom—than had seemed likely a month before. This wasn't because of anything the Conservative government had been accomplishing. It was due, rather, to the deep split in the Labor party revealed at its recent conference at Morecambe.

Up to the Morecambe conference, Labor was widely expected to win the next general elections. At Morecambe, however, the Labor insurgents led by Aneurin Bevan, demanding lower armament expenditures and less "subservience" to the United States, were in the ascendancy by a margin much larger than had been predicted. The Bevan forces won all six of the open contests for places on the party's 27-man national executive committee.

Among the defeated candidates was Herbert Morrison, who is deputy Labor leader in the House of Commons and had been considered the probable successor to former Prime Minister Attlee in the party leadership. The Conservatives, united under Churchill despite some off-the-record grumbling against his leadership, are hoping that their labor opponents are becoming as disunited by Bevan as by Labor Prime Minister J. Ramsay MacDonald 21 years ago.

In the economic and financial crisis of 1931, MacDonald called for a cut in social-welfare expenditures, especially unemployment compensation (the "dole"), in what proved his vain attempt to keep Britain on the gold standard. Most of his cabinet and of the Labor members in Parliament refused to follow him.

Thereupon MacDonald formed a new government in coalition with the Conservatives and Liberals, and this was overwhelmingly supported in the general elections called to support the coalition.

Shortage Of Chemists

American Chemical Society is worried by figures which show that recruitment of technically trained youngsters is far below minimum needs. A survey submitted at the society's annual meeting in Atlantic City shows that the number of young chemists and chemical engineers graduating from technical schools and colleges during the next two years will be only half the number which was graduated in the years 1949 and 1950.

Not only are present senior classes about half the size of the comparable pre-Korean classes, but so are freshmen groups. There are few indications that the trend will soon be reversed.

With typical analytical zeal the chemists have started looking for ways to force a new, favorable trend into being, if possible. Dr. Samuel C. Lind, a top atomic chemist, suggests that Congress give college scholarships to a number of smart high school students who show scientific bent on the basis of competitive examinations. Dr. Lind said that only half of the upper 10 per cent of high school graduates go to college, and the reasons, he feels, are predominantly financial.

Industry is doing an increasingly bigger job of supplying scholarships for technically minded men and making industry more attractive as a lifetime career. Certainly the young men who do emerge from technical schools nowadays can just about write their own tickets in industry.

Move For Austrian Treaty

The Government of Austria has announced that it is bringing the question of an Austrian peace treaty before the UN General Assembly. However, the assembly would have difficulty in doing anything about a treaty that would be effective as long as the Soviet Union occupies part of Austria, including a section of Vienna, and still rejects certain treaty provisions insisted on by the other three states in military occupation of Austria — the U. S., Britain, and France.

In the seven years since the end of World War II, the American-British-French representatives have held more than 250 fruitless sessions with the Russians on a full-sized peace treaty (59 articles) with Austria. The three Allies, despairing of full agreement, finally proposed last March a short treaty of only eight articles, later enlarged to 12.

The Russians condemn the short treaty, even though the Allies agreed to put into it the Russian demands for an Austrian army limited to 53,000, including gendarmerie; for strong de-Nazification steps by Austria; and for certain guaranties by Austria. The Russians are now saying that no peace treaty is practicable until a new settlement is made on the Free State of Trieste. All the evidence indicates that the Russians do not want a peace treaty, whatever its provisions, because without one they can continue legally to keep their armed forces in Austria and don't have to compensate for the Austrian assets they have seized.

He Knows Their Flyways

Frederick C. Lincoln is a veteran of the U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service. Now that he is getting along in life he can take satisfaction in his status as the recognized pioneer and leading authority on the migration of birds.

For the past several years the open seasons and bag limits for waterfowl have been fixed only after careful study of the "flyways" which Lincoln defines after studying returns of bird bands. Lincoln's office, in spring, receives reports on young ducks of many kinds from all parts of Canada. Knowing which line of flight those ducks will take from their particular breeding grounds, he can help make intelligent regulations for the states they will visit in fall and winter.

Lincoln-based studies of bird-banding experiments are of long standing and great value. But few persons know that 1,000,000 ducks and geese and 5,000 other birds, large and small, have been banded in the past few decades. Thousands of men, women and children trap and band birds as a hobby—for the thrill of hearing where their avian friends went or where strangers came from. And the duck hunter who mails an aluminum band to Washington can be sure he is adding to a fascinating store of knowledge.

How To Keep Well

Nipping A Stone In The Bud

Passing a milestone is not nearly as painful as passing a kidney stone. As a matter of fact, few conditions are as distressing, and it is little wonder that those who have had the experience will do anything to stave off recurrences. Furthermore, the victim welcomes a hypodermic injection of morphine to ease the unbearable pain.

The nature and process of kidney calculi are not too well understood. There are various types and, as might be expected, no single factor is responsible for all of them. Some are associated with infection; others develop when the passageway from the kidney becomes narrowed or blocked. An unbalanced diet is said to play a role in certain cases; too much of one kind or food is consumed by one individual and too little by another. Now and then metabolic disturbances are said to be the culprits. Since all these factors are involved in the cause, they also must be taken into consideration in treatment and prevention.

Most of the prophylactic plans to date have centered about a dietary routine, provided the chemical composition of the stone is known. By omitting certain foods, the offending agent is eliminated or the acidity or alkalinity of the urine is altered to check the tendency toward crystallization.

In more recent years, Doctors Arthur J. Butts and Ernest A. Hauser have been experimenting with jellylike substances called colloids. Crystals in the urine are known to play a role in renal stones and crystalization is discouraged when a particular colloid co-exists. The combination usually is found in healthy persons who, in the circumstances, are not rock formers. The turning point in the investigation came when Dr. Butts discovered that individuals with kidney stones, or those who had them in the past, showed a scarcity of urinary colloids. In a later study, it was found that women had more colloids than men, which may explain the higher incidence of calculi in the male sex. The concentration of colloid particles in pregnant women greatly surpasses that of the nonpregnant, substantiating another known fact that stone formation during pregnancy is rare.

It then was learned that by injecting an enzyme, hyaluronidase, beneath the skin, urinary colloids could be increased. The colloids which were released not only dispersed the crystalline matter present but inhibited the formation of new crystals. This finding was rechecked by examining the urine under the ultramicroscope, where "the particles appear as bright discs in a state of ceaseless, agitated, zigzag, erratic movement" Following the hyaluronidase, there is gradual clearing of the solution.

The practical aspects of this research have not been explored thoroly. So far there is no evidence that stones are dissolved, but it may be that new ones will not appear. This occurred in 30 patients who had suffered attacks of renal colic at intervals over a period of years. Some support is given to the results because no other treatment had been effective prior to that time in checking stone formation. The remedy has one drawback. Daily injectons are needed and, although many stone victims will do anything to ward off an attack, there is a limit to their tolerance.

TOMORROW: Sanitary garbage collection and disposal.

WHITE PATCHES

P. L. writes: Are the white spots on the skin, which the doctor calls "vitiligo," permanent?

REPLY

Yes, because pigment has been lost in these areas. A clever cosmetician may be able to do more than a physician by recommending a suitable stain that matches the remainder of your skin. This is to be applied over the white patches.

BRONCHIECTASIS

R. T. writes: Is there any help for a man with bronchiectasis who has only a 35 per cent breathing capacity? Antibiotic treatment has not helped. He cannot work because he loses his breath when he walks.

REPLY

Severe cases are treated via surgery or frequent aspirations thru the bronchoscope. The physician in charge of this man's case will know whether such remedies are applicable in his case. We have a leaflet on bronchiectasis that may be obtained by sending a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

IMPETIGO

Mrs. L. writes: My child is just getting over a bout of chickenpox and has a lot of blisters on the sores which the doctor calls impetigo. Will penicillin help this condition?

REPLY

Yes, although other medications are of value also. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for leaflet on impetigo.

LIGHTNING AND CATARACT

T. Y. writes: Could lightning cause cataracts? I read recently that this could happen.

REPLY

Yes. A shock of high voltage electricity can do the same. Cataracts may form a few days to two years after exposure.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

John L. Lewis Miffs Wage Stabilizer Cox; GOP Removed Rent Controls At Wrong Time; Los Angeles Publisher Did Not Contribute To Nixon

WASHINGTON—Wage Stabilization Chairman Archibald Cox was plenty miffed when John L. Lewis announced that his miners would strike unless the wage board approved by today his 24-cents-an-hour wage-boost agreement with the coal operators. But what burned Cox even more was Lewis' refusal to attend a wage board meeting to discuss the proposed pay boost.

Big John's disdain for constituted government authority is well known. But his tent-sulking on this occasion set a new record.

Immediately after Lewis' agreement with the operators, Harry Moses and Joseph Moody, spokesmen for the mine owners, suggested that both sides get a stipulation from the Wage Stabilization Board that the wage boost would not go into effect until the WSB approved it. This is provided by law.

"Certainly not," replied the beetle-browed miner boss, adding something to the effect that the contract should go into effect immediately without any meddling by government bureaucrats.

"But it's illegal to enter into a conclusive contract without the approval of the wage board," declared Moody.

Lewis shrugged his shoulders. When later he was invited to the wage board discussion, he shrugged them again.

Finally Presidential Assistant John R. Steelman persuaded big John to send his legal counsel, Welly Hopkins, to the meeting. But Hopkins blandly refused to discuss the wage agreement; also ducked questions as to whether Lewis would carry out his strike ultimatum.

"I am not an officer of the United Mine Workers and therefore not in a posiiton to speak with authority," declared Hopkins loftily.

"Well, I don't like it when somebody puts a gun to my head and tells me to rush a decision on a matter vital to our economy, or face a strike," shot back Cox. "I also do not like having a wage agreement like this shoved at me, when both labor and industry know that it is a violation of the Defense Act to make such a conclusive agreement without our approval."

Cox said that 13 cents of the proposed 24-cents-an-hour pay boost was "allowable" under wage board regulations, but added he would have to be shown some "real evidence" before he would approve the remaining 11 cents.

Industry Supports Lewis

However, the wage board's eight industry and labor members were favorable to Lewis. They compose a majority of the board and can outvote Cox and his colleagues who represent the public.

Strangely enough, it was mine operator spokesman Harry Moses who made the strongest defense of the proposed 24-cent pay hike, on the ground that the coal miners hadn't had a raise for "20 months." Moses also pleaded that the miners do not enjoy the "fringe" benefits —such as paid holidays—of workers in other industries.

However, Joseph Moody, spokesman for Southern operators, argued that the full wage increase would "murder my people."

"I'm here asking for approval of the agreement, under instructions from my board of directors," said Moody. "But I'm personally against this. I think it will have an unstabilizing effect on our economy and will close down many mines that cannot continue to compete against fuel oil if their production costs go much higher."

Politics And Rent

It looks as if the Republicans have paved the way for removing rent controls at exactly the wrong time. Thousands of people got notices of increased rents last week in Des Moines, Kansas City, Toledo, Atlanta, Akron, Nashville, Seattle, New Orleans, and Reading, Pa.

Meanwhile the University of Michigan has completed a survey showing that rent control was a paramount issue in deciding the 1948 election — a fact that has strategists in both parties wondering if it may happen again.

Unfortunately for the Republicans, the issue was clearly drawn in hundreds of cities, with the GOP against and the Democrats for extending controls on a local basis.

Almost without exception, rents shot up immediately after controls were abolished by city councils. In Detroit, for instance, the Detroit News reported that rent increases ranging up to 140 per cent followed a 5-to-4 vote by the city council to end controls.

As a result, rent control—as in 1948—has become the No. 1 election issue with thousands of voters in Detroit and other cities.

Referring to the 1948 election, the University of Michigan report states:

"More significant than any party differences in attitude toward rent control is the fact that almost three-quarters of the people favored it, and only one person in eight was actually opposed to it. On this issue, therefore, many voters crossed party lines."

These Days

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

The Commander-In-Chief

I fear that I, like so many other Americans, have accepted the term "commander-in-chief" too loosely as applied to the President of the United States. This question is currently pertinent, since Harry Truman has taken to the hustings to assault all and sundry with such violence that one wonders whether he thinks that he is running against Taft, Eisenhower or Stevenson.

His attacks on General Eisenhower imply an expertness on the part of Captain Harry Truman, commander-in-chief. Harry Truman cannot contend that Eisenhower does not know his business because he appointed Ike to be chief of staff, which justifies the assumption that, in Truman's opinion, the general was the most suitable man in this country for the post. Or, does Truman wish us to believe that he picks public officials without regard to their suitability? As the power of appointment is the President's, the responsibility for the appointee's fitness is the President's.

On the subject of commander-in-chief, the Constitution in Article II, Section 2, provides:

"The President shall be commander-in-chief of the Army and Navy of the United States, and of the militia of the several states, when called into the actual service of the United States. . ."

Generally, Presidents have recognized all the limitations in this clause. The post of commander-in-chief affects only those actually engaged in military service. The commander-in-chief is not a military dictator with unlimited powers over the whole population.

As far back as 1850, the Supreme Court held that "as commander-in-chief he is authorized to direct the movements of the land and naval forces placed by law at his command, and to employ them in the manner he may deem most effectual to harass and conquer and subdue the enemy. He may invade the hostile country and subject it to the sovereignty and authority of the United States."

Therefore, the responsibility for anything that was done by General Eisenhower or General George Marshall or General Lucius Clay or General Douglas MacArthur or any other general or admiral is Harry Truman's while he served as President. If, instead of dismissing men for their errors, he promotes them, then we must assume that he approved of what he now chooses to regard as errors.

It is too late in 1952 for the President to criticize a subordinate, as Eisenhower then was, for his conduct in 1945.

Harry Truman's difficulty is that while he says he likes Ike, he wants to give the public the impression that Eisenhower was a less competent general than we believe him to be because he does not understand politics. But the time for Truman to have told us that was when Eisenhower made his errors, and not seven years later, particularly as during those seven years Truman appointed Eisenhower to higher positions.

The citizens have the right to assume that Truman's true opinion of Eisenhower was expressed when he appointed Ike to be chief of staff, supreme Allied commander in Europe, and the head of NATO. What he says now is belied by these acts. What he did then was in the exercise of Constitutional powers and within his responsibility as commander-in-chief. What he says now is small-time politics.

Eisenhower's defense need at best be that he employed his competence and skill according to his ability and judgment; that he was the commander of an army that won a war; that he was praised and rewarded by his commander-in-chief, Harry Truman. At that point he need say nothing more.

However, if Truman insists that Eisenhower did badly at Berlin or Prague or anywhere else, we must ask why he did not say so at the time. Why did he not court-martial General Eisenhower at the time? The Supreme Court has held that the President has the power to convene a court-martial. If Eisenhower was wrong at Berlin and brought on a disaster, why did Truman do nothing about it?

The point of this argument is that the more Truman talks about Eisenhower, the more he brings criticism upon himself. If the period from 1945 (Potsdam) to 1951 (the dismissal of MacArthur) is studied, it will be found that our President, Harry Truman, acting within his Constitutional responsibilities, erred too often for the good of the country.

Today In Washington

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON—Certainly there's a swing to Stevenson in these closing weeks of the campaign, and there's undoubtedly a swing "to Eisenhower, too, going on simultaneously." These two kinds of movements always develop toward the end of a Presidential campaign, and it usually means that people who have always been Democrats but haven't said much about it before October and persons who have always been Republicans and haven't said much about their preferences suddenly decide that they like the party they always have voted for.

The so-called "independent" vote in America is something else—it's the voters who are really shifting from one party to the other. Judging by the list of names the Stevenson managers gave out as "swinging" toward the Democratic nominee, it is probable that a majority voted Democratic in the last 20 years anyhow. It would be interesting to know their previous affiliations, especially in 1944 and 1948.

There has, of course, been a swing of so-called "intellectuals" to Stevenson. That's natural. For many of the "intellectuals" are supersensitive on the McCarthy issue and not a few of them have been sympathetic with the opposition side. In that respect, Governor Stevenson is a logical beneficiary of their votes.

Used Pressman's Language

In his Detroit speech last week, the Illinois governor gave substantial evidence as to why he is attracting the so-called "intellectuals." After describing the 1934 depression —which he attributed not to world-wide causes, as disinterested testimony has since proved, but to the Republican administration in Washington—he said:

"It is little wonder that across the land men and women—and especially the young—began to drift toward the terrible conclusion that free government had reached ehe end of its rope.

"Reaching out for a solution—any solution — the Communist agents found ready converts among the unemployed, the farmers, the workers. It was then that so many intellectuals, witnessing the devastation of capitalism and the menacing rise of Hitler, became entangled in the Communist conspiracy."

When the governor speaks of "intellectuals" becoming entangled in communism and gives the reasons, it is an odd coincidence that his researchers gave him almost the very same language as was used by Lee Pressman, general counsel of the CIO and a confessed Communist, in his testimony before the House Un-American Activities Committee on August 28, 1950, when he said:

"In the early 1930's, Mr. Chairman, as you may recall, as well as other members of this committee, there was a very severe depression in our country. The future looked black for my generation just emerging from school. At the same time, the growing specter of nazism in Germany presented to my mind an equally grave threat. In my desire to see the destruction of Hitlerism and an improvement in economic conditions here at home, I joined the Communist group in Washington about 1934."

It was testified by two witnesses before congressional committees that Alger Hiss was a member of this same "group."

Mr. Pressman says he left the "group" a year later and "discontinued any further participation in the group from that date till the present." But on further questioning, he conceded that it did not mean he had severed all connections with the Communist party. His 1950 testimony continued:

"Mr. Pressman: Over the past number of years I have had contacts and dealings with known leaders of the Communist party whom I have met from time to time.

"Mr. Tavenner (counsel): And what was the nature of those contacts which you have mentioned?

Discussed Their Viewpoints

"Mr. Pressman: They would discuss with me their viewpoints, their recommendations, and suggestions, with respect to organizational activities of the CIO while I was counsel for the CIO. I discussed those problems with these people. When they made recommendations or suggestions which I deemed to be of assistance or helpful to the CIO, I accepted them.

"I state here now, as categorically as I can, that at no time from 1936 until 1948 did I take instructions or directives from anyone, including these leaders of the Communist party, which were contrary to the established policy of the CIO."

On the executive board, however, which originally "established" the CIO's policies, House committee testimony shows there were many Communists—a majority at one time.

The depression, moreover, had long since been over by 1948, when Mr. Pressman still had not severed all connections with the Communist party. The Democratic administration had been in power for 16 years and presumably had brought "recovery" to the nation, but here is an "intellectual" who occupied a key position in the American labor movement and still thought well enough of the Communist leaders to sit down with them and take their advice on certain matters.

Those "intellectuals" in America who either became Communists or fellow travellers and remained with the "Commie" side for years afterward cannot be apologized for on the ground that America had a "Republican depression." Any person educated under the flag of the United States—especially an "intellectual"—should never have fallen for the idea that "free government had reached the end of its rope" in America.

Many of the so-called "intellectuals" have been in the forefront of the attack on McCarthy recently and many of them now are flocking to the Stevenson standard, where evidently they will receive a sympathetic welcome.

In Wisconsin for every so-called "intellectual" who voted against McCarthy, there were probably many anti-Communist Democrats who crossed over into the Republican primary to uphold the junior senator from Wisconsin. And for every one of those so-called "independents" who are swinging to Stevenson now, it is safe to assume from the Wisconsin pattern that there will be throughout the nation many more Democrats swinging toward Eisenhower on November 4 because of the soft approach to the "Commie" issue taken by Governor Stevenson.

On The Line

By BOB CONSIDINE

NEW YORK—(INS)—The passing show—

Those American teachers who actually have betrayed their country by conspiring, however ineptly, to overcome its government by force, should be interested in learning more about teaching conditions behind that ever-loving Iron Curtain.

In Hungary, for example, teachers earn the equivalent of from 50 to 56 dollars a month for the first five years. They may then be raised to 65, but it is not an automatic advancement.

They live in perpetual dread of deviating from the party line, impressed on them by bales of propaganda from their superiors. One absent-minded professor recently was banished to a slave labor camp for committing what was considered a bold effontery to the state. Seems he finished a lecture about the descent of man from the ape, and the fallacy of religion, and walked across the street and entered a church during his lunch hour. Volunteer spies among his students testified they saw the man kneel and pray.

The dear kiddies in Hungary? Here's the kind of readin', writin', and 'rithmatic they're getting, according to an editorial in the Budapest newspaper "Magyar Nemzet"—

"We must foster in our children the hatred for the enemy by pointing out the destructive activities of the enemy, by unmasking the beastly face of the imperialists and by the anti-social activity of the right wing social democrats and the clerical reactionairies.

"The educators must take firm and determined steps to eradicate the undisciplined manifestations of cosmopolitanism and nationalism which have been cropping up in our schools recently."

Is this what our Red teachers wanted?

Americans burn themselves and their property each year with a thoroughness which would have caused Nero to drop his fiddle and hang his jaw in frank amazement.

Take a gander at these statistics, suplied by Lewis A. Vincent, general manager of the National Board of Fire Underwriters:

Fire losses last year reached 11,000 dead, an unknown number of others burned, and a property loss of $730,000,000! Nearly 300,000 U. S. homes and 25,000 manufacturing plants were among the nearly one half million "building fires," during the year.

Julius and Ethel Rosenberg, the atomic spies who gambled everything on their belief that they could never be convicted and if convicted never given the death sentence, now must die. The Supreme Court will not consider their appeal.

They came close to beating the rap. A chain reaction of superb work by the F.B.I. caught them. The first big fish in the net was Dr. Klaus Fuchs. Fuchs named a man he knew only as "Raymond" as his U. S. accomplice. By a remarkable series of deductions, and prodigious work, the F.B.I. unveiled Harry Gold, a quiet little man working in heart research at Philadelphia General Hospital, as "Raymond."

Gold implicated Sgt. David Greenwhom he had paid $500 for a crude but adequate sketch of the "trigger" of the a-bomb. The Rosenbergs, knowing the blow would fall when Gold's arrest was announced, made intricate cloak-and-dagger arrangements for Greenglass and his wife and infant to escape to Czechoslovakia, via Mexico, Sweden and Switzerland. But the Greenglasses waited too long, and the F.B.I. seized the Rosenbergs as they were about to leave their cheap little apartment, with bags packed.

Ironically, the Rosenbergs will die just about the time that the first confessed a-spy, Dr. Allan Nunn May, who sold uranium samples and written reports to the Russians for $700 and two bottles of Scotch, is released from a British prison three years early—for good behavior.

The Government of Austria has announced that it is bringing the question of an Austrian peace treaty before the UN General Assembly. However, the assembly would have difficulty in doing anything about a treaty that would be effective as long as the Soviet Union occupies part of Austria, including a section of Vienna, and still rejects certain treaty provisions insisted on by the other three states in military occupation of Austria — the U. The three Allies, despairing of full agreement, finally proposed last March a short treaty of only eight articles, later enlarged to 12.

The Russians condemn the short treaty, even though the Allies agreed to put into it the Russian demands for an Austrian army limited to 53,000, including gendarmerie; for strong de-Nazification steps by Austria; and for certain guaranties by Austria. The Russians are now saying that no peace treaty is practicable until a new settlement is made on the Free State of Trieste. All the evidence indicates that the Russians do not want a peace treaty, whatever its provisions, because without one they can continue legally to keep their armed forces in Austria and don't have to compensate for the Austrian assets they have seized.

He Knows Their Flyways

Frederick C. Lincoln is a veteran of the U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service. Now that he is getting along in life he can take satisfaction in his status as the recognized pioneer and leading authority on the migration of birds.

For the past several years the open seasons and bag limits for waterfowl have been fixed only after careful study of the "flyways" which Lincoln defines after studying returns of bird bands. Lincoln's office, in spring, receives reports on young ducks of many kinds from all parts of Canada. Knowing which line of flight those ducks will take from their particular breeding grounds, he can help make intelligent regulations for the states they will visit in fall and winter.

Lincoln-based studies of bird-banding experiments are of long standing and great value. But few persons know that 1,000,000 ducks and geese and 5,000 other birds, large and small, have been banded in the past few decades. Thousands of men, women and children trap and band birds as a hobby—for the thrill of hearing where their avian friends went or where strangers came from. And the duck hunter who mails an aluminum band to Washington can be sure he is adding to a fascinating store of knowledge.

How To Keep Well

Nipping A Stone In The Bud

Passing a milestone is not nearly as painful as passing a kidney stone. As a matter of fact, few conditions are as distressing, and it is little wonder that those who have had the experience will do anything to stave off recurrences. Furthermore, the victim welcomes a hypodermic injection of morphine to ease the unbearable pain.

The nature and process of kidney calculi are not too well understood. There are various types and, as might be expected, no single factor is responsible for all of them. Some are associated with infection; others develop when the passageway from the kidney becomes narrowed or blocked. An unbalanced diet is said to play a role in certain cases; too much of one kind or food is consumed by one individual and too little by another. Now and then metabolic disturbances are said to be the culprits. Since all these factors are involved in the cause, they also must be taken into consideration in treatment and prevention.

Most of the prophylactic plans to date have centered about a dietary routine, provided the chemical composition of the stone is known. By omitting certain foods, the offending agent is climinated or the acidity or alkalinity of the urine is altered to check the tendency toward crystallization.

In more recent years, Doctors Arthur J. Butts and Ernest A. Hauser have been experimenting with jellylike substances called colloids. Crystals in the urine are known to play a role in renal stones and crystalization is discouraged when a particular colloid co-exists. The combination usually is found in healthy persons who, in the circumstances, are not rock formers. The turning point in the investigation came when Dr. Butts discovered that individuals with kidney stones, or those who had them in the past, showed a scarcity of urinary colloids. In a later study, it was found that women had more colloids than men, which may explain the higher incidence of calculi in the male sex. The concentration of colloid particles in pregnant women greatly surpasses that of the nonpregnant, substantiating another known fact that stone formation during pregnancy is rare.

It then was learned that by injecting an enzyme, hyaluronidase, beneath the skin, urinary colloids could be increased. The colloids which were released not only dispersed the crystalline matter present but inhibited the formation of new crystals. This finding was rechecked by examining the urine under the ultramicroscope, where "the particles appear as bright discs in a state of ceaseless, agitated, zigzag, erratic movement" Following the hyaluronidase, there is gradual clearing of the solution.

The practical aspects of this research have not been explored thoroly. So far there is no evidence that stones are dissolved, but it may be that new ones will not appear. This occurred in 30 patients who had suffered attacks of renal colic at intervals over a period of years. Some support is given to the results because no other treatment had been effective prior to that time in checking stone formation. The remedy has one drawback. Daily injections are needed and, although many stone victims will do anything to ward off an attack, there is a limit to their tolerance.

TOMORROW: Sanitary garbage collection and disposal.

WHITE PATCHES

P. L. writes: Are the white spots on the skin, which the doctor calls "vitiligo," permanent?

REPLY

Yes, because pigment has been lost in these areas. A clever cosmetician may be able to do more than a physician by recommending a suitable stain that matches the remainder of your skin. This is to be applied over the white patches.

BRONCHIECTASIS

R. T. writes: Is there any help for a man with bronchiectasis who has only a 35 per cent breathing capacity? Antibiotic treatment has not helped. He cannot work because he loses his breath when he walks.

REPLY

Severe cases are treated via surgery or frequent aspirations thru the bronchoscope. The physician in charge of this man's case will know whether such remedies are applicable in his case. We have a leaflet on bronchiectasis that may be obtained by sending a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

IMPETIGO

Mrs. L. writes: My child is just getting over a bout of chickenpox and has a lot of blisters on the sores which the doctor calls impetigo. Will penicillin help this condition?

REPLY

Yes, although other medications are of value also. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for leaflet on impetigo.

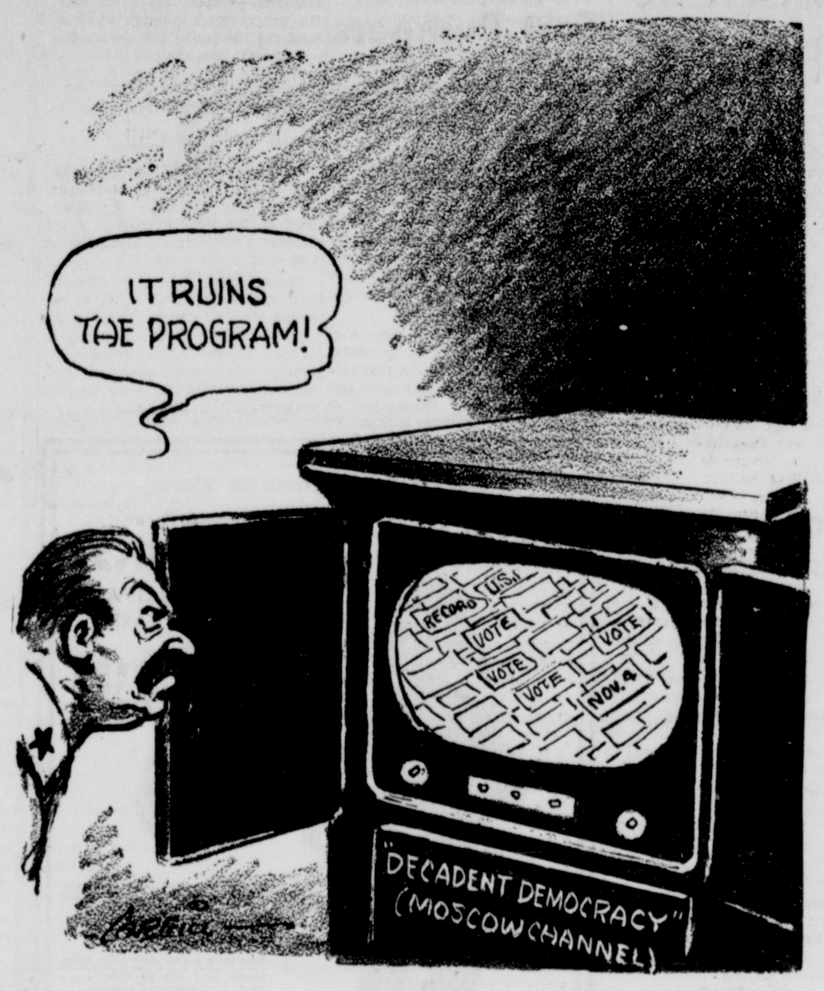

LIGHTNING AND CATARACT

T. Y. writes: Could lightning cause cataracts? I read recently that this could happen.

REPLY

Yes. A shock of high voltage electricity can do the same. Cataracts may form a few days to two years after exposure.

John L. Lewis Miffs Wage Stabilizer Cox; GOP Removed Rent Controls At Wrong Time; Los Angeles Publisher Did Not Contribute To Nixon

WASHINGTON—Wage Stabilization Chairman Archibald Cox was plenty miffed when John L. Lewis announced that his miners would strike unless the wage board approved by today his 24-cents-an-hour wage-boost agreement with the coal operators. But what burned Cox even more was Lewis' refusal to attend a wage board meeting to discuss the proposed pay boost.

Big John's disdain for constituted government authority is well known. But his tent-sulking on this occasion set a new record.

Immediately after Lewis' agreement with the operators, Harry Moses and Joseph Moody, spokesmen for the mine owners, suggested that both sides get a stipulation from the Wage Stabilization Board that the wage boost would not go into effect until the WSB approved it. This is provided by law.

"Certainly not," replied the beetle-browed miner boss, adding something to the effect that the contract should go into effect immediately without any meddling by government bureaucrats.

"But it's illegal to enter into a conclusive contract without the approval of the wage board," declared Moody.

Lewis shrugged his shoulders. When later he was invited to the wage board discussion, he shrugged them again.

Finally Presidential Assistant John R. Steelman persuaded big John to send his legal counsel, Welly Hopkins, to the meeting. But Hopkins blandly refused to discuss the wage agreement; also ducked questions as to whether Lewis would carry out his strike ultimatum.

"I am not an officer of the United Mine Workers and therefore not in a posliton to speak with authority," declared Hopkins loftily.

"Well, I don't like it when somebody puts a gun to my head and tells me to rush a decision on a matter vital to our economy, or face a strike," shot back Cox. "I also do not like having a wage agreement like this shoved at me, when both labor and industry know that it is a violation of the Defense Act to make such a conclusive agreement without our approval."

Cox said that 13 cents of the proposed 24-cents-an-hour pay boost was "allowable" under wage board regulations, but added he would have to be shown some "real evidence" before he would approve the remaining 11 cents.

Industry Supports Lewis

However, the wage board's eight industry and labor members were favorable to Lewis. They compose a majority of the board and can outvote Cox and his colleagues who represent the public.

Strangely enough, it was mine operator spokesman Harry Moses who made the strongest defense of the proposed 24-cent pay hike, on the ground that the coal miners hadn't had a raise for "20 months." Moses also pleaded that the miners do not enjoy the "fringe" benefits—such as paid holidays—of workers in other industries.

However, Joseph Moody, spokesman for Southern operators, argued that the full wage increase would "murder my people."

"I'm here asking for approval of the agreement, under instructions from my board of directors," said Moody. "But I'm personally against this. I think it will have an unstabilizing effect on our economy and will close down many mines that cannot continue to compete against fuel oil if their production costs go much higher."

Politics And Rent

It looks as if the Republicans have paved the way for removing rent controls at exactly the wrong time. Thousands of people got notices of increased rents last week in Des Moines, Kansas City, Toledo, Atlanta, Akron, Nashville, Seattle, New Orleans, and Reading, Pa.

Meanwhile the University of Michigan has completed a survey showing that rent control was a paramount issue in deciding the 1948 election — a fact that has strategists in both parties wondering if it may happen again.

Unfortunately for the Republicans, the issue was clearly drawn in hundreds of cities, with the GOP against and the Democrats for extending controls on a local basis.

Almost without exception, rents shot up immediately after controls were abolished by city councils. In Detroit, for instance, the Detroit News reported that rent increases ranging up to 140 per cent followed a 5-to-4 vote by the city council to end controls.

As a result, rent control—as in 1948—has become the No. 1 election issue with thousands of voters in Detroit and other cities.

Referring to the 1948 election, the University of Michigan report states:

"More significant than any party differences in attitude toward rent control is the fact that almost three-quarters of the people favored it, and only one person in eight was actually opposed to it. On this issue, therefore, many voters crossed party lines."

These Days

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

The Commander-In-Chief

I fear that I, like so many other Americans, have accepted the term "commander-in-chief" too loosely as applied to the President of the United States. This question is currently pertinent, since Harry Truman has taken to the hustings to assault all and sundry with such violence that one wonders whether he thinks that he is running against Taft, Eisenhower or Stevenson.

His attacks on General Eisenhower imply an expertness on the part of Captain Harry Truman, commander-in-chief. Harry Truman cannot contend that Eisenhower does not know his business because he appointed Ike to be chief of staff, which justifies the assumption that, in Truman's opinion, the general was the most suitable man in this country for the post. Or, does Truman wish us to believe that he picks public officials without regard to their suitability? As the power of appointment is the President's, the responsibility for the appointee's fitness is the President's.

On the subject of commander-in-chief, the Constitution in Article II, Section 2, provides:

"The President shall be commander-in-chief of the Army and Navy of the United States, and of the militia of the several states, when called into the actual service of the United States. . ."

Generally, Presidents have recognized all the limitations in this clause. The post of commander-in-chief affects only those actually engaged in military service. The commander-in-chief is not a military dictator with unlimited powers over the whole population.

As far back as 1850, the Supreme Court held that "as commander-in-chief he is authorized to direct the movements of the land and naval forces placed by law at his command, and to employ them in the manner he may deem most effectual to harass and conquer and subdue the enemy. He may invade the hostile country and subject it to the sovereignty and authority of the United States."

Therefore, the responsibility for anything that was done by General Eisenhower or General George Marshall or General Lucius Clay or General Douglas MacArthur or any other general or admiral is Harry Truman's while he served as President. If, instead of dismissing men for their errors, he promotes them, then we must assume that he approved of what he now chooses to regard as errors.

It is too late in 1952 for the President to criticize a subordinate, as Eisenhower then was, for his conduct in 1945.

Harry Truman's difficulty is that while he says he likes Ike, he wants to give the public the impression that Eisenhower was a less competent general than we believe him to be because he does not understand politics. But the time for Truman to have told us that was when Eisenhower made his errors, and not seven years later, particularly as during those seven years Truman appointed Eisenhower to higher positions.

The citizens have the right to assume that Truman's true opinion of Eisenhower was expressed when he appointed Ike to be chief of staff, supreme Allied commander in Europe, and the head of NATO. What he says now is belied by these acts. What he did then was in the exercise of Constitutional powers and within his responsibility as commander-in-chief. What he says now is small-time politics.

Eisenhower's defense need at best be that he employed his competence and skill according to his ability and judgment; that he was the commander of an army that won a war; that he was praised and rewarded by his commander-in-chief, Harry Truman. At that point he need say nothing more.

However, if Truman insists that Eisenhower did badly at Berlin or Prague or anywhere else, we must ask why he did not say so at the time. Why did he not court-martial General Eisenhower at the time? The Supreme Court has held that the President has the power to convene a court-martial. If Eisenhower was wrong at Berlin and brought on a disaster, why did Truman do nothing about it?

The point of this argument is that the more Truman talks about Eisenhower, the more he brings criticism upon himself. If the period from 1945 (Potsdam) to 1951 (the dismissal of MacArthur) is studied, it will be found that our President, Harry Truman, acting within his Constitutional responsibilities, erred too often for the good of the country.

Today In Washington

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON—Certainly there's a swing to Stevenson in these closing weeks of the campaign, and there's undoubtedly a swing "to Eisenhower, too, going on simultaneously." These two kinds of movements always develop toward the end of a Presidential campaign, and it usually means that people who have always been Democrats but haven't said much about it before October and persons who have always been Republicans and haven't said much about their preferences suddenly decide that they like the party they always have voted for.

The so-called "independent" vote in America is something else—it's the voters who are really shifting from one party to the other. Judging by the list of names the Stevenson managers gave out as "swinging" toward the Democratic nominee, it is probable that a majority voted Democratic in the last 20 years anyhow. It would be interesting to know their previous affiliations, especially in 1944 and 1948.

There has, of course, been a swing of so-called "intellectuals" to Stevenson. That's natural. For many of the "intellectuals" are supersensitive on the McCarthy issue and not a few of them have been sympathetic with the opposition side. In that respect, Governor Stevenson is a logical beneficiary of their votes.

Used Pressman's Language

In his Detroit speech last week, the Illinois governor gave substantial evidence as to why he is attracting the so-called "intellectuals." After describing the 1934 depression—which he attributed not to worldwide causes, as disinterested testimony has since proved, but to the Republican administration in Washington—he said:

"It is little wonder that across the land men and women—and especially the young—began to drift toward the terrible conclusion that free government had reached ehe end of its rope.

"Reaching out for a solution—any solution — the Communist agents found ready converts among the unemployed, the farmers, the workers. It was then that so many intellectuals, witnessing the devastation of capitalism and the menacing rise of Hitler, became entangled in the Communist conspiracy."

When the governor speaks of "intellectuals" becoming entangled in communism and gives the reasons, it is an odd coincidence that his researchers gave him almost the very same language as was used by Lee Pressman, general counsel of the CIO and a confessed Communist, in his testimony before the House Un-American Activities Committee on August 28, 1950, when he said:

"In the early 1930's, Mr. Chairman, as you may recall, as well as other members of this committee, there was a very severe depression in our country. The future looked black for my generation just emerging from school. At the same time, the growing specter of nazism in Germany presented to my mind an equally grave threat. In my desire to see the destruction of Hitlerism and an improvement in economic conditions here at home, I joined the Communist group in Washington about 1934."

It was testified by two witnesses before congressional committees that Alger Hiss was a member of this same "group."

Mr. Pressman says he left the "group" a year later and "discontinued any further participation in the group from that date till the present." But on further questioning, he conceded that it did not mean he had severed all connections with the Communist party. His 1950 testimony continued:

"Mr. Pressman: Over the past number of years I have had contacts and dealings with known leaders of the Communist party whom I have met from time to time.

"Mr. Tavenner (counsel): And what was the nature of those contacts which you have mentioned?

Discussed Their Viewpoints

"Mr. Pressman: They would discuss with me their viewpoints, their recommendations, and suggestions, with respect to organizational activities of the CIO while I was counsel for the CIO. I discussed those problems with these people. When they made recommendations or suggestions which I deemed to be of assistance or helpful to the CIO, I accepted them.

"I state here now, as categorically as I can, that at no time from 1936 until 1948 did I take instructions or directives from anyone, including these leaders of the Communist party, which were contrary to the established policy of the CIO."

On the executive board, however, which originally "established" the CIO's policies, House committee testimony shows there were many Communists—a majority at one time.

The depression, moreover, had long since been over by 1948, when Mr. Pressman still had not severed all connections with the Communist party. The Democratic administration had been in power for 16 years and presumably had brought "recovery" to the nation, but here is an "intellectual" who occupied a key position in the American labor movement and still thought well enough of the Communist leaders to sit down with them and take their advice on certain matters.

Those "intellectuals" in America who either became Communists or fellow travellers and remained with the "Commie" side for years afterward cannot be apologized for on the ground that America had a "Republican depression." Any person educated under the flag of the United States—especially an "intellectual"—should never have fallen for the idea that "free government had reached the end of its rope" in America.

Many of the so-called "intellectuals" have been in the forefront of the attack on McCarthy recently and many of them now are flocking to the Stevenson standard, where evidently they will receive a sympathetic welcome.

In Wisconsin for every so-called "intellectual" who voted against McCarthy, there were probably many anti-Communist Democrats who crossed over into the Republican primary to uphold the junior senator from Wisconsin. And for every one of those so-called "independents" who are swinging to Stevenson now, it is safe to assume from the Wisconsin pattern that there will be throughout the nation many more Democrats swinging toward Eisenhower on November 4 because of the soft approach to the "Commie" issue taken by Governor Stevenson.

On The Line

By BOB CONSIDINE

NEW YORK—(INS)—The passing show—

Those American teachers who actually have betrayed their country by conspiring, however ineptly, to overcome its government by force, should be interested in learning more about teaching conditions behind that ever-loving Iron Curtain.

In Hungary, for example, teachers earn the equivalent of from 50 to 56 dollars a month for the first five years. They may then be raised to 65, but it is not an automatic advancement.

They live in perpetual dread of deviating from the party line, impressed on them by bales of propaganda from their superiors. One absent-minded professor recently was banished to a slave labor camp for committing what was considered a bold effontery to the state. Seems he finished a lecture about the descent of man from the ape, and the fallacy of religion, and walked across the street and entered a church during his lunch hour. Volunteer spies among his students testified they saw the man kneel and pray.

The dear kiddies in Hungary? Here's the kind of readin', writin', and 'rithmatic they're getting, according to an editorial in the Budapest newspaper "Magyar Nemzet"—

"We must foster in our children the hatred for the enemy by pointing out the destructive activities of the enemy, by unmasking the beastly face of the imperialists and by the anti-social activity of the right wing social democrats and the clerical reactionairies.

"The educators must take firm and determined steps to eradicate the undisciplined manifestations of cosmopolitanism and nationalism which have been cropping up in our schools recently."

Is this what our Red teachers wanted?

Americans burn themselves and their property each year with a thoroughness which would have caused Nero to drop his fiddle and hang his jaw in frank amazement.

Take a gander at these statistics, suplied by Lewis A. Vincent, general manager of the National Board of Fire Underwriters:

Fire losses last year reached 11,000 dead, an unknown number of others burned, and a property loss of $730,000,000! Nearly 300,000 U. S. homes and 25,000 manufacturing plants were among the nearly one half million "building fires," during the year.

Julius and Ethel Rosenberg, the atomic spies who gambled everything on their belief that they could never be convicted and if convicted never given the death sentence, now must die. The Supreme Court will not consider their appeal.

They came close to beating the rap. A chain reaction of superb work by the F.B.I. caught them. The first big fish in the net was Dr. Klaus Fuchs. Fuchs named a man he knew only as "Raymond" as his U. S. accomplice. By a remarkable series of deductions, and prodigious work, the F.B.I. unveiled Harry Gold, a quiet little man working in heart research at Philadelphia General Hospital, as "Raymond."

Gold implicated Sgt. David Greenwhom he had paid $500 for a crude but adequate sketch of the "trigger" of the a-bomb. The Rosenbergs, knowing the blow would fall when Gold's arrest was announced, made intricate cloak-and-dagger arrangements for Greenglass and his wife and infant to escape to Czechoslovakia, via Mexico, Sweden and Switzerland. But the Greenglasses waited too long, and the F.B.I. seized the Rosenbergs as they were about to leave their cheap little apartment, with bags packed.

Ironically, the Rosenbergs will die just about the time that the first confessed a-spy, Dr. Allan Nunn May, who sold uranium samples and written reports to the Russians for $700 and two bottles of Scotch, is released from a British prison three years early—for good behavior.

Experts Seek Solution As U. S. Faces Water Supply Crisis

By JAMES LEE

WASHINGTON — (INS) — The United States today is confronted by a water supply crisis so acute and so widespread that hundreds of communities may literally perish of "thirst" unless the problem is solved.

In Washington and some 50 areas where the water situation is menacingly serious, experts are working desperately to find a solution.

Demands for precious water have soared as the nation's population doubled in the first half of the twentieth century. But resources are being rapidly depleted.

Not only in the arid West, but in the industrial East and Midwest and some sections of the South, the U. S. Geological Survey reports water shortages which could eventually force a sharp decline in the American standard of living.

The nation's homes, farms and factories require 170 billion gallons of water every day. This amonuts to about 1,100 gallons a day for each man, woman and child in the United States. In addition, more than a billion gallons a day are needed to generate hydro-power.

The shortage affects those who dwell in great cities, like New York, Philadelphia, Baltimore and Chicago, as well as the residents of such "dry states" as Arizona and Nevada. Even lush, bountiful Colorado must face the water crisis. Sun-kissed Californians have long been aware of the threat to their way of life.

Here are authoritative summaries of the situation in key areas:

CALIFORNIA—State Engineer A. D. Edmonston reports that during a normal year, the state uses about 15 million acre-feet of water—or about one million acre-feet more than is available through distribution systems, both man-made and natural. The result: The one-million-acre-foot overdraft must be pumped from the ground, causing a constant dwindling of the underground water table.

UTAH—State Engineer Joseph Tracy says: "Utah's water supply could be increased by at least 40 per cent through better methods of irrigation, which we are advancing at the present time. In addition, considerable water is lost each spring through runoff floods which could be averted through construction of more dams."

COLORADO—Clifford H. Stone, director of the Colorado Water Conservation Board, reports: "We are now encountering deficiencies in water supplies for some of our municipalities and provision must soon be made for them. Also we must provide for industrial water to be used in such large projects as plants for processing shale oil, synthetic fuels plants and uranium industries. Colorado's sole remaining source for future water development is the two-million-acre feet available annually in the upper Colorado River basin."

NEVADA—Former State Engineer Alfred Merritt Smith notes: "A constant, steady depletion of both surface and ground-water in several important areas is observed. This causes some apprehension as to adequacy of water supply for future expanding needs."

ARIZONA—The U. S. Geological Survey has made this grim report to Congress: "All surface water available is used and oversubscribed. A succession of dry years since 1941 (the latest 'wet' year) has led to increased drafts on overdeveloped ground water. San Carlos Reservoir has been empty nearly each year since the recharge during the 1941 period was exhausted in 1945. All principal ground-water basins and some of the smaller ones are known or believed to be overdeveloped, or having trouble with increased salinity."

The geological survey also cited these problems in other areas:

New England—Declining water levels in heavily pumped industrial areas; salt water encroachment resulting from overpumping in some coastal cities and towns.

Philadelphia and Baltimore—Heavy pumping, declining water levels, encroachment of salty or poor-quality water.

New York City and metropolitan New Jersey—Demands for water in excess of dependable yield have resulted in overdrafts on surface-water storage during a period of moderate drought.

Southeast—Water levels declining in Memphis area; declines and possible local overdevelopment at Montgomery and Selma, Ala.; declines in Jacksonville and Sarasota areas in Florida.

Midwest—Water levels declining in Chicago area; similar conditions in Milwaukee and Minneapolis-St. Paul areas; situation critical in Peoria area; at Youngstown, Ohio, an important steel center, new water supplies must be developed or the city's industrial progress will be choked off.

Texas, Oklahoma, Louisiana, Arkansas — Increasing use of water for irrigation causing considerable overdraft on available supplies. New sources of water are needed.

Carl G. Paulsen, chief hydraulic engineer of the Geological Survey, points out that the tremendous industrial surge forced by World War II brought a vast increase in the demand for water. For example, 600,000 gallons of water were required to produce just one ton of synthetic rubber.

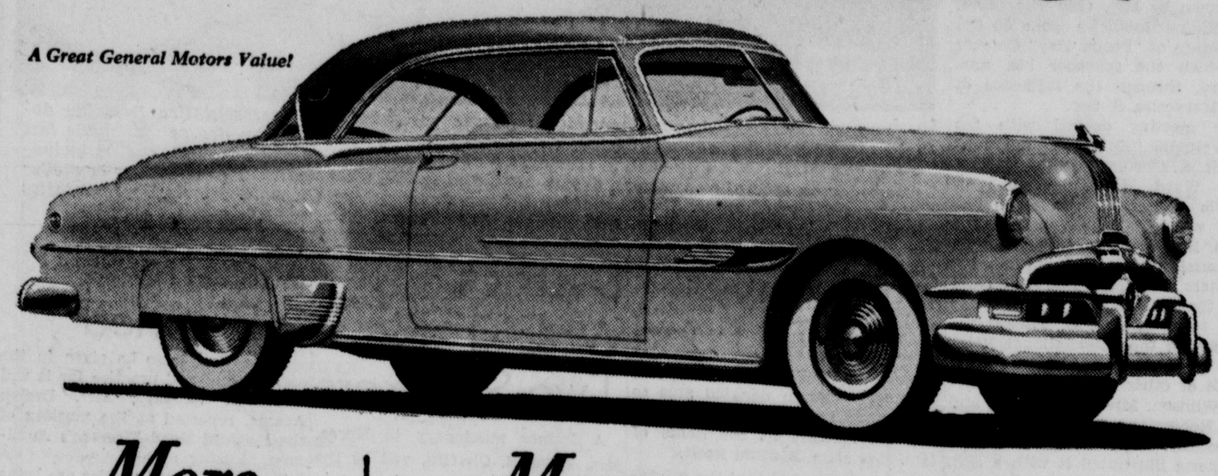

So far this year, says Paulsen, the U. S. lost 10 million pounds of vital-

Experts Seek Solution As U. S. Faces Water Supply Crisis

By JAMES LEE

WASHINGTON — (INS) — The United States today is confronted by a water supply crisis so acute and so widespread that hundreds of communities may literally perish of "thirst" unless the problem is solved.

In Washington and some 50 areas where the water situation is menacingly serious, experts are working desperately to find a solution.

Demands for precious water have soared as the nation's population doubled in the first half of the twentieth century. But resources are being rapidly depleted.

Not only in the arid West, but in the industrial East and Midwest and some sections of the South, the U. S. Geological Survey reports water shortages which could eventually force a sharp decline in the American standard of living.

The nation's homes, farms and factories require 170 billion gallons of water every day. This amonuts to about 1,100 gallons a day for each man, woman and child in the United States. In addition, more than a billion gallons a day are needed to generate hydro-power.

The shortage affects those who dwell in great cities, like New York, Philadelphia, Baltimore and Chicago, as well as the residents of such "dry states" as Arizona and Nevada. Even lush, bountiful Colorado must face the water crisis. Sun-kissed Californians have long been aware of the threat to their way of life.

Here are authoritative summaries of the situation in key areas:

CALIFORNIA—State Engineer A. D. Edmonston reports that during a normal year, the state uses about 15 million acre-feet of water—or about one million acre-feet more than is available through distribution systems, both man-made and natural. The result: The one-million-acre-foot overdraft must be pumped from the ground, causing a constant dwindling of the underground water table.

UTAH—State Engineer Joseph Tracy says: "Utah's water supply could be increased by at least 40 per cent through better methods of irrigation, which we are advancing at the present time. In addition, considerable water is lost each spring through runoff floods which could be averted through construction of more dams."

COLORADO—Clifford H. Stone, director of the Colorado Water Conservation Board, reports: "We are now encountering deficiencies in water supplies for some of our municipalities and provision must soon be made for them. Also we must provide for industrial water to be used in such large projects as plants for processing shale oil, synthetic fuels plants and uranium industries. Colorado's sole remaining source for future water development is the two-million-acre feet available annually in the upper Colorado River basin."

NEVADA—Former State Engineer Alfred Merritt Smith notes: "A constant, steady depletion of both surface and ground-water in several important areas is observed. This causes some apprehension as to adequacy of water supply for future expanding needs."

ARIZONA—The U. S. Geological Survey has made this grim report to Congress: "All surface water available is used and oversubscribed. A succession of dry years since 1941 (the latest 'wet' year) has led to increased drafts on overdeveloped ground water. San Carlos Reservoir has been empty nearly each year since the recharge during the 1941 period was exhausted in 1945. All principal ground-water basins and some of the smaller ones are known or believed to be overdeveloped, or having trouble with increased salinity."

The geological survey also cited these problems in other areas:

New England—Declining water levels in heavily pumped industrial areas; salt water encroachment resulting from overpumping in some coastal cities and towns.

Philadelphia and Baltimore—Heavy pumping, declining water levels, encroachment of salty or poor-quality water.

New York City and metropolitan New Jersey—Demands for water in excess of dependable yield have resulted in overdrafts on surface-water storage during a period of moderate drought.

Southeast—Water levels declining in Memphis area; declines and possible local overdevelopment at Montgomery and Selma, Ala.; declines in Jacksonville and Sarasota areas in Florida.

Midwest—Water levels declining in Chicago area; similar conditions in Milwaukee and Minneapolis-St. Paul areas; situation critical in Peoria area; at Youngstown, Ohio, an important steel center, new water supplies must be developed or the city's industrial progress will be choked off.

Texas, Oklahoma, Louisiana, Arkansas — Increasing use of water for irrigation causing considerable overdraft on available supplies. New sources of water are needed.

Carl G. Paulsen, chief hydraulic engineer of the Geological Survey, points out that the tremendous industrial surge forced by World War II brought a vast increase in the demand for water. For example, 600,000 gallons of water were required to produce just one ton of synthetic rubber.

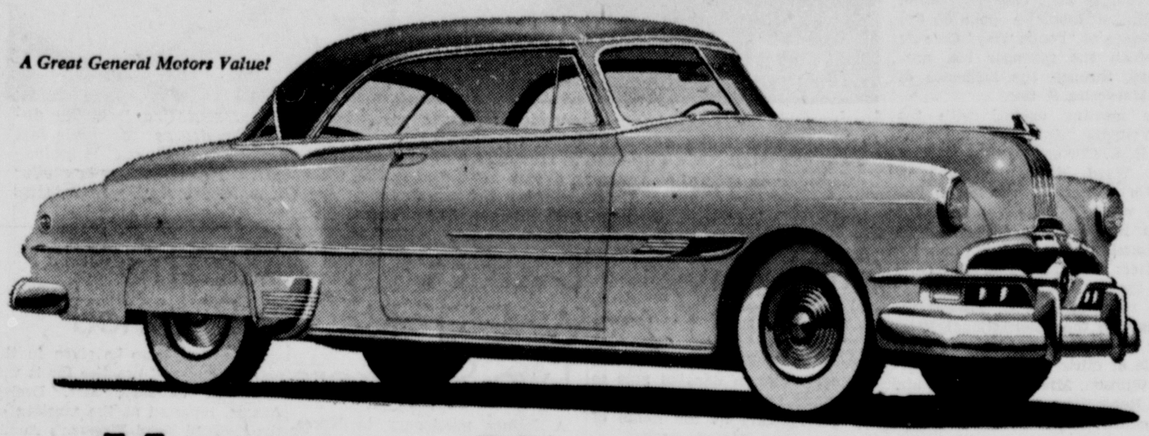

So far this year, says Paulsen, the U. S. lost 10 million pounds of vital-

Much can be gained by talking to yourself before a mirror! It's something all successful actresses do.

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

Both stage and screen actresses spend many hours rehearsing their parts before a mirror and it's not out of vanity. It is the only way to capture the facial expressions that exactly reflect the meaning of their words in a way that does not distort the appeal of their features.

Sit down before your mirror and speak the first bit of prose or poetry that comes to mind and you may be surprised or even alarmed at what you see. Making a regular thing of these "talking picture" sessions will add a lot to any woman's charm.

Grimance or Dead-pan?

In every group of women there are those who grimance as they speak or else dead-pan every utterance.

Frowning, squinting, wiggling the eyebrows, fluttering the lashes, grinning too widely, distending the nostrils, mouth twisting and lip pursing are just a few of the grimaces that can distort your looks and perhaps worse, give an entirely false impression of both your meaning and personality.

Your friends are not apt to tell you of such habits. Nor will your beau or husband. But your mirror will with the utmost frankness.

On discovery of any such contortions, start eliminating them by substituting prettier effects instead. For instance, you can let the laughter in your eyes stand in for the exaggerated grin. Instead of batting your eyelashes, let your smile show your approval of an idea.

Mirrored Wisdom

The more private conversations you have with your mirror, the quicker such switches can be made. For subject matter, choose everyday topics such as the annoying girl in the office, the condition of your wardrobe or the state of your romance—or even next Sunday's dinner menu.

If your mirror greets you with a dead-pan look, just keep on talking until you're sure it's not the result of self-consciousness. Relax and breathe deeply for a while. If your face still persists in looking blank, convince yourself that the absence of expression is even less appealing than too much. That ought to make you willing to work. All you need do is to try, try, try—and then try again!

ly needed aluminum because of water shortages in the Pacific Northwest. The National Production Authority warns that if the situation continues a total of 119 million pounds of aluminum will be lost.

The Interior Department reports that a striking feature of the crisis is that virtually all cities and towns in America must transport their water long distances to keep up with the demand. Thus, water costs have skyrocketed.

Paulsen estimates that the national average cost for a thousand gallons of water is from 10 to 20 cents — and the water engineer emphasizes the daily consumption rate of 1,100 gallons per capita.

What is the answer to the water problem? Does it lie in the "desalting" system, through which salt water from the ocean could be made drinkable?

The Interior Department says no. Government experts maintain that such a solution is still in the distant future.

Using the desalting method now developed, a farmer would have to pay $1,000 a year for each acre of his land as compared with $120 for naturally available water. The U. S. Reclamation Bureau hopes to perfect eventually a process for desalting water at a cost of $1.15 a thousand gallons, but this is still relatively high.

Paulsen, the federal government's No. 1 expert on water problems, outlines a four-point program for overcoming the alarming limitations on the nation's crucial water supply:

1. Increase the total usable water supply in a critical area by leveling out supplies throughout the year so that great volumes of destructive flood water do not rush unused to the sea during some seasons while in others the stream flow drops below requirements. This can be done with storage reservoirs and protection of watersheds.

2. Water quality may be improved through treating water just before use, or by removing or reducing sources of contamination. Reduction of ground-water pollution may be accomplished by legal restrictions against disposal of wastes and by controlled pumping in areas susceptible to salt-water contamination.

3. Industrial users of water can cut consumption or modify requirements. Industries can change production techniques, can install recirculation facilities, or employ corrision-resistant equipment to permit use of contaminated water for some operations.

4. In many areas, available water can be better apportioned among different types of users. For example, in some areas, less water could be provided for irrigation and more for industry.

Much can be gained by talking to yourself before a mirror! It's something all successful actresses do.

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

Both stage and screen actresses spend many hours rehearsing their parts before a mirror and it's not out of vanity. It is the only way to capture the facial expressions that exactly reflect the meaning of their words in a way that does not distort the appeal of their features.

Sit down before your mirror and speak the first bit of prose or poetry that comes to mind and you may be surprised or even alarmed at what you see. Making a regular thing of these "talking picture" sessions will add a lot to any woman's charm.

Grimance or Dead-pan?

In every group of women there are those who grimance as they speak or else dead-pan every utterance.

Frowning, squinting, wiggling the eyebrows, fluttering the lashes, grinning too widely, distending the nostrils, mouth twisting and lip pursing are just a few of the grimaces that can distort your looks and perhaps worse, give an entirely false impression of both your meaning and personality.

Your friends are not apt to tell you of such habits. Nor will your beau or husband. But your mirror will with the utmost frankness.

On discovery of any such contortions, start eliminating them by substituting prettier effects instead. For instance, you can let the laughter in your eyes stand in for the exaggerated grin. Instead of batting your eyelashes, let your smile show your approval of an idea.

Mirrored Wisdom

The more private conversations you have with your mirror, the quicker such switches can be made. For subject matter, choose everyday topics such as the annoying girl in the office, the condition of your wardrobe or the state of your romance—or even next Sunday's dinner menu.

If your mirror greets you with a dead-pan look, just keep on talking until you're sure it's not the result of self-consciousness. Relax and breathe deeply for a while. If your face still persists in looking blank, convince yourself that the absence of expression is even less appealing than too much. That ought to make you willing to work. All you need do is to try, try, try—and then try again!

YOUR MOST ATTRACTIVE VOICE

My New York

by Mel Heimer

NEW YORK—Miss Ava Gardner, a green-eyed child wearing no makeup, a brown and black striped skirt, a yellow blouse and an air of amiable intelligence that contrasted sharply with her sloeeyed movie-making, put down her egg sandwich and came quietly to the defense of Marilyn Monroe.

We were sitting in her suite in the Hampshire House and the man of the house, a singer, had just gone out, for all the good it did me. Miss Gardner had been reading my dark remarks about Miss Monroe, wherein I suspected that Marilyn had been reading her press clippings and looked at were those columns. Even before Page One. Believe me, I had come awfully close to thinking I was important."

It's especially tough on women, Ava told me. "This is a nerve-wracking way of making a living, and if you want any kind of family life, the way women do, you're just cooked," she said. "You sweat all day on the set and you come home too tired for anything, and if you do go out—you live in Macy's window." Her lovely, lively face grew a little grim. "All except me," she added. "I'll work on the set. I'll help publicize my movies and all that—but by heaven, my personal life is going to be my own. I swear it."

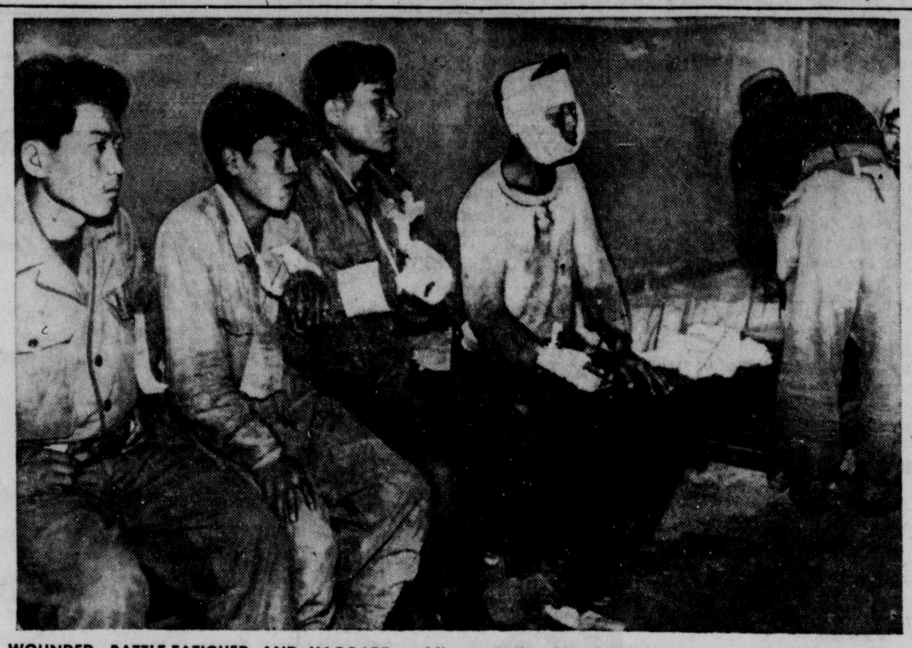

If you have an sensitivity, Ava feels, you're bound to get into trouble over the Macy's-window feeling. "That's why Frank and I have had our difficulties with the press sometimes," she said with a little grin. "We both are kind of sensitive and we've got mild privacy complexes. We've gone along with the newspapers part of the way but sometimes we think they've gone too far. Then we get mad and have a hassle."

I asked Miss Gardner if she could put together for me a list of movie stars who seem to have remained level-headed in spite of their success. She had to scratch her head a bit but she named a few. Van Heflin was right on top of the list. "Van's an actor and he's always acting," she said, "but he's the sweetest, nicest guy in the world and, believe me, he still wears the same size hat."

Clark Gable and Robert Taylor both are gents who don't seem to read their press cuttings too throughly Ava added.

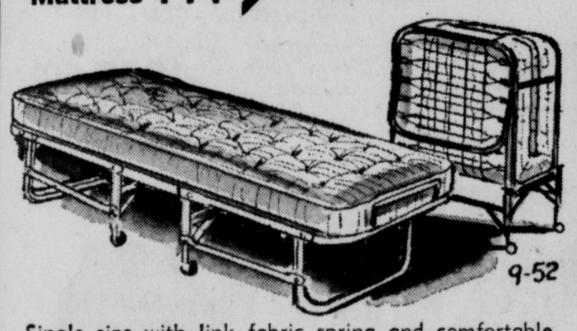

She had a harder time finding women who have remained sane, in a whacky business, but she finally came up with Esther Williams and Lana Turner. "Now don't laugh at Lana's name," she said. "I think that she would have had all her romantic and marital difficulties even if she wasn't in the movies. Actually, deep down, she's one of the nicest, simplest girls around."

During her recent stay here for the "Snow premiere," Ava was visited by a 20-year-old nephew from North Carolina. He took the pace for about a day. "Good Lord!" he exploded finally, "how do you stand this rat race?" Ava told me of it, and then looked at me. "How do we, anyway?" she asked glumly.

NEW YORK—Miss Ava Gardner, a green-eyed child wearing no makeup, a brown and black striped skirt, a yellow blouse and an air of amiable intelligence that contrasted sharply with her sloeeyed movie-making, put down her egg sandwich and came quietly to the defense of Marilyn Monroe.

We were sitting in her suite in the Hampshire House and the man of the house, a singer, had just gone out, for all the good it did me. Miss Gardner had been reading my dark remarks about Miss Monroe, wherein I suspected that Marilyn had been reading her press clippings and fanced herself a person of some importance.

"Listen," Mrs. Sinatra said, "I'm not really defending Marilyn, because in the first place I don't know her. However, just stop and think. Did you ever really know any business in the world like the movies for givng you a big head?

"This is the business where everybody in the country knows you, and some of them think you're the greatest thing since I don't know what. It's the easiest thing imaginable to figure that it's the only business in the world and that you're one of the big wheels in it."

It even almost got Miss Gardner once. This is startling because Miss Gardner is unimpressed by being a movie queen, thinks she could get 20 years in jail for the way she played some scenes in "The Snows of Kilimanjaro" and has what she calls a complete lack of confidence in her ability.

"However when I went to Spain a while back to make a movie," she told me shuddering, "I awoke one morning and discovered suddenly that I hadn't read the movie gossip columns—because there weren't any. Then I sat back, chilled . . . and remembered that for months, every morning I got up the first things I looked at were those columns. Even before Page One. Believe me, I had come awfully close to thinking I was important."

Unity Is Rock Of Gibraltar Against Communism

Dutch

By DICK LaCOSTE

GREENVILLE AIR FORCE BASE, Miss. — Worried Communist Russia calls it warmongering.

What Russia fears is on display here: the babble of a dozen different tongues at this sleepy southern base giving evidence of the most indestructible weapon facing any possible Communist threat—the organized unity of a free world.

This base provides primary pilot training for America and her allies. Picked young men from France, Denmark, the Netherlands, Norway, Italy, Belgium and England are here to acquire aviation know-how so necessary to survival of their homelands.

Italian

The plan that brings them here is the Mutual Defense Assistance Pact (MDAP). The aim of the program begun in 1950 is "Strength for the Free World." Partners in MDAP are the NATO countries, all of whom realize the importance of mutual security.

Divided, an enemy could pick off the smaller nations one by one. The United States is a mighty industrial giant, but must support the collective effort or face the possibility of being surrounded by Communist-dominated nations.

Russia is making a major propaganda effort to disrupt this unity. But western Europeans are determined in their fight for freedom.

This unity of the west is not compulsory. That is why it is a Rock of Gibraltar against the threat of Communism.

Sunday Services Dedicate Church

The newly constructed Bethel Assembly of God Church on Route 51 at Oldtown will be dedicated at two services Sunday.

H. L. Wigfield, local minister, said at 2:15 p. m. Rev. T. B. Pierce of Alexandria, Va., will speak and at 7:15 p. m. Rev. Walter Long of Mt. Morris, Pa., will conduct the service.

The congregation began a Sunday school in a basemer of a projected church with 32 members three years ago.

The group had planned to erect a church on this foundation, but later decided to construct the new building on a plot of ground next to it.

The new structure built of brick, is 30 by 50 feet and can seat 350 persons.

There is also an annex, 24 by 24 feet, that is to be used for Sunday school quarters.

Wigfield said the Sunday school has grown to have over 100 members.

Fifty per cent of the work on the new buildings was by volunteer labor of members of congregation.

The Old Second Guesser

"Flowers For The Living"

It has been a sad week. A great friend of mine died. Although I had known for a month his number was up, the end came as a shock, and the subsequent proceedings reminded me of George Ade's idea which was a series entitled "Flowers For The Living"—the sort of obituaries a fellow can read while he still has his eyesight. The editorials and the bouquets, and the encomiums don't do him any good after the "man in the bright nightgown" has pulled down the curtain.

John Wheeler

"When I go," Deac Aylesworth used to say, "I would like for some of my old friends, following the funeral, to sit around and have a few drinks and talk about me."

Well, we did just that, and I hope he could overhear us, although as we left him, he was starting his long sleep on the side of a hill in the village cemetery.

In my opinion, when he was the first president of the National Broadcasting Company, he was the greatest salesman I have ever seen, and, in my time, I have observed a lot of them. No one, except Deac, then imagined he could successfully peddle time on radio. It was intended to promote the production and marketing of receiving sets. I was in his office one day when the head of a large corporation was announced.

"I will leave," I said.

"No, sit right where you are, my boy," he answered. "I want to give you a lesson in salesmanship." I could use it and did.

Mr. Big Shot arrived in a very skeptical frame of mind about the whole business, and my friend let him talk awhile. Then he pulled out a desk drawer with a chart in it and studied it thoughtfully.

"That's all right with me," he answered. "You see, Mr. Big Shot, we have very little desirable time left, and there is a big demand for it. If your company does not want it, we won't have trouble disposing of it."

He put the chart back, slammed the drawer with an air of finality, and turned to me.

"Well, if we're going to play golf, we'd better start. It's getting late," he said. I nodded. It was the first I had heard of golf that day.

In the meantime the man's tongue was hanging out, and he was reaching for his fountain pen to sign on the dotted line for fear he would lose the spot.

"Forget my board of directors," he announced. "I'll take the responsibility."

Mr. Aylesworth slipped me a sly wink. The deal was closed.

It was a good many years ago Howard Coffin, then a big automobile tycoon, invited about 12 of us to Sea Island, Ga. We were also to cruise on his yacht and do some hunting and fishing. The morning we left New York I was sitting in a drawing room with Lee Olwell, reading the newspaper and minding my own business, when the door burst open without a knock, and Deac came in. We had never met before, but I had heard a lot about him. He reached in his pocket, pulled out a pair of dice, threw them down on the table and said,

"They tell me you are a tough guy. Let's see how good you are."

That was the start of a long and close friendship which only ended the other day and now remains as a memory. We made many trips together, and he was always amusing, never a bore. Once we were sailing through the Caribbean Sea when he rang for the steward.

"Do you have a sun lamp on this boat?" he asked him.

"Why Deac," I said. "There's wonderful tropical sunshine up on the top deck."

"To hell with that," he answered. "I've got to get mine quick so my wife will think I've been playing a lot of golf when we dock."

Rocket Flight Into Space Within 15 Years Forecast

NEW YORK, (INS)—This is the story of man's greatest, boldest adventure—rocket flight into space—and a vision of a huge rocket ship blasting off toward the moon in our lifetime.

It is the story of a man-made moon, an artificial "space station" a thousand miles up, circling the earth once every two hours with 80 men aboard.

The pioneer scientist who developed the famed German V-2 rocket predicted in New York that these stories will come true in just 10 or 15 years.

And to his critics at a Columbus Day scientific conference—experts who called the scheme a "fantastic project" that might drain lives and dollars from America's defense effort—Dr. Wernher von Braun replied:

"We know more right now about what is required of a space ship than the shipbuilders of Columbus' Day knew about what makes a sailing ship seaworthy. But Columbus dared—and he got here."

Dr. von Braun, now technical director of the U. S. Guided Missile Development Group, told the Hayden Planetarium Conference on Space Travel that the first space flight "will become a reality because of its tremendous potential as a deterrent of war."

For the first space station, he explained, will have telescopic cameras and radar scopes to "take the most detailed pictures of any suspect area on the face of the earth at least once every 24 hours—pulling up the Iron Curtain no matter where they lower it."

And when it comes down to cases, Dr. von Braun said, the space station "is also a launching platform for guided missiles—including atomic bombs—against which there cannot be good counter-measures."

To cross the space frontier, the German expert said, we must first develop a reliable, piloted three-stage rocket capable of carrying 36 tons of payload in its third, or smallest stage — a unit that has wings like an airplane.

The third stage could be built and tested now and the first two "booster" stages—big rocket engines that would drop off en route—could be developed by trial-and-error and by firing test rockets during the next ten years.

Dr. von Braun said the plans would "cost millions now—but save billions later on."

But another expert—Dr. Milton Rosen, who developed the American "Viking" rocket that roared up to 136 miles altitude several years ago—warned that space-flight plans are based on a pinch of scientific knowledge and a big dose of guesswork. And he added:

"I can hardly conceive of anything that would do more harm to this country's defense effort, and to the cause of space flight itself, than for the U. S. to undertake any one of the fantastic projects for a space ship that have been proposed in the last few years."

Unmanned rockets like the two-stage "WAC Corporal" have climbed to 236 miles, Dr. Rosen admitted, and today a rocket could carry a man 50 miles up and probably bring him back safely.

But for flights above 50 miles—or to a space station—or to the moon—Dr. Rosen argued that the problems are immense.

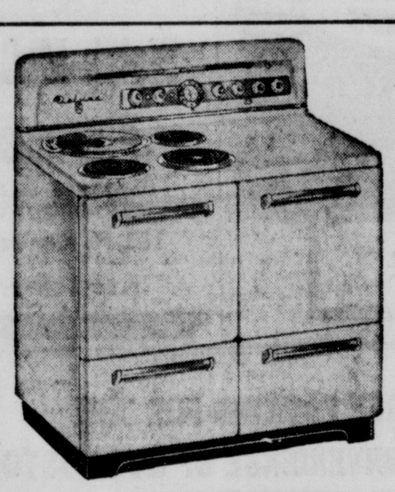

If you were a passenger on such a flight, he said, takeoff acceleration might crush your body, or make your tongue so heavy it strangled you. Friction might melt the rocket's metal skin. Meteors might plow into

Rocket Flight Into Space Within 15 Years Forecast

NEW YORK, (INS)—This is the story of man's greatest, boldest adventure—rocket flight into space—and a vision of a huge rocket ship blasting off toward the moon in our lifetime.

It is the story of a man-made moon, an artificial "space station" a thousand miles up, circling the earth once every two hours with 80 men aboard.

The pioneer scientist who developed the famed German V-2 rocket predicted in New York that these stories will come true in just 10 or 15 years.

And to his critics at a Columbus Day scientific conference—experts who called the scheme a "fantastic project" that might drain lives and dollars from America's defense effort—Dr. Wernher von Braun replied:

"We know more right now about what is required of a space ship than the shipbuilders of Columbus' Day knew about what makes a sailing ship seaworthy. But Columbus dared—and he got here."

Dr. von Braun, now technical director of the U. S. Guided Missile Development Group, told the Hayden Planetarium Conference on Space Travel that the first space flight "will become a reality because of its tremendous potential as a deterrent of war."

For the first space station, he explained, will have telescopic cameras and radar scopes to "take the most detailed pictures of any suspect area on the face of the earth at least once every 24 hours—pulling up the Iron Curtain no matter where they lower it."

And when it comes down to cases, Dr. von Braun said, the space station "is also a launching platform for guided missiles—including atomic bombs—against which there cannot be good counter-measures."

To cross the space frontier, the German expert said, we must first develop a reliable, piloted three-stage rocket capable of carrying 36 tons of payload in its third, or smallest stage — a unit that has wings like an airplane.

The third stage could be built and tested now and the first two "booster" stages—big rocket engines that would drop off en route—could be developed by trial-and-error and by firing test rockets during the next ten years.

Dr. von Braun said the plans would "cost millions now—but save billions later on."

But another expert—Dr. Milton Rosen, who developed the American "Viking" rocket that roared up to 136 miles altitude several years ago—warned that space-flight plans are based on a pinch of scientific knowledge and a big dose of guesswork. And he added:

"I can hardly conceive of anything that would do more harm to this country's defense effort, and to the cause of space flight itself, than for the U. S. to undertake any one of the fantastic projects for a space ship that have been proposed in the last few years."

Unmanned rockets like the two-stage "WAC Corporal" have climbed to 236 miles, Dr. Rosen admitted, and today a rocket could carry a man 50 miles up and probably bring him back safely.

Bids For Hydraulic Crane Being Received By County

Sealed bids will be opened October 31 at 10:30 a. m. by the Allegany County Board of Commissioners on a hydraulic crane to be mounted on a truck chassis.

The equipment is for the use of the County Roads Department. It was decided to buy such a device after J. Walker Chapman, roads supervisor, informed the board that the equipment was needed badly. In some cases where large pipe has to be loaded it has been necessary to use a chain attached to a power shovel. This ties up the shovel and is also inconvenient, Chapman said.

The truck chassis on which the crane is to be used is owned by the county. Outriggers on the device will enable heavy pipe and other materials to be lifted onto the truck. The boom will be of the telescope type and extend up to 22 feet. Straight line pulls will also be done by the winch of the device.

Chapman reported to the board that construction work on the new Evitts Creek bridge at the intersection of the Mason Road and Mount Pleasant Road will probably be done by November 15 and the structure opened to traffic about then. The bridge is replacing one which collapsed under the weight of an overloaded lumber truck last May.

Work on repairing the bridge across the Potomac River at Pinto has been delayed due to the inability of the contractor to obtain materials needed. Notice will be given in time to arrange a schedule for the use of the structure by workers at the Allegany Ballistics Laboratory, according to Chapman.

Student Draft Exams Slated

The third series of Selective Service tests for area college students seeking draft deferment will be held December 4 and April 23, 1953, according to P. Emmett Fahey, clerk co-ordinator of draft boards here.

Nearest testing centers are located at Hagerstown Junior College and Davis and Elkins College.

Students currently deferred on the basis of test scores or class standards number about 190,000.

Fahey said students whose academic year will end in January, 1953, are urged to take the December 4 examination so they will have a test score in SS cover sheets before the end of their academic year, at which time draft boards will reopen and reconsider their cases to determine whether they should be deferred as students.

To be eligible to apply for the College Deferment test a student must intend to request deferment as a student, be satisfactorily pursuing a full-time course of instruction, and must not previously have taken the Selective Service Qualification test.

Applicants for the exam are required to mail forms to the Education Testing Service of Princeton, N. J. in self-addressed envelopes which will be supplied registrants by draft boards. Applications for the December 4 test must be postmarked not later than November 1.

The present criteria for deferment as an undergraduate student is either a satisfactory score of 70 on the test or satisfactory rank in class—upper half of the freshman class, upper two-thirds of the sophomore class and upper three-fourths of the junior class. It is not mandatory for local draft boards to follow the criteria.

SS officials said the criteria is a flexible yardstick and that standards may be raised any time necessary for manpower demands.

Buccos Obtain Abrams, Henley And Joe Rossi

Browns Pay $150,000 For Hunter; St. Louis Gets Ray Jablonski

NEW YORK, Oct. 14 (AP) — Major league clubs were busy as beavers today in lining up talent for the 1953 season.

The Pittsburgh Pirates a woeful last in the National League and the St. Louis Browns, a sad seventh in the American, pulled off the biggest deals of the day while the Boston Red Sox, St. Louis Cardinals and the Philadelphia Athletics dipped into the minors to bolster their squads.

Pittsburgh traded Gus Bell, 23-year-old long-ball hitting outfielder to the Cincinnati Reds for Catcher Joe Rossi and Outfielders Cal Abrams and Gail Henley.

Browns Pay $150,000

The Browns laid out the largest cash-player purchase price in their history, $150,000, to obtain Shortstop Bill Hunter from the Brooklyn Dodger organization

Hunter played with Fort Worth of the Texas League this season. He batted .290 and led the league in fielding and stolen bases. He was hailed as one of the best shortstops in the minors.

In addition to the cash outlay, the Browns shipped Outfielder Ray Coleman, Pitcher Bob Mahoney and Shortstop Stan Rojek to the Dodgers' St. Paul team of the American Association.

Pirates Add Pair

The Pirates also added two players from the minor leagues. The Bucs obtained Catcher Bill Hall from their Charleston South Atlantic League club and Pitcher Charley Sipple, once of the Philadelphia Phillies, from Indianapolis of the American Association. The Pirates in turn sent Pitcher Don Carlson to Charleston and sold Lefthander Len Yochim to New Orleans.

Philadelphia signed Righthander John Mackinson, a former New York Yankee farmhand, to a contract. Mackinson won 16 and lost 14 for Birmingham's tail-end Southern Association team.

The Red Sox bought four pitchers from their Louisville farm club and sold two pitchers and a catcher to the American Association team.

Three of the four new Boston pitchers are rookies—Stan McWilliams, Tom Herrin, and George Uhaze.

Bosox Get Holcombe

The fourth Red Sox acquisition is Ken Holcombe, 34, former major leaguer who finished the last season with Louisville.

Sold to Louisville by the Red Sox were Catcher Len Okrie, with San Diego on option last year, and Pitchers Harley Hisner and Jim Atkins. Hisner was with San Diego and Atkins with Baltimore last season.

The Cardinals acquired the International League's Rookie of the Year, Third Baseman Ray Jablonski, from Rochester and picked up five other players from farm clubs.

Ask Waivers On Birdie

Cleveland asked waivers on veteran Catcher George Birdie Tebbetts with the idea of giving him his unconditional release. General Manager Hank Greenberg said he hoped to give Tebbetts a job in the organization, either as coach or manager of the Indianapolis farm club.

Yesterday the New York Yankees gave an unconditional release to Charlie Keller and the New York Giants obtained Pitcher Frank Hiller from Cincinnati.

Salas Defends Title Against Carter Tonight

CHICAGO, Oct. 14 (AP) — Lauro Salas, only Mexican ever to hold an undisputed boxing title, is bursting with confidence that he will hang on to his lightweight crown tomorrow night against Jimmy Carter.

"I read that Carter is favorite 2 to 1 but that is crazy odds," said the little Monterrey mauler who works out of Los Angeles.

"I'm sure I can beat Carter again. I punch too hard and have too much lasting strength for him."

The scheduled 15 rounder at Chicago Stadium will begin at 10 p. m. EST and be televised and broadcast nationally.

The International Boxing Club looks for a slim ringside gathering of 6,000 and a meager gate of $25,000.

"Most of the tickets being bought are for cheap seats," said Truman Gibson, IBC secretary.

The peanuts Salas and Carter will receive from the net gate—30 per cent apiece—will be amply supplemented from television and radio receipts. Each is expected to get approximately $10,000 from this means in a special deal.

The 24-year-old Salas is a natural featherweight and probably will be lucky to reach 131 pounds even by drinking a gallon of malted milks. Carter, 28 New York Negro, will come in at the limit of 135.

Carter lost the lightweight title to Salas by decision in a stunning upset at Los Angeles five months ago after capturing it from Ike Williams May 25, 1951 with a 14 round kayo. Carter has since claimed that Salas won a "home town decision."

MOUNTAINEERS' PUNTER—Halfback Jack Stone, who comes from Mount Hope, W. Va., will do the punting for West Virginia when the Mountaineers of Coach Art Lewis meet Washington and Lee University's Generals here Saturday at 2 p. m. Stone ranks 10th in punting in the Southern Conference. In three games he has punted 10 times for an average of 34.6 yards. Jack is a junior and tips the beam at 170.

High Scoring Game Seen Here Saturday

Mountaineers Hold Heavy-Duty Drills

MORGANTOWN, W. Va., Oct. 14 — (Special) — Tired and battered from their courageous battle against overwhelming Penn State last Saturday, the hustling young West Virginia football club today turned its full attention towards Washington and Lee, to be played Saturday at Cumberland.

The Mountaineers engaged in heavy-duty practice today after simply loosening up yesterday from the bone-crushing Penn State game. They left little to be desired in gallantry but obviously were far from satisfied with their passing game both offensively and defensively.

Nobody is more anxious than the squad for a major victory, and Saturday's tussle in Cumberland looks ripe. If additional inspiration is needed, the Mountaineers have only to recall the past two meetings when W.&L. came off a surprising easy victor.

Now, with Gil Bocetti gone, the Generals have only split even in four games this year. They squeezed past Richmond 21-20 last Saturday and also beat Davidson 33-14 while losing 34-0 to Duke and 33-28 to George Washington. Joe Lindsay quarterbacks a club with eight of 11 offensive regulars last year returning, including the Southern Conference's leading ground-gainers, Randy Broyles and Wes Abrams, and All-Southern end Bob Thomas.

The Generals appear just as good offensively as last year's great club but weaker defensively, so a high-scoring game is in prospect.

Potomac State Crippled For Friday Game

Cats Play Glenville, Totten In Hospital

KEYSER W. Va. Oct. 14—Potomac State's Catamounts won their third straight game over Salem College on Saturday but the losers made Coach "Horse" Lough's team pay the bill for its victory.

"Roddy" Totten, pass receiving end is in the hospital with a chipped vertebra, and is lost for the rest of the season.

Dick Poe, regular fullback has a severe Charley horse and will be out of Friday's game with Glenville.

Danny Rose, hard running halfback, has a bad shoulder injury and will not see action.

John Wyzkoski and John Emch, regular tackles, probably will be out Friday with an injured knee and chest.

Coach Lough remarked today that "when it rains it pours." The Cats got through their first two games without injuries.

Several changes will be made in State's lineup Friday due to the crippled condition of the squad. Robert Barber, freshman end, and Bill Sutton, veteran end will be moved to tackles. Richard Rishak will probably start at Totten's end, and Joe Talbott and Ed Egan may start at halfback and fullback, respectively.

This game here this week has been changed from Saturday to Friday so as not to conflict with the West Virginia-Washington and Lee contest at Cumberland. The opening kickoff is set for 2 o'clock.

Washington Senators Give Harris Two-Year Contract

Salary Is Reported To Be $35,000 Year

WASHINGTON, Oct. 14 (AP) — Bucky Harris today signed a new two-year contract to manage the Washington Senators. His salary wasn't announced officially, but it was reliably reported to be around $35,000 a year.

This would be an increase of $10,000 a year over what he has been making for the past three seasons.

Three years ago Harris returned to the Senators—where he started out in the major leagues 33 years ago—in one of the club's darkest hours. Washington had finished a sorry last, 44 games out of first place.

Since then Harris has coaxed his team into seventh once and fifth twice.

His showing during the past season was his best.

Harris, who twice has been fired as manager of the Senators, is now on his third hitch here.

It all adds up to 16 years as manager of the Senators, plus five years as manager of the Detroit Tigers, two as manager of the Yankees, and a year each as manager of the Philadelphia Phillies and the Boston Red Sox.

Washington Senators Give Harris Two-Year Contract

Salary Is Reported To Be $35,000 Year

WASHINGTON, Oct. 14 (AP) — Bucky Harris today signed a new two-year contract to manage the Washington Senators. His salary wasn't announced officially, but it was reliably reported to be around $35,000 a year.

This would be an increase of $10,000 a year over what he has been making for the past three seasons.

Three years ago Harris returned to the Senators—where he started out in the major leagues 33 years ago—in one of the club's darkest hours. Washington had finished a sorry last, 44 games out of first place.

Since then Harris has coaxed his team into seventh once and fifth twice.

His showing during the past season was his best.

Harris, who twice has been fired as manager of the Senators, is now on his third hitch here.

It all adds up to 16 years as manager of the Senators, plus five years as manager of the Detroit Tigers, two as manager of the Yankees, and a year each as manager of the Philadelphia Phillies and the Boston Red Sox.

Barton Booters Defeat Oakland

This fellow's trying to outsmart us... and that's good for YOU!

We don't know his name or even what he looks like. But we do know what he's up to. Right now at this minute he's working in the research laboratory of a competitive oil company. He may be devising the formula for a new and better gasoline, or developing an improved manufacturing process, or inventing a wonderful new petroleum by-product which may revolutionize the plastics industry. If he succeeds, his company will have a temporary competitive advantage over ours.

Frankly, this fellow worries us a little sometimes. But we're awfully glad he's around!

His habit of keeping at our heels keeps us on our toes. We have to be just as smart as he is (or maybe a little smarter) to stay in business. Intense competition among hundreds of competing oil companies has stimulated research and production to create for America an abundance of the good things of life undreamed of in other times or other countries.

Until somebody invents a better formula for prosperity than old-fashioned competition, let's all stick to our own system of trying to do a better job than the other fellow. That way, we'll all be better off!

This fellow's trying to outsmart us... and that's good for YOU!

We don't know his name or even what he looks like. But we do know what he's up to. Right now at this minute he's working in the research laboratory of a competitive oil company. He may be devising the formula for a new and better gasoline, or developing an improved manufacturing process, or inventing a wonderful new petroleum by-product which may revolutionize the plastics industry. If he succeeds, his company will have a temporary competitive advantage over ours.

Frankly, this fellow worries us a little sometimes. But we're awfully glad he's around!

His habit of keeping at our heels keeps us on our toes. We have to be just as smart as he is (or maybe a little smarter) to stay in business. Intense competition among hundreds of competing oil companies has stimulated research and production to create for America an abundance of the good things of life undreamed of in other times or other countries.

Until somebody invents a better formula for prosperity than old-fashioned competition, let's all stick to our own system of trying to do a better job than the other fellow. That way, we'll all be better off!

From Orange, N. J., comes an interesting letter from Brother Gregory Mutien, former director of athletics at LaSalle High School, this city, who is now on the teaching staff of St. John's School in that city.

Brother Gregory

Bro. Gregory states that Orange is a 15-minute bus ride to his home in Newark so he can be near his sister who is ailing.

The popular Christian Brother who made many friends in Cumberland gives us the latest slant on the Vinnie Farrell case. Farrell is the basketball referee who officiated for LaSalle during Bro. Gregory's term as athletic head and gained international publicity when injured during a riot at the Olympic Games in Helsinki this year.

The latest development, according to Bro. Gregory, is that Farrell and his Uruguayan basketball adversaries have kissed and made up. The Newark official who was slugged by Uruguayan cagers during the team's Olympic Game with France had a surprise visit from two of the South American country's officials October 8 at the Webster Street Public School (Newark) where Vinnie is a teacher.

They offered apologies of the Uruguayan government, the basketball confederation and the sports public of Uruguay and they expressed profound sorrow for the treatment some of the players had given him during the Olympic Games.

Farrell was told that newspapers throughout South America had loudly denounced the Uruguayan players responsible for the attack on the Newark official and Vinnie was extended an invitation to serve as referee-in-chief of the South American basketball championships at Montevideo, Uruguay, next March.

Vinnie, who was the only American basketball official at the Olympic cage games, revealed that he had received an invitation to officiate the third Central American Games at El Salvador this December.

• - • - •

At the same time we received Bro. Gregory's letter, Gene Roman, another New Jerseyite, dropped in to say hello.

Roman, former Cumberlander, who has been refereeing pro boxing shows in the Skeeter State for the past 20 years, and is now seen on television, comes to this section annually to take the baths as Berkeley Springs, W. Va., whose curative medicinal spring waters have been known since 1747.

Gene, who is built like a wrestler, is in the wholesale grocery business at Patterson, N. J., and supplied the Joe Louis camp at Pompton Lakes with food whenever the Brown Bomber trained for a championship match.

Roman is a close friend of Rocky Marciano, the new heavyweight champion, and refereed several of Rocky's fights in Jersey after the Brockton Blaster came out of the amateurs. He visited Rocky's camp at Grossinger, N. Y., before the recent championship match and was at the ringside the night Marciano dethroned Jersey Joe Walcott.

Rocky has promised to be on hand for the ceremonies when Gene dedicates his new grocery warehouse at Paterson next week.

There's an interesting story in the November issue of the Baseball Magazine about Lefty Grove. It is authored by Ed Rumill.

"Connie Mack once said that if he had just one ball game to win, Chief Bender would be his pick as pitcher," Rumill writes. "He has said, too, that he thought Rube Waddell was his greatest. It is notable, though, that when he was asked not long ago, to name an all-star team of Philadelphia Athletics in his 50 years of managing them, he chose as his batter Mickey Cochrane, catcher, and Robert Moses "Lefty" Grove to do the pitching.

"If he isn't the greatest left-hander the game has seen," Cochrane once said of his battery mate, "I certainly can't imagine anyone being better. Matter of fact," added Mickey, "I can't think of a better right-hander, either."

Rumill points out that Grove is the only pitcher in the 300-win group who did all of his hurling against the lively ball. He always said that if he had been born about 40 years earlier, he'd have won 500 games.

"If anybody was faster than Grove, it would take an electric eye to prove it."

In the same issue of the Baseball Magazine Dazzy Vance, one-time Brooklyn Dodgers' strikeout king, is being boosted for a place in Baseball's Hall of Fame.

Dazzy is one of the many baseball notables we had the pleasure of meeting during the recent World Series.

Vance, who won 28 games and fanned 262 in 1924, for the highest mark since Christy Mathewson's N. L. record of 267 in 1903, revived many stories of the days when Wilbert "Uncle Robbie" Robinson managed the Dodgers.

Now a resident of Florida, Vance recalled the time three Dodgers — "Chick" Fewster, "Babe" Herman and himself — occupied third base at the same time.

Dazzy formed a dislike for the Chicago Cubs late in the '24 season when Vic Keen, Chicago pitcher, kissed a hurler of an opposing team for beating the Dodgers in a game that put the latter out of the pennant race which the Giants won. He says he always bore down against the Cubs after that and on three different occasions struck out 15 of them in a single game.

Pershing Rohrer, former Cumberland newspaperman, is back in the groove again in his new job as sports editor of the Evening Record at Ravenna, Ohio.

He took over there Sept. 1 after moving from Plainfield, N. J., and he's revived his column headed "Rohrering Thru Sports."

Montgomery Blair High's Blazers, Allegany's opponent Saturday at Silver Spring, suffered their third defeat of the season last Saturday at the hands of Calvin Coolidge High of Washington. The score was 13-0.

The previous week Coach Reno Continetti's Blazers scored win No. 2 over Southern High of Baltimore by the same score.

Frank Wimer's Elkins High Tigers who play Allegany next month now have a 4-2 record after trouncing Roosevelt-Wilson of Clarksburg, 33-0, and Fairmont East 26-0.

The real veteran of the Cumberland Country Club golfing wars is Dr. Karl P. Heintz.

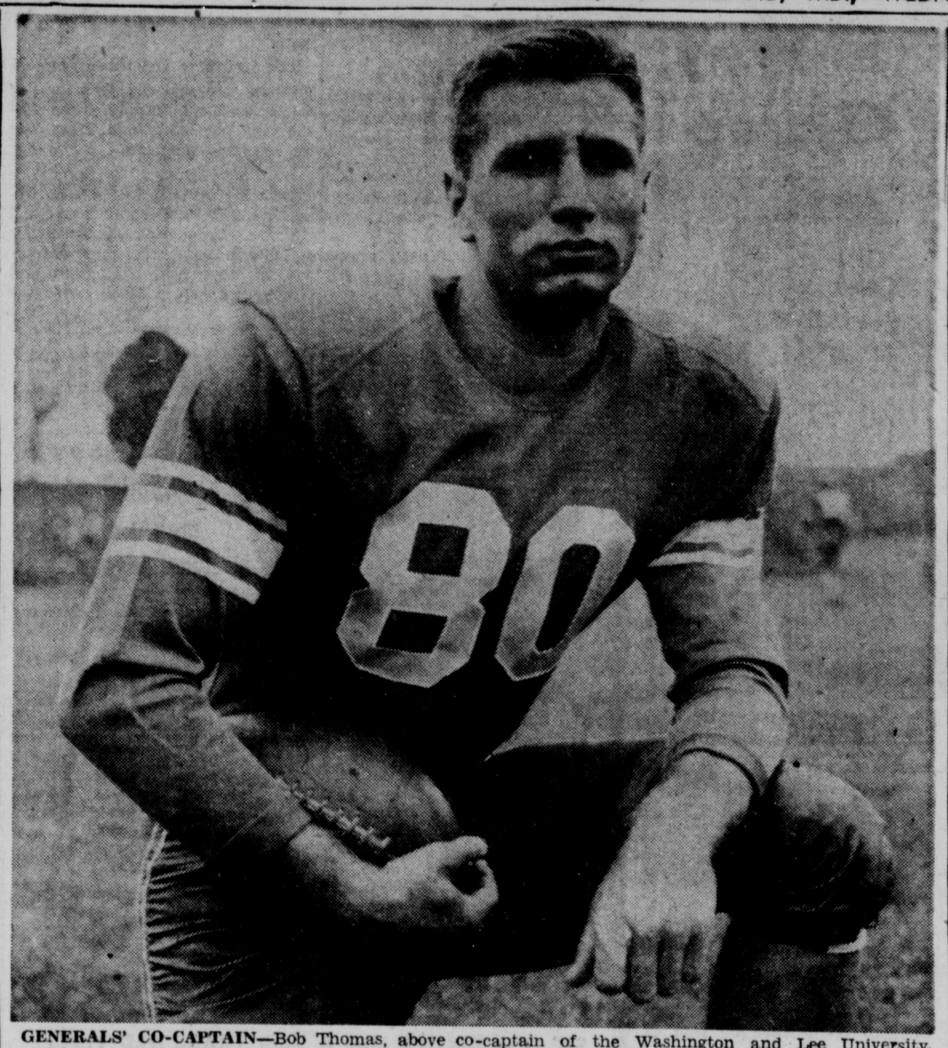

Here's a news item dated October 8, 1920:

"Dr. Karl P. Heintz won the fall golf championship at the Cumberland Country Club by defeating J. Owens, 1 up on the 18th."

In 1921 Dr. Heintz lost in the finals to J. Logan Hopkins, 1 up on the 18th.

Jimmy Beveridge was pro at the CCC in those days.

To football fan who called:
The capacity of the University of Pittsburgh Stadium is 64,000.

GENERALS' CO-CAPTAIN—Bob Thomas, above co-captain of the Washington and Lee University eleven will be very much in evidence Saturday when the Generals tangle with West Virginia University at the local stadium at 2 p. m. Thomas was an All-Southern end last year, catching 30 passes for nearly 600 yards. In four conference contests this year he has caught eight passes for 173 yards and has scored two touchdowns. He is a senior from Fort Worth, Texas.

Spartans Lead Football Poll, Terps Are 2nd

Badgers Fade Out, Navy In 20th Place

By WILL GRIMSLEY

NEW YORK, Oct. 14 (AP)—Michigan State, pre-season favorite, is back on top of the Associated Press football poll today but can't afford to relax and take it easy.

At least two other teams with impressive unmarred records — Maryland and California — are ready to step in.

The Spartans recaptured the No. 1 position from Wisconsin, upset victim of Ohio State. They impressed sports writers and newscasters with the decisive way they manhandled Texas A & M. 48-6.

In the poll, ten points are given for each first place vote, nine for second, and so forth.

Michigan State received 39 first place votes and a total of 1,026 points. Maryland, which swamped Georgia 37-0, got 31 first place votes and 961 points compared with 21 first place votes and 889 points for California. The Golden Bears beat Oregon Saturday, 41-7.

Completing the top ten are Georgia Tech, Duke, Oklahoma, Southern California, Kansas, Purdue and UCLA.

Wisconsin dropped out of the first ten on its 23-14 loss to Ohio State. Notre Dame, beaten 22-19 by Pitt, plummeted from eighth position and Princeton, its 24-game winning streak broken by Penn, fell from 10th to the "also rans."

New members of the top ten are Oklahoma, up from 12th to sixth; Purdue, from 16th to ninth, and UCLA, from 11th to tenth.

Grand Jury Clears Rivera Of Chisox

CHICAGO, Oct. 14 (INS)—The Cook County Grand Jury today reportedly refused to vote a true bill in the case of Chicago White Sox star centerfielder Jim Rivera.

eH had been charged with criminal assault.

The reported refusal of the grand jurors to hold the 31-year-old baseball player came after Mrs. Janet Gater, 22, related how Rivera allegedly forced his way into her Chicago apartment and forced his attentions on her.

Rivera insisted Mrs. Gater, wife of an army private assigned to Fifth Army Headquarters in Chicago, had invited him into the apartment and embraced him.

Frank Lane, general manager of the White Sox, informed of the grand jury's failure to hold Rivera, said:

"We are very glad that the White Sox outfielder has been cleared."

Apologies To Vinnie • - • - • Good Story On Grove

Gene Roman Visitor • - • - • Why Dazzy Hated Cubs

By C. V. BURNS

From Orange, N. J., comes an interesting letter from Brother Gregory Mutien, former director of athletics at LaSalle High School, this city, who is now on the teaching staff of St. John's School in that city.

Brother Gregory

Bro. Gregory states that Orange is a 15-minute bus ride to his home in Newark so he can be near his sister who is ailing.

The popular Christian Brother who made many friends in Cumberland gives us the latest slant on the Vinnie Farrell case. Farrell is the basketball referee who officiated for LaSalle during Bro. Gregory's term as athletic head and gained international publicity when injured during a riot at the Olympic Games in Helsinki this year.

The latest development, according to Bro. Gregory, is that Farrell and his Uruguayan basketball adversaries have kissed and made up. The Newark official who was slugged by Uruguayan cagers during the team's Olympic Game with France had a surprise visit from two of the South American country's officials October 8 at the Webster Street Public School (Newark) where Vinnie is a teacher.

NEW YORK, Oct. 14 (AP)—Michigan State, pre-season favorite, is back on top of the Associated Press football poll today but can't afford to relax and take it easy.

At least two other teams with impressive unmarred records — Maryland and California — are ready to step in.

The Spartans recaptured the No. 1 position from Wisconsin, upset victim of Ohio State. They impressed sports writers and newscasters with the decisive way they manhandled Texas A & M. 48-6.

In the poll, ten points are given for each first place vote, nine for second, and so forth.

Michigan State received 39 first place votes and a total of 1,026 points. Maryland, which swamped Georgia 37-0, got 31 first place votes and 961 points compared with 21 first place votes and 889 points for California. The Golden Bears beat Oregon Saturday, 41-7.

Completing the top ten are Georgia Tech, Duke, Oklahoma, Southern California, Kansas, Purdue and UCLA.

Wisconsin dropped out of the first ten on its 23-14 loss to Ohio State. Notre Dame, beaten 22-19 by Pitt, plummeted from eighth position and Princeton, its 24-game winning streak broken by Penn, fell from 10th to the "also rans."

New members of the top ten are Oklahoma, up from 12th to sixth; Purdue, from 16th to ninth, and UCLA, from 11th to tenth.

The leaders points based on ten for first, nine for second, and so on with first place votes in parentheses:

1.	Michigan State (39)	1,026

Grand Jury Clears Rivera Of Chisox

CHICAGO, Oct. 14 (INS)—The Cook County Grand Jury today reportedly refused to vote a true bill in the case of Chicago White Sox star centerfielder Jim Rivera.

eH had been charged with criminal assault.

The reported refusal of the grand jurors to hold the 31-year-old baseball player came after Mrs. Janet Gater, 22, related how Rivera allegedly forced his way into her Chicago apartment and forced his attentions on her.

Rivera insisted Mrs. Gater, wife of an army private assigned to Fifth Army Headquarters in Chicago, had invited him into the apartment and embraced him.

Frank Lane, general manager of the White Sox, informed of the grand jury's failure to hold Rivera, said:

"We are very glad that the White Sox outfielder has been cleared."

ROCKY MARCIANO
Heavyweight Champ

By FRANK ECK

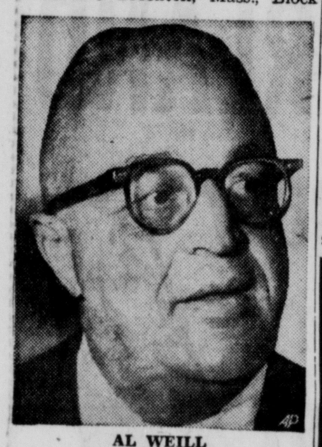

NEW YORK—Some boxing men laughed at Al Weill four years ago when he brought out a crude young heavyweight who had knocked out seven straight opponents in Providence, R. I., rings.

These same veterans almost went into convulsions when Weill's heavyweight made his first appearance in a New York ring.

Today everybody sits back and listens to the astute fight manager, ex-ballroom dancer and former Madison Square Garden matchmaker who has maneuvered four fighters to a world's championship.

Rocky Marciano, the crude young heavyweight, today sits atop the highest honor in boxing. As world's heavyweight champion Marciano no longer is a flabby looking ringman who throws a punch without looking at his target.

"A young, strong kid who can knock your brains out with one punch, but he's pretty green right now," was how Weill once talked about the Brockton, Mass., Block Buster.

AL WEILL
Mr. Manager

Weill had Charley Goldman, a former bantamweight fighter, teach Marciano the finer points of fisticuffs. As a trainer Goldman must have few equals for he and Weill have been together to watch their fighters take four championships.

Goldman did the teaching and Weill the manipulating.

Their first champion and the best known—before Marciano—was Lou Ambers. He won the world's lightweight title at 23 in 1936 by beating Tony Canzoneri.

It was not Weill's first effort to get his man the title. Ambers had lost to Canzoneri in 1935. Weill just bided his time for a return bout. Ambers meanwhile was paired with fellows he could take and he won 14 in a row.

Ready for another shot at Canzoneri's crown, Ambers beat Tony for the title on Sept. 3, 1936. The following year he beat Canzoneri again. But in 1938, Henry Armstrong took Ambers and the crown. Almost a year to the day later—on Aug. 22, 1939—Ambers regained the crown by beating Armstrong. In 1940 Ambers lost the crown when he was stopped in three rounds by Lew Jenkins. Ambers, the Herkimer, N. Y., Hurricane, retired in 1941 after Jenkins again stopped him in seven rounds in a non-title bout.

"I never want to see any of my fighters hurt," was the way Weill put it.

Second on Weill's list of champions was Joey Archibald, an Irishman and the only non-Italian fighter of Weill's quartet of champions. Archibald won the featherweight title at 22 by beating Mike Belloise on Oct. 17, 1938.

On May 20, 1940, Archibald lost the title to Harry Jeffra in Baltimore but eight days less than a year later Joey regained it by beating Jeffra in Washington. But on Sept. 11, 1941, Chalky Wright relieved Archibald of the diadem with an 11-round knockout in Washington. After losing 12 straight fights, Archibald retired in 1943.

It seemed like a long time between champions for Weill but in Marty Servo he maneuvered No. 3 to the throne room. On Feb. 1, 1946, at 26, Servo knocked out Freddie Cochrane in four rounds to take the welterweight title. The Schenectady, N. Y., boxer, however, retired in 1947 after being stopped in the first round by Joe DiMartino.

Weill's present champion may not be much of a boxer but he has the punch to knock out a man with one blow and thats the trademark of a great heavyweight.

Weill certainly knew what he was doing when he resigned as Madison Square Garden matchmaker to manage Marciano on a full time basis rather than by remote control through his stepson, Marty Weill.

"I'd be crazy if I turned down a chance to manage the next heavyweight champion of the world," said Al when he quit the Garden. Weill is anything but crazy.

Terps-Navy Game Reported Sellout

COLLEGE PARK, Md., Oct. 14 (AP)—The "sold out" sign went up today for the Maryland-Navy football game Saturday.

The university put up almost 11,000 extra bleacher seats and they could have sold twice than many more.

The stadium has 34,000 permanent seats and bleachers increased the capacity for Saturday to 45,000. The ticket office spent all day constantly turning away customers for more.

The last time the three-year-old stadium was sold out was for the dedication Sept. 30 1050, when 43,836 fans paid to attend. Navy was the opponent then, too.

John Mauer is in his second season as Florida's head basketball coach. A graduate of the University of Illinois, Mauer coached basketball at Kentucky, Tennessee and West Point before taking over the Gators

BUCKY WILL BE BACK—The smiles and the pen in hand reveal that Stanley "Bucky" Harris will be back next year to manage the Washington Senators. Clark Griffith, president of the club, puts an arm around Bucky's shoulders as the contract is signed in Washington. The Senators came within a game of getting in the first division this year, and it is believed Harris would be paid about $35,000 a year, or about $10,000 more than he reportedly received the past three seasons.

Musial Makes All-Star Team For Sixth Time

Shantz And Roberts Are Pitchers Named

NEW YORK, Oct. 14 (AP) — The 1952 major league All-Star team, announced today, is almost brand new everywhere except the infield.

Of the four holdovers from 1951, three are infielders—First Baseman Ferris Fain of the Philadelphia Athletics, Second Baseman Jackie Robinson of the Brooklyn Dodgers and Shortstop Phil Rizzuto of the New York Yankees.

The fourth returnee is Stan Musial, St. Louis Cardinal outfielder making the honor team for the sixth time. He has missed only once since the team was first picked in 1946.

The team is picked annually by the Associated Press in a poll of members of the Baseball Writers Association of America.

New York's world champion Yankees placed three men on the 10-man team while the Philadelphia Athletics placed two. No other club was honored with more than one performer.

Completing the infield was Al Rosen, who batted .302 for the Cleveland Indians. Joining Musial in the outfield were Hank Sauer of the Chicago Cubs and Mickey Mantle of the Yankees.

Larry "Yogi" Berra edged out Brooklyn's Roy Campanella for the catchers' spot. His battery mates were solid choices—Bobby Shantz, the Athletics' 24-game winner, and Robin Roberts of the Phillies, who had the season's best record at 28-7.

Shantz received the most votes, getting 70 of the 72 cast. Musial, who also received votes for first base, was on 68 ballots.

The All-Star team:

FIRST BASE—Ferris Fain, Athletics .327
SECOND—Jackie Robinson, Dodgers .308
THIRD—Al Rosen, Indians .302
SHORTSTOP — Phil Rizzuto, Yankees .253
LEFT FIELD—Hank Sauer, Cubs .270
RIGHT—Stan Musial, Cardinals .336
CENTER—Mickey Mantle, Yankees .331
CATCHER—Larry Yogi Berra, Yankees .273
RIGHTHANDED PITCHER—Robin Roberts, Phillies 28-7
LEFTHANDED PITCHER—Bobby Shantz, Athletics 24-7

Reynolds Tops Major Hurlers With 2.07 Mark

Wilhelm Of Giants Heads NL With 2.43

BY BEN OLAN

NEW YORK, Oct. 14 (AP)—Righthanders Allie Reynolds of the New York Yankees and Hoyt Wilhelm, New York Giants' relief specialists, took major league earned run honors for the 1952 season.

Final earned run averages compiled by the Associated Press today disclosed that Reynolds, who posted a 20-8 record, paced American League pitchers with a 2.07 mark. Wilhelm topped National League moundsmen with a 2.43 slate.

It is the first earned run title for Reynolds, an 11-year man. The 34-year-old strong-arm hurler enjoyed the distinction of compiling the most impressive junior loop average since 1946 when Detroit's Hal Newhouser led with 1.94. It was also the seventh time a New York Yankee pitcher captured ERA laurels.

Best Mark Of Career

Reynolds, who permitted 56 earned runs in 244 innings, recorded the lowest earned run average of his career, his previous low being 2.98 with the Cleveland Indians in 1943. Last season, Allie was fifth on the AL list at 3.05.

Wilhelm, who won 15 games and dropped three, becomes the first relief pitcher in National League history to head the earned run parade. Heretofore, 10 complete games was used as the basis for earned run supremacy. But following the 1951 campaign the rule was revised to include hurlers who participate in at least 154 innings.

The 29-year-old knuckleballer appeared in 71 games, none as a starter. His record showed only 43 untainted tallies in 159 frames. Last season another freshman, Chet Nichols of Boston, came away with the NL earned run championship.

Cleveland's big three of Mike Garcia, Bob Lemon and Early Wynn were well represented among the American League pacesetters.

Garcia Is Runner-up

Garcia was right behind Reynolds at 2.40, followed by Lemon with 2.47. Wynn was tenth with a 2.90 average.

Bobby Shantz of the Philadelphia Athletics was fourth with a 2.48 mark.

Wilhelm's closest competitor was Warren Hacker of the Chicago Cubs who finished with 2.58.

NEW YORK, Oct. 14 (INS)—For the last year or two it seemed that New York had lost its "proud position" as the center of the fight racket.

The Broadway boys grieved when title fights went to such places as Philadelphia, Chicago, Detroit and Havana.

But it now appears that the status quo soon will be restored and that New York will take its "rightful place" as the focal and controlling point of the fight racket.

The word among the mob is that political pressure has been brought to bear on Bob Christenberry, chairman of the New York Boxing Commission, who was severely condemned by the mob for driving the big gates out of town.

You may recall that the commissioner took office breathing fire and brimstone and a strong determination to drive the rascals out of the fight racket.

A laudable ambition no doubt but not too easy to realize.

The commissioner refused to grant a license to Felix Bocchicchio, Joe Walcott's manager which resulted in the heavyweight title fight going to Philadelphia. New York business men didn't like that.

Other fight managers got the back of the commissioner's neck.

But there has been a change. Willie Ketchum manager of lightweight Jimmy Carter, whom the commissioner refused to license, now has one and will be able to work again in New York.

The fight mob believes Bocchiccho also will be granted a manager's license if he cares to apply for it.

In that case the return heavyweight bout between Walcott and Rocky Marciano will be held in New York next June.

The state and city treasuries which always can stand a shot in the bankroll will benefit accordingly.

Meanwhile there is no title shot in sight for Broadway before next year. There has been talk of a Walcott-Marciano return in Miami but that is unlikely because (1) it would not draw enough there and (2) Marciano is picking up too much easy dough to put his title on the line so soon.

We were intrigued by the yarn that some big gamblers in Las Vegas, Nev., where gambling is legal, are going to bankroll a lightheavyweight title bout between Champion Joey Maxim and Archie Moore.

If so, it will not be the first time that gamblers have backed a fight. During the dear departed days of the prohibition era gamblers, politicians and promoters formed many an unholy alliance.

All three classes seemed to understand one another perfectly and the fights were run smoothly and with financial benefit for everybody except perhaps the cash customers. And they don't count.

Reformers may shout until they turn green about monopoly but the fact remains that the lads in the fight racket like New York to control boxing. Because as one of the lads so beautifully expressed it:

"There is more sucker money in New York than anywhere else."

Consider yourself invited!

And consider yourself very welcome as well, when you are served an especially good-tasting whiskey called Imperial. This fine Hiram Walker whiskey has become a mark of warm hospitality in so many homes that today it is one of America's very largest selling brands.

STRIKE BULLETIN NO. 7

In a full page advertisement appearing in Monday's Cumberland, Md., newspapers, the Company once again demonstrated its low regard for the intelligence of Westvaco strikers.

The meeting called in Washington last weekend was not, as the ad says, called by the Union to obtain additional evidence of an unfair labor practice charge against the Company, it was called for the specific purpose of asking the Company to bargain over the terms of the mill reopening at Williamsburg, as Westvaco is required to do by law.

UPA's unfair labor practice charge against Westvaco will be determined by the United States government, not in any paid advertisement in a newspaper. The Union didn't submit its well-documented charge to the Westvaco Publicity Department but to the National Labor Relations Board.

Westvaco implies that the Union is not acting sincerely in bringing its General Counsel to the bargaining table. Yet management has had a lawyer at the bargaining table ever since negotiations started; and Company spokesmen admit that every bargaining session has been discussed with their own legal staff in New York.

While all the parties were in Washington last weekend, the Union took the opportunity to again ask the Company to discuss the issues and bargain in an attempt to reach an honorable settlement and thereby end the strike.

The first answer out of the hat, given by the chief Company spokesman, was that the Company has not changed its position in anyway since the strike started. Certainly this was no example of the flexible give-and-take which is part and parcel of free collective bargaining.

In reply to Union questioning, the Company admitted that employees have coming to them under the cost-of-living at least a cent and one-half or two cents more than the best Company offer so far.

UPA General Counsel Samuel Rothbard termed this revelation "shocking." He told the Company that in every single industry in the Nation, every Company of any substantial size had offered at least the amount due under the cost-of-living and in many cases substantially more.

The Company still insists upon ramming its union-busting terms down our throats.

UPA has conducted this strike in a peaceful and responsible manner, endeavoring by every means available to reach a reasonable and honest settlement. We sincerely call upon the Company to follow this example.

If the Company will act in this manner, we are confident that an agreement can be reached, the strike ended, and differences reconciled to the mutual advantage of the Company, the communities involved and Westvaco employees.

BUCKY WILL BE BACK—The smiles and the pen in hand reveal that Stanley "Bucky" Harris will be back next year to manage the Washington Senators. Clark Griffith, president of the club, puts an arm around Bucky's shoulders as the contract is signed in Washington. The Senators came within a game of getting in the first division this year, and it is believed Harris would be paid about $35,000 a year, or about $10,000 more than he reportedly received the past three seasons.

Musial Makes All-Star Team For Sixth Time

Shantz And Roberts Are Pitchers Named

NEW YORK, Oct. 14 (AP) — The 1952 major league All-Star team, announced today, is almost brand new everywhere except the infield.

Of the four holdovers from 1951, three are infielders—First Baseman Ferris Fain of the Philadelphia Athletics, Second Baseman Jackie Robinson of the Brooklyn Dodgers and Shortstop Phil Rizzuto of the New York Yankees.

The fourth returnee is Stan Musial, St. Louis Cardinal outfielder making the honor team for the sixth time. He has missed only once since the team was first picked in 1946.

The team is picked annually by the Associated Press in a poll of members of the Baseball Writers Association of America.

New York's world champion Yankees placed three men on the 10-man team while the Philadelphia Athletics placed two. No other club was honored with more than one performer.

Completing the infield was Al Rosen, who batted .302 for the Cleveland Indians. Joining Musial in the outfield were Hank Sauer of the Chicago Cubs and Mickey Mantle of the Yankees.

Larry "Yogi" Berra edged out Brooklyn's Roy Campanella for the catchers' spot. His battery mates were solid choices—Bobby Shantz, the Athletics' 24-game winner, and Robin Roberts of the Phillies, who had the season's best record at 28-7.

Shantz received the most votes, getting 70 of the 72 cast. Musial, who also received votes for first base, was on 68 ballots.

The All-Star team:

SECOND—Jackie Robinson, Dodgers .308
THIRD—Al Rosen, Indians .302
SHORTSTOP — Phil Rizzuto, Yankees .253
RIGHT—Stan Musial, Cardinals .336
CENTER—Mickey Mantle, Yankees .331
CATCHER—Larry Yogi Berra, Yankees .273
RIGHTHANDED PITCHER—Robin Roberts, Phillies 28-7
LEFTHANDED PITCHER—Bobby Shantz, Athletics 24-7

Wilhelm Of Giants Heads NL With 2.43

BY BEN OLAN

NEW YORK, Oct. 14 (AP)—Righthanders Allie Reynolds of the New York Yankees and Hoyt Wilhelm, New York Giants' relief specialists, took major league earned run honors for the 1952 season.

Final earned run averages compiled by the Associated Press today disclosed that Reynolds, who posted a 20-8 record, paced American League pitchers with a 2.07 mark. Wilhelm topped National League moundsmen with a 2.43 slate.

It is the first earned run title for Reynolds, an 11-year man. The 34-year-old strong-arm hurler enjoyed the distinction of compiling the most impressive junior loop average since 1946 when Detroit's Hal Newhouser led with 1.94. It was also the seventh time a New York Yankee pitcher captured ERA laurels.

Best Mark Of Career

Reynolds, who permitted 56 earned runs in 244 innings, recorded the lowest earned run average of his career, his previous low being 2.98 with the Cleveland Indians in 1943. Last season, Allie was fifth on the AL list at 3.05.

Frostburg Again Exceeds Quota For Blood Bank

Korean-Bound GI Offers His Aid

FROSTBURG—For the third time in the current program, Frostburg yesterday exceeded its quota of blood during a visit of a Red Cross Regional Bloodmobile.

The quota of 120 pints of blood was reached at 6 p. m. and officials said the drive was expected to go well over the top.

Arrangements were in charge of Mrs. J. C. Cobey and Mrs. Kathleen Todd, co-chairman of the Frostburg branch unit of the American Red Cross.

Officials were well pleased with the operation of the system used yesterday for the first time at the home of Farrady Post No. 24, American Legion.

Prospective donors were received in a room where temperatures were taken and a glass of fruit juice given. They then passed on to the next room, where case histories were taken, and then entered the donor's room. After the blood was taken, the donors were taken to the canteen, where lunch was served, with a nurse in attendance.

Authorities said they were forced to turn down one prospective donor, Pfc. Paul O. Estep, of West Virginia, who volunteered to donate blood as he was passing through this city yesterday.

The young soldier said he was slated for Korean duty soon and wanted to give his blood as it might be needed. He was rejected, however, since he had taken shots recently.

Another prospective donor, a 68-year-old Bittinger woman, was turned down because of her age.

Included in the cases to be taken to the grand jury, are the following: Michael Brannen, charged with having unsanitary conditions at his home on Stony Run, and Clarence Clark Jr., charged with resisting arrest after allegedly beating his wife. Both cases are misdemeanor charged.

Four felony charges, prepared by Prosecutor Hott, are: Elwood Knealey, charged with malicious assault on his wife by shooting; Louis Rizer and Douglas Jones alias Douglas White, charged with breaking and entering the liquor store at Ridgeley; David Clauze, four charges of forgery for passing checks in Keyser; and Mason George, Emma Kate Fadley and Charles Rockwell Jr., grand larceny and breaking and entering the Fort Ashby School for robbery. Frostburg Again Exceeds Quota For Blood Bank

Korean-Bound GI Offers His Aid

FROSTBURG—For the third time in the current program, Frostburg yesterday exceeded its quota of blood during a visit of a Red Cross Regional Bloodmobile.

The quota of 120 pints of blood was reached at 6 p. m. and officials said the drive was expected to go well over the top.

Arrangements were in charge of Mrs. J. C. Cobey and Mrs. Kathleen Todd, co-chairman of the Frostburg branch unit of the American Red Cross.

Officials were well pleased with the operation of the system used yesterday for the first time at the home of Farrady Post No. 24, American Legion.

Prospective donors were received in a room where temperatures were taken and a glass of fruit juice given. They then passed on to the next room, where case histories were taken, and then entered the donor's room. After the blood was taken, the donors were taken to the canteen, where lunch was served, with a nurse in attendance.

Authorities said they were forced to turn down one prospective donor, Pfc. Paul O. Estep, of West Virginia, who volunteered to donate blood as he was passing through this city yesterday.

The young soldier said he was slated for Korean duty soon and wanted to give his blood as it might be needed. He was rejected, however, since he had taken shots recently.

Another prospective donor, a 68-year-old Bittinger woman, was turned down because of her age.

Four Felony Charges Included On Docket

KEYSER—Four felony and two misdemeanor cases, involving nine persons, will be presented to the October Grand Jury next Tuesday in Mineral County Circuit Court, Prosecuting Attorney Donald C. Hott said yesterday.

No date has been set by Judge Ernest A. See for trial hearings although most Mineral County court cases are expected to be disposed of prior to the Grant County term of court which opens shortly after the general election, November 4.

The Mineral County petit jury probably will be called into session immediately following the completion of the grand jury session, Judge See indicated.

Included in the cases to be taken to the grand jury, are the following: Michael Brannen, charged with having unsanitary conditions at his home on Stony Run, and Clarence Clark Jr., charged with resisting arrest after allegedly beating his wife. Both cases are misdemeanor charged.

Four felony charges, prepared by Prosecutor Hott, are: Elwood Knealey, charged with malicious assault on his wife by shooting; Louis Rizer and Douglas Jones alias Douglas White, charged with breaking and entering the liquor store at Ridgeley; David Clauze, four charges of forgery for passing checks in Keyser; and Mason George, Emma Kate Fadley and Charles Rockwell Jr., grand larceny and breaking and entering the Fort Ashby School for robbery. The latter three are suspected, also, in connection with several other local criminal cases and are now being held in Maryland.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 14—(INS)—A very attractive offer has been made by Humphrey Bogart to Ernest Hemingway for "The Old Man Of The Sea." Bogey, who is eager to bring this great story to the screen, has discussed the possibilities with Director Nicholas Ray.

Bogey wants the Hemingway epic for his Sultana independent company, and it seems more than likely that the deal will be closed shortly.

Since "The Old Man Of The Sea" appeared in Life magazine the sale has gone up tremendously. Hemingway has been in no hurry to sell it to the movies since he picked up a nice little piece of change from Life—$40,000 for the first magazine rights.

Dark-eyed, glamorous Mary Sinclair, one of the most beautiful women in America, and her bosses at Paramount have kissed and made up. Nat Holt brought about the reconciliation, so that Mary could have the femme lead opposite Charlton Heston in "Adobe Walls." The entire cast leaves November 8 for Texas on location.

Mary was put on suspension when she refused to come home from Paris. She was the social rage of the French capitol, and when weighed against the attentions of the wealthy French industrialist who was her constant beau, orders from her bosses meant nothing.

The night the earthquake struck San Francisco, it looked as if Hollywood had moved into the theatre to see Danny Kaye. Edie and Bill Goetz and their daughter, Barbara, who goes to school near there, Claire and Al Horwits, the Johnny Greens, the Armand Deutsches were all applauding Danny when the huge chandelier started rocking back and forth.

Danny said, "Think nothing of it, they're just building a new tunnel" —and went right on singing and wisecracking about earthquakes.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random:

Peggy Ann Garner and Pat Nearny are getting to be a nitem. They were at the bullfights in Tijuana.

Although Lana Turner went to Mexico with Frank Sinatra and Ava Gardner, she didn't come back with them. She stayed over an extra evening to dance with Louis Salana, handsome Mexican bullfighter. Cyd Charisse and Tony Martin were also in the party.

Blanche Ring, one of the greatest of the vaudeville headliners, is critically ill in a New York hospital. She's the ex-wife of Charles Winninger, and sister-in-law of the late Mrs. Thomas Meighan.

John Huston faces a damage suit in Paris because his landlord insists that John pay for certain pieces of expensive French furniture allegedly wrecked by the two Huston children.

Mary Castle, the star of "Eight Iron Men" which previews Thursday night, asked Sy Bartlett, who had planned a dinner for her, to buy tickets for some of the soldiers instead. So Sy bought 100 tickets which went to the USO for the vets. A nice gesture.

Eddie Lasker is studying law at UCLA.

Met Neil McCarthy while I was lunching at the Beverly Hills Hotel. He said a piano is needed for the nuns in Formosa, and former Ambassador John Kennedy has offered to buy it. So if you know of an upright in good order, not too expensive, send word to Attorney McCarthy.

I can tell you Joanne Gilbert will be a sensation when she opens at the Mocambo October 28. This child has everything—beauty and a glorious voice. She's the daughter of Songwriter Ray Gilbert, who won an Academy Award for "Zip-A-Dee-Do-Dah."

Mrs. Burt Lancaster gets home Thursday from the Fiji Islands. She cables that Burt is recovering nicely from his recent accident. He was struck by a spear and his head required 17 stitches.

At the Mocambo for Jackie Miles' closing show were Alan Nixon and Babe Blum.

Mrs. Arthur Cameron, the former Kay Aldrich, is recovering from the minor surgery she underwent at Santa Monica Hospital.

At La Rue Joseph Schenck with Bubbles and Arthur Hornblow, Mike Todd and Todd's girl friend, Lorraine Du Monceau De Bergendal. She is Tommy Manville's niece.

The Paul Smalls, who entertained the same night, same place, told me about their new Brentwood home. Lillian Small, who has exquisite taste, is doing the interior decorating, but natch, since that is her business. She also sings and has a very good voice.

That's all today. See you tomorrow!

Nicholas II, murdered by Bolshevists in 1918, was the last czar of Russia.

Ducks' eggs contain more fat than hens' eggs.

DEMOCRATIC PRESIDENTIAL NOMINEE Gov. Adlai Stevenson waves a Maryland State flag as he is greeted in Baltimore by a cheering crowd of 20,000. At right is Sen. Herbert R. O'Conor, of Maryland. In an address in Baltimore's Fifth Regiment Armory, Stevenson told his audience that he would not hesitate to impose tighter wage and price controls if necessary to halt inflation. (International Soundphoto)

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 14—(INS)—A very attractive offer has been made by Humphrey Bogart to Ernest Hemingway for "The Old Man Of The Sea." Bogey, who is eager to bring this great story to the screen, has discussed the possibilities with Director Nicholas Ray.

Bogey wants the Hemingway epic for his Sultana independent company, and it seems more than likely that the deal will be closed shortly.

Since "The Old Man Of The Sea" appeared in Life magazine the sale has gone up tremendously. Hemingway has been in no hurry to sell it to the movies since he picked up a nice little piece of change from Life—$40,000 for the first magazine rights.

Dark-eyed, glamorous Mary Sinclair, one of the most beautiful women in America, and her bosses at Paramount have kissed and made up. Nat Holt brought about the reconciliation, so that Mary could have the femme lead opposite Charlton Heston in "Adobe Walls." The entire cast leaves November 8 for Texas on location.

Mary was put on suspension when she refused to come home from Paris. She was the social rage of the French capitol, and when weighed against the attentions of the wealthy French industrialist who was her constant beau, orders from her bosses meant nothing.

The night the earthquake struck San Francisco, it looked as if Hollywood had moved into the theatre to see Danny Kaye. Edie and Bill Goetz and their daughter, Barbara, who goes to school near there, Claire and Al Horwits, the Johnny Greens, the Armand Deutsches were all applauding Danny when the huge chandelier started rocking back and forth.

Danny said, "Think nothing of it, they're just building a new tunnel" —and went right on singing and wisecracking about earthquakes.

Al Horwits tells me that Danny is just sensational and is getting the same kind of reception he received in London at the Palladium.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random:

Peggy Ann Garner and Pat Nearny are getting to be a nitem. They were at the bullfights in Tijuana.

Although Lana Turner went to Mexico with Frank Sinatra and Ava Gardner, she didn't come back with them. She stayed over an extra evening to dance with Louis Salana, handsome Mexican bullfighter. Cyd Charisse and Tony Martin were also in the party.

Blanche Ring, one of the greatest of the vaudeville headliners, is critically ill in a New York hospital. She's the ex-wife of Charles Winninger, and sister-in-law of the late Mrs. Thomas Meighan.

John Huston faces a damage suit in Paris because his landlord insists that John pay for certain pieces of expensive French furniture allegedly wrecked by the two Huston children.

Mary Castle, the star of "Eight Iron Men" which previews Thursday night, asked Sy Bartlett, who had planned a dinner for her, to buy tickets for some of the soldiers instead. So Sy bought 100 tickets which went to the USO for the vets. A nice gesture.

Eddie Lasker is studying law at UCLA.

Met Neil McCarthy while I was lunching at the Beverly Hills Hotel. He said a piano is needed for the closing show were Alan Nixon and Babe Blum.

Mrs. Arthur Cameron, the former Kay Aldrich, is recovering from the minor surgery she underwent at Santa Monica Hospital.

At La Rue Joseph Schenck with Bubbles and Arthur Hornblow, Mike Todd and Todd's girl friend, Lorraine Du Monceau De Bergendal. She is Tommy Manville's niece.

The Paul Smalls, who entertained the same night, same place, told me about their new Brentwood home. Lillian Small, who has exquisite taste, is doing the interior decorating, but natch, since that is her business. She also sings and has a very good voice.

That's all today. See you tomorrow!

Nicholas II, murdered by Bolshevists in 1918, was the last czar of Russia.

Ducks' eggs contain more fat than hens' eggs.

nuns in Formosa, and former Ambassador John Kennedy has offered to buy it. So if you know of an upright in good order, not too expensive, send word to Attorney McCarthy.

I can tell you Joanne Gilbert will be a sensation when she opens at the Mocambo October 28. This child has everything—beauty and a glorious voice. She's the daughter of Songwriter Ray Gilbert, who won an Academy Award for "Zip-A-Dee-Do-Dah."

Mrs. Burt Lancaster gets home Thursday from the Fiji Islands. She cables that Burt is recovering nicely from his recent accident. He was struck by a spear and his head required 17 stitches.

After that, in order come, "My Little Margie," "What's My Line," Pabst Blue Ribbon Bouts, "Robert Montgomery Presents," "The Best Of Groucho," "Big Town," "Philco TV Playhouse," "Boston Blackie" and "All Star Football." Apart from "My Little Margie" and "Boston Blackie," for which my enthusiasm is dim, that's a pretty respectable list. Of course, this was August and the big comedy shows were off the air.

Still it's heartening to note that "Dragnet," far and away the most honest of the cops and robber shows, leads not only all other whodunits but leads the whole parade. I'm also glad to see two of the hour-long dramatic shows, Philco and Montgomery, well up there. If the public doesn't support the drama shows which are among the best things TV offers, there would not be any. They cost a whale of a lot of money.

In quite another way, it's gratifying to note some absences. Not a single giveaway or audience participation show, no "Break The Banks" or "Big Payoffs," are anywhere around. I hope the advertiser takes heed. The public, I think, showed keen discrimination in its selection of quizzes. "What's My Line" and Groucho are easily the best.

Altogether, the lineup bodes well for public taste.

The summer months were on the whole pretty dreary but they did bring a few unexpected blessings. One was Wally Cox's "Mr. Peepers" which started, I thought, shakily and then got better and better. I was especially fond of one sequence in which Mr. Peepers, the mild little science teacher, encounters the father of one of his most obstreperous pupils. The father was a perfect imitation of Marlon Brando in "Streetcar Named Desire"—a big hulk of bestiality—and the contrast between the two provided a sparkling bit of comedy of a high order, so high you rarely see it on television. As a matter of fact, Peepers is a really solidly drawn character, not a caricature as are so many comedy roles, and he deserves to be a permanent part of our TV roster. The show has been cancelled but I refuse to believe it is leaving us permanently. It's too good to disappear.

Another man I got awfully fond of in the hot months was Al Pearce. Pearce is a gentle comedian with mild, laughing eyes and a mild and winning comedy technique and a wonderful voice. He was on radio for about 20 years. There he first used his comedy character, Elmer Blurt. Blurt is a low pressure door-to-door salesman who hates customers and always prays that no one will answer his ring.

The person who usually answers is Arlene Harris, a tired, aging, irascible and terribly funny blonde who has been with Pearce for roughly a couple of centuries. Her pet hate—if you believe press releases—is gabby women, which is why she portrays them so well. On the Pearce show she gets on the phone with another woman and the ensuing monologue is wonderfully tart, ferociously feminine and terribly funny. If it doesn't remind you of your own wife, it'll remind you of somebody else's.

Besides these two the Pearce show featured comedian Tizzie Lish, Yogi Rorgessen and Art Morton, a singer—all of them personable and talented folk. There were once two Pearce shows—one a morning show on five times a week, one an evening show, both on CBS-TV. Now there aren't any. CBS had planned to put the morning show on in the afternoon but could only clear six stations. So Pearce went back to his prune business in California. It's a damn shame, too. He was a very likeable comedian and had won a wide following.

In quite another way, it's gratifying to note some absences. Not a single giveaway or audience participation show, no "Break The Banks" or "Big Payoffs," are anywhere around. I hope the advertiser takes heed. The public, I think, showed keen discrimination in its selection of quizzes. "What's My Line" and Groucho are easily the best.

Altogether, the lineup bodes well for public taste.

The summer months were on the whole pretty dreary but they did bring a few unexpected blessings. One was Wally Cox's "Mr. Peepers" which started, I thought, shakily and then got better and better. I was especially fond of one sequence in which Mr. Peepers, the mild little science teacher, encounters the father of one of his most obstreperous pupils. The father was a perfect imitation of Marlon Brando in "Streetcar Named Desire"—a big hulk of bestiality—and the contrast between the two provided a sparkling bit of comedy of a high order, so high you rarely see it on television. As a matter of fact, Peepers is a really solidly drawn character, not a caricature as are so many comedy roles, and he deserves to be a permanent part of our TV roster. The show has been cancelled but I refuse to believe it is leaving us permanently. It's too good to disappear.

Another man I got awfully fond of in the hot months was Al Pearce. Pearce is a gentle comedian with mild, laughing eyes and a mild and winning comedy technique and a wonderful voice. He was on radio for about 20 years. There he first used his comedy character, Elmer Blurt. Blurt is a low pressure door-to-door salesman who hates customers and always prays that no one will answer his ring.

The person who usually answers is Arlene Harris, a tired, aging, irascible and terribly funny blonde who has been with Pearce for roughly a couple of centuries. Her pet hate—if you believe press releases—is gabby women, which is why she portrays them so well. On the Pearce show she gets on the phone with another woman and the ensuing monologue is wonderfully tart, ferociously feminine and terribly funny. If it doesn't remind you of your own wife, it'll remind you of somebody else's.

Besides these two the Pearce show featured comedian Tizzie Lish, Yogi Rorgessen and Art Morton, a singer—all of them personable and talented folk. There were once two Pearce shows—one a morning show on five times a week, one an evening show, both on CBS-TV. Now there aren't any. CBS had planned to put the morning show on in the afternoon but could only clear six stations. So Pearce went back to his prune business in California. It's a damn shame, too. He was a very likeable comedian and had won a wide following.

Market Stumbles And Falls Following Promising Start

NEW YORK, Oct. 14 (AP)—The stock market stumbled and fell back today, after a promising start.

Railroads, oils, and coppers were in the forefront of the fall, and almost all sections of the list joined in the decline.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks dropped 50 cents at $106.00 with the industrial component down 40 cents, railroads down 70 cents, and utilities down 10 cents.

There were a few features. Goodrich gained 2½ at 67½. Some gold mining shares were rather heavily traded at times and a few gains were shown. The advantage was lost at the close. Alaska Juneau traded 5,300 shares and closed unchanged at 3, while Natomas traded 3,400 shares and closed unchanged at 6⅜.

Socony-Vacuum was the day's most active issue unchanged at 33⅛ with 21,400 shares traded.

It was followed by Pressed Steel Car off ⅛ at 25, Anaconda off 1⅜ at 38¾, and Columbia Gas up ¼ at 14.

Lower stocks included Southern Railway off ½ at 68, Northern Pacific 1½ at 67¾, United Air Lines ⅝ at 27⅜, American Smelting, 1⅛ at 40⅝, Homestake Mining ¾ at 37, American Woolen ¼ at 26¼, Amerada Petroleum on the transfer of only 1,000 shares 4½ at 188½, U. S. Steel ¼ at 38⅛, Chrysler ½ at 83½, and Emerson Radio ¼ at 13¼.

Because empty space is such a good radio-wave conductor, your transmitter could get all the necessary power from three flashlight batteries.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE—Here's how to work it:
A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

TWO FOR A TRICK LESS

It IS ordinarily easier to take ten tricks at a slightly inadequate major suit trump than eleven tricks with a well supported minor. As a matter of fact, you will find innumerable deals on which three tricks must be lost to top cards. That is why it is sounder, sometimes, to take a moderate chance on the trump suit in those cases where an opponent has crowded your side with a preemptive bid, whether it be an opener or an overcall such as 4-Hearts over 1-Spade.

Market Stumbles And Falls Following Promising Start

NEW YORK, Oct. 14 (AP)—The stock market stumbled and fell back today, after a promising start.

Railroads, oils, and coppers were in the forefront of the fall, and almost all sections of the list joined in the decline.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks dropped 50 cents at $106.00 with the industrial component down 40 cents, railroads down 70 cents, and utilities down 10 cents.

There were a few features. Goodrich gained 2½ at 67½. Some gold mining shares were rather heavily traded at times and a few gains were shown. The advantage was lost at the close. Alaska Juneau traded 5,300 shares and closed unchanged at 3, while Natomas traded 3,400 shares and closed unchanged at 6⅜.

Socony-Vacuum was the day's most active issue unchanged at 33⅛ with 21,400 shares traded.

It was followed by Pressed Steel Car off ⅛ at 25, Anaconda off 1⅜ at 38¾, and Columbia Gas up ¼ at 14.

Lower stocks included Southern Railway off ½ at 68, Northern Pacific 1½ at 67¾, United Air Lines ⅝ at 27⅜, American Smelting, 1⅛ at 40⅝, Homestake Mining ¾ at 27, American Woolen ¼ at 26¼, Amerada Petroleum on the transfer of only 1,000 shares 4½ at 188½, U. S. Steel ¼ at 38⅛, Chrysler ½ at 83½, and Emerson Radio ¼ at 13¼.

TWO FOR A TRICK LESS

It IS ordinarily easier to take ten tricks at a slightly inadequate major suit trump than eleven tricks with a well supported minor. As a matter of fact, you will find innumerable deals on which three tricks must be lost to top cards. That is why it is sounder, sometimes, to take a moderate chance on the trump suit in those cases where an opponent has crowded your side with a preemptive bid, whether it be an opener or an overcall such as 4-Hearts over 1-Spade.

Bids Asked On New School Construction

Two New Projects Planned In County

Bids on two new school construction projects will be received by the Allegany County Board of Education on Tuesday, November 18.

Superintendent Ralph R. Webster said that the Board of Education yesterday approved plans for advertising for bids on a new Ellerslie School and a new shop building at Flintstone High School.

Plans and specifications for the two new jobs have been prepared by S. Russ Minter, local architect.

The new Ellerslie School will be a brick structure with two standard sized classrooms and one larger classroom that can be used for school assemblies as well. It will include built-in cabinets and asphalt tile and will be modern in all respects, according to Minter.

At Flintstone the new building will be used primarily for the vocational agriculture program. However, this one large room can be utilized as an assembly hall. Flintstone's former auditorium has been converted into several classrooms.

The Flintstone building also will have a classroom which will be used for first graders.

Webster hopes that these two new projects can both be completed in time for use next September when the new school year begins.

Strike To Delay Filter Project

A strike at a Southern steel mill may delay the completion of new filters at the Lake Gordon filtration plant.

The deadline was advanced several weeks, to November 15, due to the early difficulties of securing materials.

A lengthy strike at steel mills in Alabama and Tennessee, officials said, has prevented the delivery of heavy pipe and fittings for the new filters. Delivery of the equipment was promised by September 1.

Water Commissioner William J. Edwards said work on the buildings at Lake Gordon will go on as usual but that construction of the filters will have to be halted until the needed heavy equipment arrives.

The George F. Hazelwood Construction Company is general contractor for the $237,210 project which includes the construction of six additional 1,000,000 gallons a day filters and the buildings needed to cover the installation.

LABOR POLITICAL RALLY—Western Maryland labor leaders met last night in the TWUA-CIO hall here for a Maryland Labor Unity Political Rally. They are Harry E. Castle, of Local 26, Rubber Workers Union (CIO), and vice president of the Maryland Industrial Union Council; Roy T. Craze, chairman of Local 1874, Textile Workers Union of America's Legislative committee; Charles C. Webber, director of Political Action for the TWUA in the Upper South; Lester R. McGill, of Local 6, Bricklayers Union (AFL); and president of the Western Maryland Labor Unity Conference; Playford Aldridge, president of Local 1874; J. H. Humbertson, Local 212, Machinists Union (AFL), and Edwin C. Hoffman, legislative representative of Local 440, Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen. Theme of the meeting was "Why all branches of organized labor are supporting the Stevenson-Sparkman ticket."

ADA Finds Only Two Maryland Congressional Candidates It Can Support

BALTIMORE, Oct. 14 (AP)—Maryland's chapter of the Americans for Democratic Action today found it could support only two of the 16 candidates running for Maryland seats in Congress.

It announced it favors the election of Mrs. Stella B. Werner to Western Maryland's Sixth District seat and Rep. Edward A. Garmatz for re-election to his Third District seat, representing East Baltimore.

The ADA reached its conclusions on the basis of answers the candidates made to a questionaire.

Legion Quiz

As the results were announced, the Maryland Department of the American Legion was putting a quiz of its own to the candidates, including the presidential standard bearers of the two major parties.

The Legion is asking among other things, their views on universal military training, preference for veterans for federal jobs, and the work of the House Un-American Activities Committee.

While politics in Maryland looked for a moment like a quiz game, Gov. McKeldin was in Connecticut making a speech in which he declared all Gov. Stevenson would do about Communist infiltration in the United States is "laugh it off."

McKeldin addressed a luncheon meeting of the Republican State Committee of Connecticut. He declared the only way to ensure a real purge of undesirables is to elect Dwight D. Eisenhower.

The American for Democratic Action said they could find neither J. Glenn Beall or George P. Mahoney worthy of their support in the campaign for the U. S. Senate.

The organization's quiz committee said the Republican nominee, Beall, made the least unpalatable replies to its questionnaire. It said his voting record as Sixth District congressman is about 50 per cent liberal.

Mahoney Silent

Mahoney didn't answer the questionnaire. The ADA said the Democratic candidate's campaign speeches suggest he "will never commit himself to a definite stand on any specific issue."

Four of the Republicans running for Maryland's seven seats in the House of Representatives did not answer the ADA questions. They are Edward T. Miller in the First District; Jerry Toula in the Third, Frank Small Jr., in the Fifth; and William Laukaitis in the Seventh.

Daniel H. Burkhardt, state adjutant of the American Legion, explained its questionnaire is simply to elicit information rather than supply the basis for endorsements.

The Legion does not take sides, he said.

When the candidates have replied to the Legion's questions, their answers will be copied and distributed among the 33,800 Maryland members of the Legion.

In his speech at Hartford, Conn McKeldin declared Stevenson condemns congressional investigations into Communist infiltration — "investigations such as that which was pressed by Richard Nixon and which revealed to the American people the dangerous treachery of Alger Hiss."

McKeldin Raps Stevenson

The Democratic nominee, McKeldin said, would depend only on the FBI and the Central Intelligence Agency for future anti-Communist activities.

This is not enough, McKeldin said, adding:

"Stevenson . . . knows or he should know the hands of the FBI and the CIA are tied in far too many instances. He knows because he was a member of the present administration. He worked with Alger Hiss and with others in the State Department and the Department of Agriculture."

Grass Fire Checked

Volunteer firemen of Ridgeley yesterday extinguished a grass fire in an empty lot on Potomac Street. The call was received about 11.20 a. m. No damage was reported.

Mahoney Wins Endorsement Of Labor Here

Conference To Back Democratic Slate

Organized labor of Allegany County will go down the line with the Democratic Party on November 4.

The action was indicated last night when the Maryland Labor Unity Conference endorsed George P. Mahoney as a candidate for the United States Senate.

Paul L. Burley, secretary, said the Unity Conference made the endorsement at its meeting here October 2.

The conference represents AFL, CIO, Brotherhoods and independent unions of Allegany County.

He said the action followed Mahoney's endorsement by the Labor League for Political Education of the Maryland-District of Columbia Federation of Labor.

The Unity Conference had endorsed Mrs. Stella Werner, Democratic candidate for congress from the Sixth District, in the spring primary. It announced some time ago that the endorsement will stand.

This announcement was followed by the endorsement of the Stevenson-Sparkman ticket.

Food Dealers Schedule Acts For Meeting

Seven variety acts have been lined up for the annual dinner meeting of the Independent Retail Food Dealers Association of Western Maryland at 7 p. m. today in St. Mary's Recreation Hall.

Xylophonists, a sleight-of-hand artist, one of America's finest singing teams, a ventriloquist, a couple of Swiss acrobats, two wizards of the harmonica and an unusual dog act all are included in the entertainment.

Unusual xylophone novelties will be offered by Rich and Gibson, a boy and girl act. Del Ray is the sleight-of-hand artist. Stanley Burns is the featured ventriloquist. Billie and Gene Lambart are the Swiss acrobats. The Harmonic-Aires are the boys with harmonicas. Clem Belling and Company is the title for the dog show.

The singers are June Sayer and Ned Smith, billed as America's favorite singing personalities. Upon request they will sing Italian, French, Jewish, German or English songs from their repertoire.

Harry Ort of the Ort Baking Company arranged for the acts through Radio Artists Entertainment Service in Pittsburgh.

Optimist Club To Hear Somerset Pastor

Rev. J. F. Messinger, pastor of First Christian Church, Somerset, Pa., will be guest speaker at a dinner meeting of the Optimist Club of Cumberland today at 6:15 p. m. in Central YMCA.

Rev. Messinger, pastor at Somerset for 24 years, will speak on "The Church's Place In Our Day."

Demo Platform Humanitarian, Labor Is Told

Political Rally Held At TWUA Hall Here

The Democratic platform represents by far the more humanitarian position on domestic and foreign issues, Charles C. Webber, director of Political Action for the TWUA-CIO in the Upper South, declared at a Maryland Labor Unity Political Rally held here last night.

Webber was the principal speaker at the meeting held in Local 1874, Textile Workers Hall, and attended by members of AFL, CIO, Brotherhood and independent unions of this county.

Cites Voting Record

Speaking on the theme, "Why all branches of organized labor are supporting the Stevenson-Sparkman ticket," Webber said a Republican victory would, according to Eisenhower and Taft, bring about a $20 billion cut in the federal budget.

This, he predicted, would result in a curtailment of government orders and precipitate a depression, leading to mass unemployment and the crushing of unions through the Taft-Hartley law.

The CIO, AFL, Brotherhoods and the United Mine Workers, Webber said, are for Stevenson and Sparkman on the basis of voting records.

He characterized Stevenson as a man who would be fair to labor, business and the farmer.

Lester R. McGill, a member of Bricklayers Local 6, AFL, and president of the Maryland Labor Unity Conference, was chairman of the meeting.

Della Is Speaker

Other speakers were J. H. Humbertson, first vice president of the Unity Conference and a member of Local 212, Machinist Union; Edwin C. Hoffman, second vice president of the conference and legislative representative of Lodge 440, Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen.

Paul L. Burley, secretary of the Unity Conference and vice president of the Allegany Trades Council; Harry Castle, a member of Local 26, Rubber Workers Union and vice president of the Maryland Industrial Union Council.

Roy T. Craze, chairman of the Legislative Committee of Local 1874, Textile Workers Union of America (CIO), and Charles Della, secretary-treasurer of the Maryland Industrial Union Council (CIO).

Brief talks were made by leaders of a number of other labor unions of Allegany County.

Compensation Law For Vets Begins Today

Provides Korean Discharge Benefits

Unemployment compensation benefits for veterans of the Korean conflict under the law signed recently by the President, will get under way today, according to Francis A. Kenney, manager of the Cumberland office of the Department of Employment Security.

Kenney said the local office's Unemployment Compensation Division today will begin administering benefits under Title IV of Public Law 550 to all Korean veterans in the area who have been discharged for any reason other than dishonorable.

The new law, similar to the 52-50 law passed for World War II veterans, provides for a $26 payment per week for 26 weeks while seeking employment.

At the same time, the local office's Employment Service Division will administer Title VI of the same law which provides for job counseling and placement for veterans of the Korean conflict.

Kenney pointed out that the benefits are payable under the state law which prevails in the state where the veteran files his claim.

However, a veteran, if eligible, must first draw his state or railroad unemployment benefits before he is entitled to the new veterans unemployment benefits.

Kenney explained that while a Korean veteran is drawing state or railroad unemployment benefits, the new law provides for a supplement payment if the state or railroad benefits does not amount to the maximum veteran new law payment.

To be eligible for the Title IV compensation benefits, a veteran must have had at least 90 days active service after June 26, 1950, and must have been discharged for for any reason other than dishonorable.

Kenney added all veterans applying for the unemployment compensation payments must take to the local office their social security cards and verification of military service and type of discharge.

Any additional information concerning the new Title IV of Public Law 550 may be obtained at the local office of the Department of Employment Security in the Footer Building, South Mechanic Street.

New Indictments Charge Liquor Law Violations

26 Of 35 Placed On Court Docket

Indictments charging five more persons with violation of the alcoholic beverage control laws were placed on the open docket of Allegany County Circuit Court yesterday.

Harry Frost, who formerly operated the Century Athletic Club, 9 Mechanic Street, Frostburg, was indicted on a charge of selling alcoholic beverages while unlicensed to sell or offer for sale any such beverages. The offense allegedly occurred May 10.

Harden Charged

Another indictment docketed yesterday charges John E. Harden, licensed to sell beer and light wine at premises on Columbia Avenue in Mt. Savage, with unlawfully keeping alcoholic beverages not purchased from a duly licensed manufacturer or wholesaler. Another count in the indictment said that Harden sold a quantity of whisky. The offense allegedly occurred September 11.

Norman Anderson and Thelma Anderson, operators of a grocery and tavern at Zihlman, were each indicted for the sale of alcoholic beverages after hours. The witness against the couple was Roy Drumm, inspector for the Board of License Commissioners for Allegany County.

Woman Indicted

Eleanor Jackson, licensee of the Cotton Club in Frostburg, was indicted for the sale of alcoholic beverages on Sunday. The establishment is patronized mainly by Negroes and the incident mentioned in the indictment occurred several months ago.

Edward Capel was indicted on a bookie charge in connection with the case against the Queen City Billards, 19 North Liberty Street. Two other men, Leonard Little and Thomas Neff, were also indicted on bookie counts in the case.

Associate Judge George Henderson announced yesterday that traversers will be arraigned in court today at 9:15 a. m. Counsel will be appointed for those who cannot afford an attorney.

Twenty-six of the 35 indictments returned by the October grand jury now have been placed on the open docket.

Brother Fined $25 In Fatal Road Accident

James C. Puffinburger, Points, W. Va., was fined $25 yesterday in Romney for hazardous driving in connection with a highway accident in which his brother was fatally injured.

The victim, Carl Wilson Puffinburger, 25, of Green Spring, W. Va., died as a result of injuries suffered when he was accidently struck by an auto driven by his brother October 5 on Route 28 near Blue Beach Tavern.

Justice of the Peace A. L. Russell, also county coroner, said an investigation conducted by him and Prosecuting Attorney Ralph W. Haines proved the mishap was accidental. Approximately eight witnesses were questioned by the investigators.

However, Haines charged the brother with hazardous driving and at a hearing yesterday afternoon James C. Puffinburger pleaded guilty to the charge.

According to Russell, the two brothers were together at Blue Beach Tavern. The victim left early and was walking down Route 28 toward Fort Ashby when his brother got in his car and intended to pick him up on the way.

Russell said the brother apparently did not see the pedestrian and struck him about 100 yards from the tavern. The driver told Russell he saw his brother walking about three or four feet in front of his car but he was unable to turn the machine fast enough to avoid hitting him.

The victim died of a fractured skull on the way to a hospital a few minutes after he was placed in a Romney ambulance.

Chest Drive Budget Set At $100,977.76

Drive For Funds To Begin In November

A goal of $100,977.76 for member agencies and operating expenses of Cumberland Community Chest has been approved by the board of directors.

In addition, the board meeting held at the Chest office in the Liberty Trust Building, approved a $5,000 goal for the United Defense (USO) which will be subscribed partially in both the city and county.

The combined totals bring to $105,977.76 the amount sought for the 1952-53 campaign which is slated to open early in November. Campaign offices were opened Monday in the Union Street County Building with Edwin M. Brown of Beaver Associates in charge.

$5,378.28 More For Members

This year's goal for member agencies and operating expenses is $5,378.28 more than the $95,599.48 quota set up for the previous year. But the amount asked for the USO is $4,560 less than the $9,560 sought for 1951-52.

Following are requests of the member agencies with the 1952-53 award made by the budget committee:

	1952-53 Request	1952-53 Award
Associated Charities	$ 26,968.00	$ 24,000.00
Baby Welfare Soc...	2,790.00	2,600.00
Boy Scouts	8,000.00	7,750.00
Girl Scouts	8,272.00	7,650.00
Jewish Welfare Soc.	1.00	1.00
Keating Day Nurs...	5,883.00	5,300.00
Salvation Army....	15,646.00	13,000.00
Travelers Aid Soc...	2,000.00	1,550.00
Central YMCA	21,208.94	20,700.00
Agencies Total	$ 90,768.94	$ 82,551.00
Adminis. Expense ..	4,743.30	4,743.30
Campaign Exp.	7,615.00	7,615.00
Shrinkage—6½% ...	6,641.39	6,068.46
TOTAL	$109,768.63	$100,977.76

Arthur B. Gibson, city auditor, and chairman of the Chest budget committee, said in his report to George L. Buchanan, president, that his group was deeply impressed with the wise manner in which funds for the past year were spent; and it was in full sympathy with agencies in their desire for more funds to meet increased demands for services. However, he continued, the committee realized there was a limit to the amount that could be raised in the campaign.

Direct Relief Cut

Gibson added that greater reductions were made in requests of agencies dispensing direct relief rather than those of character building organizations.

"This was not done because the needs of the former were not legitimate needs, but because an ever increasing enrollment in our character building agencies necessitates larger expenditures of money each year. In this critical period in our national history that demand must be met, as far as it is possible to do so, if America is to survive," Gibson said.

The amended budgets, he pointed out, give increases to all agencies over last year with the exception of the Jewish Welfare Society which requested only a token award.

Figures show that the budget committee sliced requests by $8,790.87.

In addition to Gibson, members of the budget group are Mrs. Emma Everstine, John L. Conway, Harry C. Landis, George W. Lucas, William Plummer, T. Donald Shires and John G. Thomas.

Bids Asked On New School Construction

Two New Projects Planned In County

Bids on two new school construction projects will be received by the Allegany County Board of Education on Tuesday, November 18.

Superintendent Ralph R. Webster said that the Board of Education yesterday approved plans for advertising for bids on a new Ellerslie School and a new shop building at Flintstone High School.

Plans and specifications for the two new jobs have been prepared by S. Russ Minter, local architect.

The new Ellerslie School will be a brick structure with two standard sized classrooms and one larger classroom that can be used for school assemblies as well. It will include built-in cabinets and asphalt tile and will be modern in all respects, according to Minter.

At Flintstone the new building will be used primarily for the vocational agriculture program. However, this one large room can be utilized as an assembly hall. Flintstone's former auditorium has been converted into several classrooms.

The Flintstone building also will have a classroom which will be used for first graders.

Webster hopes that these two new projects can both be completed in time for use next September when the new school year begins.

Strike To Delay Filter Project

A strike at a Southern steel mill may delay the completion of new filters at the Lake Gordon filtration plant.

The deadline was advanced several weeks, to November 15, due to the early difficulties of securing materials.

A lengthy strike at steel mills in Alabama and Tennessee, officials said, has prevented the delivery of heavy pipe and fittings for the new filters. Delivery of the equipment was promised by September 1.

Water Commissioner William J. Edwards said work on the buildings at Lake Gordon will go on as usual but that construction of the filters will have to be halted until the needed heavy equipment arrives.

The George F. Hazelwood Construction Company is general contractor for the $237,210 project which includes the construction of six additional 1,000,000 gallons a day filters and the buildings needed to cover the installation.

ADA Finds Only Two Maryland Congressional Candidates It Can Support

BALTIMORE, Oct. 14 (AP)—Maryland's chapter of the Americans for Democratic Action today found it could support only two of the 16 candidates running for Maryland seats in Congress.

It announced it favors the election of Mrs. Stella B. Werner to Western Maryland's Sixth District seat and Rep. Edward A. Garmatz for re-election to his Third District seat, representing East Baltimore.

The ADA reached its conclusions on the basis of answers the candidates made to a questionaire.

Legion Quiz

As the results were announced, the Maryland Department of the American Legion was putting a quiz of its own to the candidates, including the presidential standard bearers of the two major parties.

The Legion is asking among other things, their views on universal military training, preference for veterans for federal jobs, and the work of the House Un-American Activities Committee.

While politics in Maryland looked for a moment like a quiz game, Gov. McKeldin was in Connecticut making a speech in which he declared all Gov. Stevenson would do about Communist infiltration in the United States is "laugh it off."

McKeldin addressed a luncheon meeting of the Republican State Committee of Connecticut. He declared the only way to ensure a real purge of undesirables is to elect Dwight D. Eisenhower.

The American for Democratic Action said they could find neither J. Glenn Beall or George P. Mahoney worthy of their support in the campaign for the U. S. Senate.

The organization's quiz committee said the Republican nominee, Beall, made the least unpalatable replies to its questionnaire. It said his voting record as Sixth District congressman is about 50 per cent liberal.

Mahoney Silent

Mahoney didn't answer the questionnaire. The ADA said the Democratic candidate's campaign speeches suggest he "will never commit himself to a definite stand on any specific issue."

Four of the Republicans running for Maryland's seven seats in the House of Representatives did not answer the ADA questions. They are Edward T. Miller in the First District; Jerry Toula in the Third, Frank Small Jr., in the Fifth; and William Laukaitis in the Seventh.

Daniel H. Burkhardt, state adjutant of the American Legion, explained its questionnaire is simply to elicit information rather than supply the basis for endorsements.

The Legion does not take sides, he said.

When the candidates have replied to the Legion's questions, their answers will be copied and distributed among the 33,800 Maryland members of the Legion.

In his speech at Hartford, Conn McKeldin declared Stevenson condemns congressional investigations into Communist infiltration — "investigations such as that which was pressed by Richard Nixon and which revealed to the American people the dangerous treachery of Alger Hiss."

McKeldin Raps Stevenson

The Democratic nominee, McKeldin said, would depend only on the FBI and the Central Intelligence Agency for future anti-Communist activities.

This is not enough, McKeldin said, adding:

"Stevenson . . . knows or he should know the hands of the FBI and the CIA are tied in far too many instances. He knows because he was a member of the present administration. He worked with Alger Hiss and with others in the State Department and the Department of Agriculture."

Grass Fire Checked

Volunteer firemen of Ridgeley yesterday extinguished a grass fire in an empty lot on Potomac Street. The call was received about 11.20 a. m. No damage was reported.

Mahoney Wins Endorsement Of Labor Here

Conference To Back Democratic Slate

Organized labor of Allegany County will go down the line with the Democratic Party on November 4.

The action was indicated last night when the Maryland Labor Unity Conference endorsed George P. Mahoney as a candidate for the United States Senate.

Paul L. Burley, secretary, said the Unity Conference made the endorsement at its meeting here October 2.

The conference represents AFL, CIO, Brotherhoods and independent unions of Allegany County.

He said the action followed Mahoney's endorsement by the Labor League for Political Education of the Maryland-District of Columbia Federation of Labor.

The Unity Conference had endorsed Mrs. Stella Werner, Democratic candidate for congress from the Sixth District, in the spring primary. It announced some time ago that the endorsement will stand.

This announcement was followed by the endorsement of the Stevenson-Sparkman ticket.

Food Dealers Schedule Acts For Meeting

Seven variety acts have been lined up for the annual dinner meeting of the Independent Retail Food Dealers Association of Western Maryland at 7 p. m. today in St. Mary's Recreation Hall.

Xylophonists, a sleight-of-hand artist, one of America's finest singing teams, a ventriloquist, a couple of Swiss acrobats, two wizards of the harmonica and an unusual dog act all are included in the entertainment.

Unusual xylophone novelties will be offered by Rich and Gibson, a boy and girl act. Del Ray is the sleight-of-hand artist. Stanley Burns is the featured ventriloquist. Billie and Gene Lambart are the Swiss acrobats. The Harmonic-Aires are the boys with harmonicas. Clem Belling and Company is the title for the dog show.

The singers are June Sayer and Ned Smith, billed as America's favorite singing personalities. Upon request they will sing Italian, French, Jewish, German or English songs from their repertoire.

Harry Ort of the Ort Baking Company arranged for the acts through Radio Artists Entertainment Service in Pittsburgh.

Optimist Club To Hear Somerset Pastor

Rev. J. F. Messinger, pastor of First Christian Church, Somerset, Pa., will be guest speaker at a dinner meeting of the Optimist Club of Cumberland today at 6:15 p. m. in Central YMCA.

Rev. Messinger, pastor at Somerset for 24 years, will speak on "The Church's Place In Our Day."

Political Rally Held At TWUA Hall Here

The Democratic platform represents by far the more humanitarian position on domestic and foreign issues, Charles C. Webber, director of Political Action for the TWUA-CIO in the Upper South, declared at a Maryland Labor Unity Political Rally held here last night.

Webber was the principal speaker at the meeting held in Local 1874, Textile Workers Hall, and attended by members of AFL, CIO, Brotherhood and independent unions of this county.

Cites Voting Record

Speaking on the theme, "Why all branches of organized labor are supporting the Stevenson-Sparkman ticket," Webber said a Republican victory would, according to Eisenhower and Taft, bring about a $20 billion cut in the federal budget.

This, he predicted, would result in a curtailment of government orders and precipitate a depression, leading to mass unemployment and the crushing of unions through the Taft-Hartley law.

The CIO, AFL, Brotherhoods and the United Mine Workers, Webber said, are for Stevenson and Sparkman on the basis of voting records.

He characterized Stevenson as a man who would be fair to labor, business and the farmer.

Lester R. McGill, a member of Bricklayers Local 6, AFL, and president of the Maryland Labor Unity Conference, was chairman of the meeting.

Della Is Speaker

Other speakers were J. H. Humbertson, first vice president of the Unity Conference and a member of Local 212, Machinist Union; Edwin C. Hoffman, second vice president of the conference and legislative representative of Lodge 440, Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen.

Paul L. Burley, secretary of the Unity Conference and vice president of the Allegany Trades Council; Harry Castle, a member of Local 26, Rubber Workers Union and vice president of the Maryland Industrial Union Council.

Roy T. Craze, chairman of the Legislative Committee of Local 1874, Textile Workers Union of America (CIO), and Charles Della, secretary-treasurer of the Maryland Industrial Union Council (CIO).

Brief talks were made by leaders of a number of other labor unions of Allegany County.

Arthur B. Gibson, city auditor, and chairman of the Chest budget committee, said in his report to George L. Buchanan, president, that his group was deeply impressed with the wise manner in which funds for the past year were spent; and it was in full sympathy with agencies in their desire for more funds to meet increased demands for services. However, he continued, the committee realized there was a limit to the amount that could be raised in the campaign.

Direct Relief Cut

Gibson added that greater reductions were made in requests of agencies dispensing direct relief rather than those of character building organizations.

"This was not done because the needs of the former were not legitimate needs, but because an ever increasing enrollment in our character building agencies necessitates larger expenditures of money each year. In this critical period in our national history that demand must be met, as far as it is possible to do so, if America is to survive," Gibson said.

The amended budgets, he pointed out, give increases to all agencies over last year with the exception of the Jewish Welfare Society which requested only a token award.

Figures show that the budget committee sliced requests by $8,790.87.

In addition to Gibson, members of the budget group are Mrs. Emma Everstine, John L. Conway, Harry C. Landis, George W. Lucas, William Plummer, T. Donald Shires and John G. Thomas.
